SACRIFICED MARRIAGE FOR WAR

Once-Divorced Pilot Returns To Family A Decorated Hero

GLADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — An Army helicopter pilot has returned home with no regrets about his year in Vietnam, or about the divorce he went through to get the assignment.

Warrant Officer Franklin D. Beggs, 27, divorced his wife two years ago so he could meet Army requirements and fulfill a desire to do his part in the war. They remarried after his wings were assured.

Beggs brought home the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with 16 Oak Leaf clusters, the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart, plus a scar from a shrapnel wound.

Neither Linda nor her husband believed in divorce — and still don't. But Beggs had two many dependents with his wife and son, Mark, to enlist in the Army and do his bit in Vietnam. Divorce was the only answer, both agreed, and it was done.

After a year of flying the helicopters — five months in troop carriers and seven months as pilot of a gunship — he is a veteran of 850 missions.

On hand to greet him at the airport yesterday were Mark and Linda and his second son, Danny, 16 months old, who was born after the saga began.

Neither Beggs nor his wife regrets the sacrifices they have made for that year in Vietnam.

"I'm glad I went for I found out a lot of things about myself," Beggs said. "Glad to be home? Sure I am."

Linda says "it's been an awfully lonely year, but I'd do the same thing over again if that were the only way."

Beggs received a shrapnel wound on a combat mission July 27, ground fire coming through the ship to "nick" him.

What's on the schedule next?

"Rest and plenty of it," Beggs said. After three weeks' leave he reports to Fort Stewart, Ga.

Another tour of duty in Vietnam? Beggs hopes not. "It'll be a year before I'm reassigned there," he said, "and as of right now, I'm certainly not volunteering for another tour."

Dove Claims Defense Lobby Hatches Hawks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a critic of the Vietnam war, says some senators from states with big defense industries are feeling the prod to support the war, but he does not pinpoint who is doing the prodding.

"I don't say they don't believe what they're saying" about the war, Aiken said in an interview. "But some of our boys are under pressure." He did not elaborate.

Two other war critics said yesterday in separate statements that a "military-industrial complex" was dominant in U.S. affairs.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in Senate debate on the billion-dollar programs for space and development of a supersonic transport that a "large military-industrial complex" dominates Congress.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., like Fulbright and Aiken a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, urged Senate conferees to stand firm on cutbacks in U.S. military aid programs, saying: "All we in the Senate are trying to do is put some kind of limit on the power of the military-industrial complex to control the foreign policy of this nation."

"It's not only getting close to the election but close to campaign contribution time," he said. "States like California and Washington depend on the war industry—I think they prefer to call it defense procurement—for a good portion of their economy."

He noted that California Republican Sens. George Murphy and Thomas H. Kuchel, and Washington Democratic Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Warren

Tougher State Smog Law Urged

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An Assembly committee hearing into the problem of air pollution today was to hear testimony from research scientists and various smog control organizations as it wound up a two-day meeting.

During yesterday's hearing, county air pollution control district officer Louis P. Fuller and Eric P. Grant, executive officer of the State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, joined together in calling upon the state to preserve the right to pass tougher smog control legislation than may be approved by congress.

Grant told the Committee on Transportation and Commerce that the legislation presently before Congress allows" the interest of Detroit to previal over the interests of 20 million people in the state of California."

FUND FREEZE NOT HURTING MARIN PLANS

The Freeze in Defense Department spending ordered yesterday will not affect any projects of the Army Corps of Engineers in Marin County and probably none in the military bases.

The Corte Madera Creek flook control contract has been let and will not be cancelled according to Lt. Col. Frank C. Boerger, district engineer for the Corps of Engineers. The Saucilito Canal and Novato Creek projects are just in the planning stages, and the planning funds were not affected, Colonel Boerger said.

The Sixth Army has no projects at Forts Baker or Cronkite which will be affected, according to officials.

At Hamilton Air Force Base, the information was not available because no directive had reached the base yet, according to base officals. The base has several barracks under construction.

20 Arrests In Narcotics Raids

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Twenty people were arrested last night in raids on apartments in the Haight-Ashbury district.

The sweep was made by 11 state narcotics agents and a number of city police inspectors, who said they confiscated 53 kilos of marijuana.

In one place, the raiders said they found 18 young persons, five of them girls, seated on cushions and mattresses, passing around marijuana cigarettes.

The officers also found $2,300 in cash in the apartment of a sailor, James Upshaw, listed as absent without leave. He was booked on charges of possession and sale of marijuana.

LBJ Padlocks Porkbarrel To Get Tax Boost

Military Spending Freeze Set Until Congress Consents

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON—President Johnson is mounting a massive squeeze play on Congress, clamping down on politically popular spending projects to get the lawmakers to make the money-saving cuts they talk about and pass his tax increase.

The President laid down what amounted to a challenge yesterday during a hastily organized news conference in his White House office. He said that every day's delay on his proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge was costing the government $20 million in rising prices—inflation—and interest rates.

TAX SHELVED

The House Ways and Means Committee voted Monday to shelve the tax measure until Johnson and Congress could get together on cuts in federal spending to the tune of about $5 billion.

But the Chief Executive said he could not "exercise an intelligent decision" on spending reductions until Congress decides where it wants him to trim appropriations.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, citing the "uncertain state of federal finances," first announced a freeze on contract awards for all new military construction, starting Monday. Affected immediately would be an estimated $3.5 billion in projects approved by Congress last year and in prior budgets, but for which contracts have not been awarded.

FREEZE PRAISED

Later, Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor halted "until further notice" all new contract awards in the $1.29 billion civil works program, familiarly known on Capitol Hill as the "porkbarrel" program, affecting nearly every state.

The public works freeze drew praise from Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, as "the kind of thing that's required."

The stalemate over who should cut spending involves in part the determination by Congress not to be saddled with the blame for such cuts.

Byrnes cautioned, however, that the freeze could be lifted at any time since the money for such Army Engineers civil projects as flood-control d ams,

Laborites Ask Racism Checks

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — British Laborites called on the government today to outlaw racial discrimination, which they said is spreading throughout the country.

Debate during the windup session of the ruling party's annual convention ended with unanimous passage of a resolution expressing concern at the extent of discrimination in employment, housing, insurance and other services.

It also urged new laws to promote "equal opportunity without regard to race, color or ethnic or national origins."

Dec. 7 Deadline Is Handed Legislature

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — California's Congressional districts must be reapportioned by Dec. 7, or the court will do the job itself the state Supreme Court ruled today.

Chief Justice Roger J. Traynor, in a unanimous ruling, said Gov. Ronald Reagan should call a special session of the Legislature to reapportion.

If the Legislature does not enact a "valid" reapportionment plan by Dec. 7, "the court will order into effect a plan it deems appropriate," Traynor wrote.

The ruling was in response to suits filed by Phill and Abe Vickter of Los Angeles, asking the court to order reapportionment.

Their plan would slice central and southern Marin voters out of the first Congressional District and lump them wtih the San Francisco's sixth district now represented by Rep. William S. Maillard, a Republican.

Only the nine districts which deviate from the "ideal" population of 414,000 need be reapportioned now, Traynor said. The First ongressional District is 28.9 per cent too large on the basis of the 1960 census, he noted.

The "ideal" district has 1/38 of the national 1960 census population, or about 414,000 persons.

The Legislature this summer asked the court to delay reapportionment until after the 1970 census on the grounds that one out of five persons in the state in 1967 was not here in 1960. The state constitution requires that districts be reapportioned on the basis of the last federal census.

Traynor said further delay could not be permitted under the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote edict. "The practical difficulties" of reapportionment cannot justify malapportionment, he said.

Both houses of Congress have passed a bill that would limit deviations to 15 per cent before 1970 and to five per cent after them.

Any proposed reapportionment plan should be presented to the court not later than Nov. 10, Traynor said, and objections to any plan must be filed by Nov. 27.

The court will review any reapportionment plan that the Legislature may enact, Traynor said.

$1.7 Million In Notes Misplaced

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City banks and financial institutions checked their securities lists today—looking for $1.7 million in missing U. S. Treasury notes that apparently were misplaced during a Wall Street bank transfer.

One of the notes is for $1 million and the others for $100,000 each. They are payable to the bearer and thus readily negotiable but one bank spokesman said that in practice it would be difficult for anyone to cash them.

U.S. Photos Show DMZ Devastation

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON—The U.S. Command released today a series of Air Force photographs showing massive B-52 saturation bombing raids have devastated parts of the deminitarized zone to an extend previously unheralded in the Vietnam war.

But officers said the Communist threat to South Vietnam's northern areas still is there.

Other pictures indicated that North Vietnamese gunners were using abandoned villages in the DMZ as base camps to fire artillery and mortars on U.S. Marine outposts. The B52 raided one of the fortified villages last month.

One set of photos showed an area of the DMZ in mid-July, early in the series of B52 strikes. The raids were intensified in mid-August in efforts to check a Communist buildup and later to take pressure off the Marine outpost of Con Thien, which was under artillery siege. This set showed areas of lush green foliage broken by widely scattered bomb craters. A photo taken after more than 10 million pounds of bombs were dropped on the DMZ in nearly 100 raids showed a solid white mass of craters.

The Communist artillery siege of Con Thien lifted 11 days ago. Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., commander of U.S. Marines in Vietnam, said: "We've destroyed a number of guns. But they still have some. I think they move artillery frequently and have disposed it in various areas. There is no question that our bombing efforts have hampered their supplies in addition

Ethridge

Ethridge, who has just returned after nine weeks in Vietnam, says in a report published in the Free Press that the report from the political arm of the Viet Cong is not one to make Hanoi reel in pleasure.

Ethridge said the NLF report envisions the reunification of North and South Vietnam, as did the Geneva agreements, but does so on the basis of uniting two equal halves.

The report calls for reunification "step by step and through peaceful means on the principle of negotiation between the two zones without either side using pressure against the other and without foreign influence."

No Solution In Sight As Ford Strike Drags

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union strike against Ford Motor Co. reached its 30th day today, becoming the fifth longest national strike auto industry history.

The strike has affected segments of the nation's economy. No settlement is in sight.

NO AGREEMENT

Labor contract negotiations that began 118 days ago, on July 11, have produced no agreement on any section of the contract.

At 30 days, this strike's length is exceeded only by the 44-day strike that gained bargaining rights for the UAW at General Motors in 1937, the 45-day strike at Chrysler in 1939, the 104-day walkout against Chrysler in 1950 and the 118-day strike against GM in 1945-46.

ONLY CHANGE

Neither side has budged from its position on any topic except one, the relatively minor issue of apprenticeship programs. Ford made the move, giving proposals that respond to the union demand for changes in the programs.

"It is the first movement we've had," said Walter P. Reuther, UAW president.

While the strike lengthens, problems intensify for some of the 160,000 strikers in the 25 states where Ford has facilities, particularly in Michigan where 90,000 of them live. Businesses, large and small, also have been hurt.

The Budd Co., which supplies Ford with more parts than any other firm, has laid off a few workers in Gary, Ind., 450 in Detroit and 1,800 in Pittsburgh, Pa. Ford is Budd's main customer.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said the first month of the strike had cost it $1 million.

Trucking companies have lost business because Ford is not building cars for the truckers to haul. E. & L. Transport Co. said it has 500 drivers, mechanics and office personnel on layoff in Detroit and Lorain, Ohio. Automotive Transport Inc. in Detroit has about 425 on layoff, a spokesman said.

The strike also has drained the union's $67 million strike fund of $16 million in strike benefit payments of $20 a week to the unmarried striker, $25 a week to the ones who are married and $30 a week to those with spouse and children.

Campus Greeks Oppose Chapter Discrimination

BERKELEY (AP) — Leaders of fraternity and sorority groups on the University of California campus here have approved a resolution opposing discrimination and calling for autonomy of campus chapters in choosing their members.

Tim Klement, president of the Interfraternity Council, said yesterday the resolution is being circulated among campus chapters for their endorsement.

The resolution, Klement said, especially opposes any alumni control over membership—a requirement in some national fraternities and sororities.

Klement added that the resolution formally expresses a policy that most of the fraternities and sororities on the Berkeley campus have been following.

Ends Life Calmly In Molten Iron

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Authorities today sought the identity of a young man who calmly stepped into a vat of molten iron at a foundry just minutes after an unsuccessful attempt to "make an impression" in 18 inches of liquid concrete.

The victim, described as about 28 years old, "refined appearing," and tall and skinny, first attracted the attention of a telephone company supervisor yesterday.

William Nicolini told police the young man jumped into a parked truck containing 18-inch-deep liquid cement. Nicolini pulled him out, but was told:

"Leave me alone—I'm trying to make an impression."

The telephone supervisor said the young man then wiped the wet cement from his face and walked away.

A few minutes later employees eating lunch at the Pacific Foundry Co. said they saw a man with "a strangely white appearance" enter the plant and approach a three-foot-deep vat containing iron heated to 2600 degrees.

They said he paced around the vat a moment, walked onto a small platform beside it, and stepped into the molten iron. Red - hot metal sprayed for 30 feet around as the cooler body made contact with the contents of the vat.

Picnic Plans

The Marin Estate Homeowners Association, Corte Madera, last night made final plans for the group's annual picnic for members and families Sunday starting at 11 a.m. at Paradise Park.

Astronaut Killed As Fiery Jet Falls

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An American astronaut who said he wanted to be first on the moon and specialized in the craft that will make the trip was killed yesterday when his T38 jet trainer plowed into a hilltop near the Florida-Georgia border.

MAJ. CLIFTON C. WILLIAMS

SOLO FLIGHT

Marine Corps Maj. Clifton C. Williams Jr., 35, a member of the nation's third generation of astronauts, was flying alone from Cape Kennedy to Houston Manned Space Center by way of Mobile, Ala., where his father was reported ill.

Williams radioed the distress mayday signal about 2 p.m., and 10 minutes later a helicopter rescue crew from Moody Air Force Base at nearby Valdosta, Ga., arrived at the scene

"The plane disintegrated and the body disintegrated with it," said Air Force Maj. Joe Johnson of Moody.

PLANE PLUNGED

Johnson said the fiery plane dove down so straight it singed trees but plunged between pines 100 feet apart without touching them.

A board of inquiry headed by the first American spaceman, Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard, was named to investigate the crash.

The closest Williams came to rocketing into space was as backup pilot for last year's Gemini 10 mission. Since then he had specialized in working on the Lunar Module, the craft that is to carry two Apollo astronauts to a landing on the moon.

Like the other astronauts, Williams was eager for space flight.

"I'd like to go on every one," Williams had said. "Of course, if you said which mission I would most like to have, I'd say the first lunar flight you can make from the standpoint of personal satisfaction and accomplishment."

Williams and his wife, the former Jane Elizabeth Lansche of New Bern, N.C., had one child, Catherine Ann, born in January.

Mrs. Williams was at a luncheon at the home of the neighbors in Dickinson, Tex., when astronaut Jack Lousma and his wife brought her word of her husband's death.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton C. Williams of Mobile, Ala., were making plans to fly to Houston to be with his widow and child.

Miller Raps Reagan Rule As 'Dramatic'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State Sen. George Miller Jr. today charged Gov. Ronald Reagan with showboating mismanagement of the California State government's budget that will produce a $200 million deficit in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Republican Reagan has compounded the budget difficulties "by dramatic gestures to create the illusion that he could reduce the cost of government," declared Miller, Martinez Democrat.

Miller heads the Senate Finance Committee and the Joint Legislative Budget Study Committee.

DRAMA STAGED

In a speech prepared for a Commonwealth Club luncheon, Miller declared that Reagan had staged a drama of budget-slashing announcements during his first month in office, including a 10 per cent across-the-board cut on most general fund support spending.

But, Miller said, the result of Reagan's first year in office is a $944 million state tax increase, the largest in the nation's history.

BUDGET UP

He said the state's budget has been boosted by $415 million to more than $5 billion, the nation's highest.

"My verdict on this drama is that it is a series of isolated episodes lacking plan, policy, development or study," Miller declared.

"Is this a new style of politics based on selective, carefully timed issues calculated to capture the public imagination?"

Miller then declared: "Government by TV and press conference may delay the day of reckoning while deep problems are compounded."

INCOME TAX

When budget balancing finally compelled state income tax increases along with other state tax boosts, Miller said Reagan froze into a cataleptic posture against personal income tax withholding.

"I fail to see the ethical distinction between withholding on a monthly basis and the governor's semiannual prepayments," Miller said.

Miller declared that Reagan had demonstrated a contempt for the Legislature's labors on the budget by vetoing items totaling $43 million.

He said this represented a grievous mistake in its affect on the constitutional balance between the executive and legislative branches.

He declared Democratic and Republican legislators spend thousand of hours on budget scrutiny. As a result of the governor's actions, Miller declared, "I am sorely concerned with this arbitrary, capricious posture which I fear derives from public relations rather than from an understanding of basic budgetary procedures and the needs of the state of California."

Miller Raps Reagan Rule As 'Dramatic'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State Sen. George Miller Jr. today charged Gov. Ronald Reagan with showboating mismanagement of the California State government's budget that will produce a $200 million deficit in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Republican Reagan has compounded the budget difficulties "by dramatic gestures to create the illusion that he could reduce the cost of government," declared Miller, Martinez Democrat.

Miller heads the Senate Finance Committee and the Joint Legislative Budget Study Committee.

DRAMA STAGED

In a speech prepared for a Commonwealth Club luncheon, Miller declared that Reagan had staged a drama of budget-slashing announcements during his first month in office, including a 10 per cent across-the-board cut on most general fund support spending.

But, Miller said, the result of Reagan's first year in office is a $944 million state tax increase, the largest in the nation's history.

BUDGET UP

He said the state's budget has been boosted by $415 million to more than $5 billion, the nation's highest.

"My verdict on this drama is that it is a series of isolated episodes lacking plan, policy, development or study," Miller declared.

"Is this a new style of politics based on selective, carefully timed issues calculated to capture the public imagination?"

Miller then declared: "Government by TV and press conference may delay the day of reckoning while deep problems are compounded."

INCOME TAX

When budget balancing finally compelled state income tax increases along with other state tax boosts, Miller said Reagan froze into a cataleptic posture against personal income tax withholding.

"I fail to see the ethical distinction between withholding on a monthly basis and the governor's semiannual prepayments," Miller said.

Miller declared that Reagan had demonstrated a contempt for the Legislature's labors on the budget by vetoing items totaling $43 million.

He said this represented a grievous mistake in its affect on the constitutional balance between the executive and legislative branches.

He declared Democratic and Republican legislators spend thousand of hours on budget scrutiny. As a result of the governor's actions, Miller declared, "I am sorely concerned with this arbitrary, capricious posture which I fear derives from public relations rather than from an understanding of basic budgetary procedures and the needs of the state of California."

In the war itself today, American warplanes battled through swarms of Communist MIG jet interceptors to bomb previously untouched fuel dumps, destroy a bridge and silence at least 20 antiaircraft sites in one of the heaviest raids of the war on the vital North Vietnamese port of Haiphong.

The raids in the intensifying air war came on the heels of 134 missions yesterday that also included strikes in the heart of Haiphong as well as attacks for the third consecutive day against bridges and rail facilities near the Communist Chinese border.

Pilots said they clashed with the MIGs in a swirling four minute supersonic dogfight. No American planes were reported damaged, but one of the MIGs was hit.

U.S. military headquarters announced, however, that an Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by groundfire elsewhere to become the 690th plane lost over North Vietnam.

about 1,000 monks and nuns marched there from their headquarters, the An Quang pagoda.

Members of the politically ambitious militant sect said Tri Quang has begun "a fast until death if necessary."

Tri Quang made the same "fast until death" pledge in a hunger strike last year but gave up after 100 days when it was evident his protest was arousing little sympathy.

On another front the government announced today it had drafted "about a dozen" student demonstrators into the army in a new get tough policy against anti-government protests. It also warned that future demonstrators would lose their civil rights.

Lt. Col. Nguyen Van Laun, Saigon police director, said that of 35 students arrested last Monday "about a dozen" of draft age had been drafted into the army and the rest released after being reprimanded. He said one of the student leaders might be tried before a military court.

PG&E Plans Dinner For Veteran Workers

The Quarter Century Club of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will honor seven new members from the North Bay Division, two from Marin County, at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa.

The two Marinites who have reached 25 years' service are Leonard O. Robertson and Edith Ronsheimer, both of San Rafael.

Novato Blacked Out When Tree Cuts Line

A Novato woman was trapped inside her car when a tree broke a 12,000-volt-line in Novato at 2:20 a.m. today and her husband was arrested when he refused to leave her.

Power was blacked out for almost six hours in a wide area of the city.

Her husband, Anthony Cozzi, 39, standing near the car, refused to leave his wife and get out of the area when ordered to so so by police. He was arrested and booked at Marin County jail on suspicion of failure to evacuate the area of a calamity. He was released on $550 bail and is to appear in Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The tree broke for no apparent reason as there was no wind at the time, Novato police reported.

Power was cut to approximately 300 homes and all of the street lights in the Pleasant Valley-Sutro Avenue area, said Leonard O. Robertson, electric supervisor for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. It was not fully restored until just before 8 a.m.

the industrial area in the belief all prisoners were accounted for.

Today, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the loophole had been securely plugged.

He explained that McDowell was among a group of inmates checked into the industrial complex last night. Normally, the inmates were also checked out but the convict was able to hide himself among the buildings to wait until the guards were removed. McDowell was not discovered missing until the 10:30 p.m. bedcheck.

In May 1966, his attempt at escape on a prison garbage truck was planned with less thought. He and another inmate concealed themselves among the garbage but were caught with the truck was checked by a security officer.

McDowell was sentenced to five years to life for armed robbery in Los Angeles and to six months to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon.

Soil Engineer Missing; So Is Firm's Truck

A 43-year-old soil engineer, described by his San Rafael firm as "an excellent worker," was reported missing to police today — along with a company truck.

Keith G. Wightwood of San Francisco, is employed by Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates of San Rafael.

The firm reported Lightwood was recalled from a job at Santa Cruz Monday. He was given permission to stay in San Francisco overnight en route to San Rafael but when he arrived here Tuesday he was minus the truck.

He said the truck had broken down in San Francisco and he was sent back to get it. Officials of the firm said that was the last they saw of him.

Lightwood had been employed by the firm for four months and his work was described as excellent.

Burglary Trial

Willie James Broussard, 25, of San Francisco was scheduled for jury trial today for the week of Oct. 30 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burgling the home of Mrs. Margaret Y. Smith of 57 Glenside Way, Las Ranchitas, Sept. 11.

G. Magnuson, are vocal supporters of the war.

But referring to war policy criticism from Republican Sens. Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Aiken said: "Kentucky doesn't have much defense industry, does it?"

None of the senators Aiken discussed was immediately available for comment on his remarks.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., told a newsman he sees no likelihood Republicans—some of whom are from big defense-industry states—will totally agree on a Vietnam policy for the 1968 presidential campaign.

Percy's course has brought him into conflict with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, his senior colleague from Illinois, the Senate GOP leader and the likely chairman of the 1968 Republican platform-writing committee. Dirksen is a staunch defender of President Johnson's war policies.

Percy, backed by 16 Republicans and six Democrats, introduced yesterday a resolution duced Thursday a resolution urging Johnson to greater efforts to obtain more war support from U.S. allies in Asia.

"I think it's full of mischief," Dirksen said.

Garden Talk Date

A talk by Mrs. William J. Ferguson of Belvedere on "Container Gardening" before the Redwood Shade Garden Club will be at 8 p.m., Oct. 13 in Whitaker Hall of St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere, not Oct. 16 as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Gas Station Till Tappers Busy Again?

Robbers who stole $60 from a San Rafael service station Wednesday are believed by police to have struck again yesterday.

Edward Gilmore, owner of the Shell station at Third and Irwin streets, reported a total of $235 stolen from a cash drawer about 6 p.m. yesterday.

He said an early model car was driven up to the pumps but the occupants said they only wanted water. When the car had left, the station's cash drawer was found open and the money missing.

The description of the car's occupants was identical with that given by attendants of the Richfield station at 910 Francisco Boulevard, robbed in the same way Wednesday.

Driver of the car had a dark complexion, as did the woman and child accompanying him. They were thought to be Mexican.

"We'll need some assurances this isn't just window dressing," he said in an interview.

"All taxes are burdensome," Johnson told the news conference yesterday, "but the cruelest tax of all is the inflation tax that will follow inaction of the Congress" if his 10 per cent surcharge tax bill fails.

As for spending cuts, Johnson said: "The executive branch cannot spend one dollar, hire one employee or let one contract without appropriation or authorization by Congress."

"If a majority of the members of the House and Senate desire wholesale cuts in government spending, the course is through the normal appropriation process—the carefull examination by the Congress of specific appropriations for specific programs," Johnson added.

Probation In Fatal Accident

An 18-year-old Tennessee youth was placed on two years probation today in Marin Superior Court for misdeameanor manslaughter.

The defendant, Kenneth Wayne Bennett of Old Fort, pleaded guilty Sept. 8 to the lesser charge while on jury trial for felony manslaughter. He served 45 days in county jail while awaiting disposition of the case.

Bennett drove a car at speeds up to 100 miles an hour before crashing into a Highway 101 abutment June 3. A passenger, Michael R. Baker of Mount Vernon, N.Y., was killed in the crash.

Paintings Theft Held 'A Joke'

The theft of four paintings "as a joke" by two men from outside a Northgate Shopping Center bank last night was being investigated today by San Rafael police.

No complaints have been filed against the men, who were reported by police to have said they stole the paintings, valued at $175, as a joke against the center's security officer, Walter James De Lucca. All paintings were later retrieved by police.

Officers said the men drove up outside the Crocker-Citizens National Bank at 10:25 p.m. and removed the paintings from a display case.

A Novato woman was trapped inside her car when a tree broke a 12,000-volt-line in Novato at 2:20 a.m. today and her husband was arrested when he refused to leave her.

Power was blacked out for almost six hours in a wide area of the city.

Her husband, Anthony Cozzi, 39, standing near the car, refused to leave his wife and get out of the area when ordered to so so by police. He was arrested and booked at Marin County jail on suspicion of failure to evacuate the area of a calamity. He was released on $550 bail and is to appear in Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The tree broke for no apparent reason as there was no wind at the time, Novato police reported.

Power was cut to approximately 300 homes and all of the street lights in the Pleasant Valley-Sutro Avenue area, said Leonard O. Robertson, electric supervisor for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. It was not fully restored until just before 8 a.m.

the industrial area in the belief all prisoners were accounted for.

Today, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the loophole had been securely plugged.

He explained that McDowell was among a group of inmates checked into the industrial complex last night. Normally, the inmates were also checked out but the convict was able to hide himself among the buildings to wait until the guards were removed. McDowell was not discovered missing until the 10:30 p.m. bedcheck.

In May 1966, his attempt at escape on a prison garbage truck was planned with less thought. He and another inmate concealed themselves among the garbage but were caught with the truck was checked by a security officer.

McDowell was sentenced to five years to life for armed robbery in Los Angeles and to six months to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon.

Soil Engineer Missing; So Is Firm's Truck

A 43-year-old soil engineer, described by his San Rafael firm as "an excellent worker," was reported missing to police today — along with a company truck.

Keith G. Wightwood of San Francisco, is employed by Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates of San Rafael.

The firm reported Lightwood was recalled from a job at Santa Cruz Monday. He was given permission to stay in San Francisco overnight en route to San Rafael but when he arrived here Tuesday he was minus the truck.

He said the truck had broken down in San Francisco and he was sent back to get it. Officials of the firm said that was the last they saw of him.

Lightwood had been employed by the firm for four months and his work was described as excellent.

Burglary Trial

Willie James Broussard, 25, of San Francisco was scheduled for jury trial today for the week of Oct. 30 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burgling the home of Mrs. Margaret Y. Smith of 57 Glenside Way, Las Ranchitas, Sept. 11.

Gas Station Till Tappers Busy Again?

Robbers who stole $60 from a San Rafael service station Wednesday are believed by police to have struck again yesterday.

Edward Gilmore, owner of the Shell station at Third and Irwin streets, reported a total of $235 stolen from a cash drawer about 6 p.m. yesterday.

He said an early model car was driven up to the pumps but the occupants said they only wanted water. When the car had left, the station's cash drawer was found open and the money missing.

The description of the car's occupants was identical with that given by attendants of the Richfield station at 910 Francisco Boulevard, robbed in the same way Wednesday.

Driver of the car had a dark complexion, as did the woman and child accompanying him. They were thought to be Mexican.

But referring to war policy criticism from Republican Sens. Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Aiken said: "Kentucky doesn't have much defense industry, does it?"

None of the senators Aiken discussed was immediately available for comment on his remarks.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., told a newsman he sees no likelihood Republicans—some of whom are from big defense-industry states—will totally agree on a Vietnam policy for the 1968 presidential campaign.

Percy's course has brought him into conflict with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, his senior colleague from Illinois, the Senate GOP leader and the likely chairman of the 1968 Republican platform-writing committee. Dirksen is a staunch defender of President Johnson's war policies.

Percy, backed by 16 Republicans and six Democrats, introduced yesterday a resolution duced Thursday a resolution urging Johnson to greater efforts to obtain more war support from U.S. allies in Asia.

"I think it's full of mischief," Dirksen said.

"All taxes are burdensome," Johnson told the news conference yesterday, "but the cruelest tax of all is the inflation tax that will follow inaction of the Congress" if his 10 per cent surcharge tax bill fails.

As for spending cuts, Johnson said: "The executive branch cannot spend one dollar, hire one employee or let one contract without appropriation or authorization by Congress."

"If a majority of the members of the House and Senate desire wholesale cuts in government spending, the course is through the normal appropriation process—the carefull examination by the Congress of specific appropriations for specific programs," Johnson added.

The theft of four paintings "as a joke" by two men from outside a Northgate Shopping Center bank last night was being investigated today by San Rafael police.

Officers said the men drove up outside the Crocker-Citizens National Bank at 10:25 p.m. and removed the paintings from a display case.

Flood Control Project Will Not Affect Arks

Arks along Greenbrae Boardwalk will not be affected by the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project, a county engineer assured residents today.

A state Lands Commission official declared yesterday in San Francisco that Greenbrae Arks will be dismantled when the first phase of the flood control project gets underway.

But this statement was immediately shot down by Lt. Col. Frank C. Boerger of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Mogens Ring, county flood control engineer, today backed up Boerger's statement. "The arks will not be affected except for a couple of homes next to the railroad bridge," said Ring.

The state commission official who gave the alarming statement was F. J. Hortig, a member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. The matter came up at the commission meeting when Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, also a commission member, wanted to know if the proposed filling of marshland just south of the Greenbrae Boardwalk would affect boardwalk residents in any way.

"I can answer that," said Hortig. "When Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project gets underway, all the homes will be gone."

Col. Boerger then immediately rose to report that creek alignment will be on the north side of the creek, and homes would not have to go.

After the meeting, Hortig admitted that the colonel's report came as a complete surprise to him.

Pierre W. Joske, Marin parks and recreation director, who attended the commission meeting, said that Hortig's statement was news to him.

Drainage Plans For Tiburon To Be Reviewed

A report on downtown drainage from City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker will be considered Monday by the Tiburon City Council.

The council meets at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Foreaker said today he estimates a partial solution of the drainage problem, with a drain down Tiburon Boulevard to discharge near the Windjammer restaurant, would cost $10,000.

The project would not prevent flooding of areas on the north side of Tiburon Boulevard during high tide, but would give some relief during lower tides and lighter storms, according to Foreaker.

A revised citation ordinance, an annual audit report, use of assessment districts for financing public development and approval of El Marinero subdivision final map are other topics on the council's agenda.

Hippie's Night Air Walk Turns Into An Ocean Chill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hippie Michael Craycraft, 21, had a bone-chilling tale to tell today to friends in his Haight-Ashbury pad after he thawed out.

Craycraft and two friends parked their panel truck at the top of Mori's Point in Pacifica south of San Francisco Wednesday night. The friends went to sleep while Craycraft stepped from the truck for a breath of fresh air.

He escaped injury and managed to swim to a rock where he sat until his companions spotted him yesterday morning and summoned authorities.

Two Pacifica firemen went down on a winch cable but Craycraft told them he was too cold and scared to try to swim ashore. A Coast Guard helicopter subsequently plucked him off the rock and took him to safety.

Hippie's Night Air Walk Turns Into An Ocean Chill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hippie Michael Craycraft, 21, had a bone-chilling tale to tell today to friends in his Haight-Ashbury pad after he thawed out.

Craycraft and two friends parked their panel truck at the top of Mori's Point in Pacifica south of San Francisco Wednesday night. The friends went to sleep while Craycraft stepped from the truck for a breath of fresh air.

He escaped injury and managed to swim to a rock where he sat until his companions spotted him yesterday morning and summoned authorities.

Two Pacifica firemen went down on a winch cable but Craycraft told them he was too cold and scared to try to swim ashore. A Coast Guard helicopter subsequently plucked him off the rock and took him to safety.

'Hippie Priest' Doesn't Sway Jury On God-Marijuana Link

By ROSS DAVIS

A 27-year-old San Francisco musician and "high priest" contended in Marin Superior Court yesterday that smoking marijuana is God's will and that he shouldn't be punished.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgment for 9 a.m. Oct. 18.

Ward — who defended himself because he said no attorney would support his belief — was philosophical about the verdict.

"The Lord will provide, He always has," Ward said.

The defendant, clad in psychedelic shirt and carrying his home-made flute-clarinet, stirred courtroom interest during morning testimony. He was accompanied in court by two other members of his band, Don Wilcox, 23, a guitarist dressed in lace-trimmed shirt and tight pants, and Amos Cook, 33, bongo drum player.

Also present were a woman friend and her two small children, who Ward said he has more or less adopted because no one else will help them.

Ward and others were arrested by sheriff's officers in a deserted house above Waldo Grade on June 6. Deputies said they found enough marijuana for about 60 cigarettes.

In court, Ward freely admitted using marijuana, declaring the Bible states "every green herb" should be eaten as meat. He told newsmem, "It's a food that has been given to us by God to eat. This is part of what we've been taught in the scriptures . . . because it is written by the hand of God."

Ward, a quiet, serious-appearing man, said he and Wilcox were ordained high priests of the Church of Jesus Christ in San Francisco under the "Order of Mechisdet," and were baptised at services last Easter in Golden Gate Park.

He said his band, "God's Little Children," makes musical instruments, which shows "we're not crazy, and are full of love."

"Herbs are healing," he declared, "and we're all healthy from smoking marijuana," When arrested, he said, "We were praising the Lord" with music, but had already finished smoking the marijuana. "You don't like to feel ashamed if you're not doing anything wrong," he said.

Ward said other members of his band are Bobby Watson, 29, clarinet, and James Delaney, 25, Congo drums. All were in court with their instruments yesterday. All are from San Francisco.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw prosecuted. Trial began Wednesday.

Driver Faces Felony Charge

Tommy J. Johnson, 28, of San Rafael, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony complaint of drunken driving arising from an injury accident.

Plea entry was scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Johnson, of 188 Prospect Drive, was driving a car which hit a street light at 1550 Lincoln Avenue Spet. 19, police said. A passenger, Aura M. Walsh, 24, of 1422 Lincoln Avenue, suffered a concussion and a fractured jaw.

Fancy Marina In Marshland Given Setback

SAN FRANCISCO — The Bay Conservation and Development Commission yesterday postponed action on a San Rafael developer's plan to fill 85 acres of the 96-acre "Heerdt Marsh" south of Greenbrae Boardwalk for a marina-golf course-industrial development.

The action to delay came in the face of a series of objections raised by public and private agencies including the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the state Department of Fish and Game.

Developer Frank M. Burke of Loch Lomond presented his $3 million development plan before the commission meeting in the State Building. He proposed a nine-hole golf course, a marina for 230 boats, some industrial sites, and about 11 acres to remain in its natural state for wildlife.

Philip Noel Storrs of Engineering-Science Inc. of Berkeley spoke for Burke. He said the plans are in accord with a 1965 report of the Marin County planning staff.

Glen E. Delisle of the fish and game department objected to the filling, describing Heerdt Marsh as "one of the last remaining natural marshes in Marin County." Delisle said his department made a survey and found that egrets and herons that inhabit Marin islands use Heerdt Marsh as feeding grounds. "We counted 38 herons and egrets in the marsh area," said Delisle. "And the birds are rather shy and disturb easily."

During high tide, the birds need a place to rest, and the proposed development would deprive them of that resting spot, Delisle declared.

Pierre W. Joske, Marin County Parks and Recreation director, asked for a delay of the project on grounds it is premature.

In his personal opinion, Joske said that if a golf course is built in the area, it should be an 18-hole course, not nine holes. As for industrial sites proposed in the marshland, Joske declined Associated Sportsmen of California, also opposed the development.

Melvin B. Lane, chairman of BCDC, announced he would continue the hearing on Burke's application until a future meeting to be agreed upon by the applicant and the commission.

School Bond Report Slated Tuesday Night

A progress report on the campaign for the San Rafael city schools' $10.6 million bond election Oct. 24 will be given at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday before the city board of education in the district office

House Calls For Delinquent Library Books Paying Off

A newly devised system of recovering delinquent books for the Marin County Library is getting "wonderful results," county librarian Virginia Keating announced today.

The man assigned to knock on doors to inquire about delinquent books is Sam Bartolotti, regularly employed by the library to collect and deliver books throughout the county library system. About three months ago, he was specially deputized by the sheriff and began retrieving delinquent books as an additional duty.

"I started keeping a little record since Aug. 13," said Bartolotti. "In one month, I collected $480 worth of books."

Bartolotti, who was in the grocery business for 20 years before joining the library staff, uses the businessman's approach —tact and courtesy—when calling on delinquent customers.

"The reception is very good," he reports. "They seem glad to see me, and some of them even invite me inside and ask me to help them look for the books. Lhe most difficult ones to collect are those who have moved without leaving an address."

"I think the biggest cause of delinquency is just plain neglect," said Bartolotti. "One lady with several children had 62 children's books in her home. They just kept piling up. We got them all back."

Mrs. Keating said that Bartolotti calls on only those where no response has been received after notices of delinquency and bills have been sent. "We call it Sam's retrieval system, and it's working beautifully," said Mrs. Keating. "For example, if he delivers books to Bolinas today, he uses any spare time to call on delinquents in the Bolinas area."

The county librarian explained that Bartolotti's tactful approach is paying off. "In some cases, the customers say they returned the books. We ask them to keep looking anyway, and we'll look from our end, and sure enough, they often find the books later and return them to us."

In one instance, a woman who thought the books had been returned, later sent in the books, explaining that her daughter had taken them along on a trip to Mexico.

10,000 Warnings Yearly On Smog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors advise about 10,000 persons each year to leave Los Angeles because of smog.

Dr. Joseph F. Boyle, president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, told the California Assembly Committee on Transportation and Commerce that physicians send patients out of the city because of health problems—mainly respiratory.

Boyle warned yesterday a crisis was possible which might choke the city to death unless "drastic action" is taken.

Science Building Site For Parking

The proposed science building at College of Marin will be relocated and its originally planned site will become an improved parking lot.

The decision was made last night when Marin Junior College District trustees awarded a contract for improvements at four parking lots, including the science building site.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Deedy, board chairman, emphasized that the decision to relocate the science building wasn't motivated by a need for parking. The board is seeking the most desirable location for the proposed science building, she explained.

College president William K. Ramstad recommended that the science building be re-designed and re-located. The original site, next to the fine arts building, is on the fringe of the campus and the building should be located in a more central area, he said.

Management and Economics Research Inc. of Palo Alto, which is completing a building master plan for the district, also recommended that the science building be re-located.

Last February trustees ordered working drawings stopped on a proposed $3.9 million, three-story science building until they reviewed master planning.

At that time flood control, traffic and land use problems were discussed. The proposed site would have been along Laurel Street in the area where there has been frequent flooding.

The moment of decision on relocation came last night when the board received bids on improvements on four lots.

One of the lots involved was a temporary parking lot next to the fine arts building, the proposed site for the science building.

When trustees approved paving at this lot, they in effect, made the decision to seek a new location for the proposed science building.

The contract for parking lot improvements was awarded to O.C. Jones and Sons of Berkeley, lowest of four bidders, at a cost of $75,970.

Improvements will include paving at two lots, landscaping and lighting, Ramstad explained.

Enchanted Knolls Asks Stoplight

The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association board Wednesday ordered a letter sent to the Mill Valley City Council asking installation of a traffic signal at East Blithedale Avenue and Lomita Drive.

President Willard H. Pennell asked interested residents to write the council independently recommending the traffic light.

Pennell told the board he had received "considerable encouragement" that demolition of the old Pacific Gas and Electric Co. substation in the area will start this month. Final decision depends on approval by San Francisco headquarters, he said.

College District Will Ask $221,000 For New Projects

Marin Junior College District trustees last night authorized application for state funds to help finance land and building projects during fiscal 1968-69.

College president William K. Ramstad estimated that the proposed projects would cost $500,000, and the state's allocation, if approved, would provide $221,000.

The district is seeking aid for the following projects: last payment for land at the Novato campus site, construction of a new running track and playing field, rehabilitation of six lecture rooms and two language laboratories in Olney Hall and remodeling of two laboratories and a lecture room for art.

Ramstad emphasized that the track and playing field project didn't mean "a new football stadium." State funds are not available for football stadiums, he explained.

The proposed new track and playing field would be in the new physical education area.

Trustees also approved a study center at Manzanita School, Marin City, for college age students, on an experimental basis until Feb. 1, 1968.

The center will open Monday and will be open Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Ramstad said the center isn't designed for teaching particular subjects, but as a place to learn study skills and get aid in preparing reports. "It will provide a good place to study," he said.

Gregory Baines, a member of the Sausalito School District staff, was appointed director of the study center at a salary of $20 for each week the center operates, and James Smith, a College of Marin students, assistant director, at $10 for each week. Volunteer teachers also will serve.

The Marin Junior College District Board also:

APPOINTMENTS—Hired Edward W. Mentzer as an audio visual technician at a salary of $622 a month, Peter Scovill, data processing control operator, $520, and Myra Scott, receptionist, dean of students, $372.

FAIR/MARIN — Named Trustee Harry J. Moore as the district representative to FAIR/MARIN, an organization set up to manage the fairgrounds at the Marin County Civic Center.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Thursday (Oct. 12) at 8 p.m. for a special study session on the district's policy manual.

Voting Monday For Art Board

Balloting for two vacant member-at-large spots on the Marin Art and Garden Center board will be held Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the center's Ross office and later the same day during the annual meeting.

Candidates for the positions are Mrs. Jerrol Flood and Eugene Ostaggi, both of Ross, and Mrs. Neil Jannes of San Rafael.

The annual meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Caroline S. Livermore room at the center. The program includes slides about volunteer work presented by Mrs. Mat Palacio.

Dimitri Tiomkin Pistol-Beaten Robbed At Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Composer-producer Dimitri Tiomkin, who flew home Wednesday from Moscow after his wife's death, was tied up and robbed in his home last night by three men who fled with $13, police said.

Tiomkin, 68-year-old Russian-born composer who won Academy Awards for scores of "High Noon" in 1952 and "The High and the Mighty" in 1954, was struck on the face with a pistol and injured slightly. His secretary, Martha Harrington, also was tied up but was not injured, police said.

His wife was the former ballerina and choreographer Albertina Rasch, 76, who died Monday night at the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital.

Tiburon Rec Board Seeks Consultant

Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last night decided to ask council approval to hire a part-time consultant.

Commissioners want to hire senior planner Walter Horschler of the county planning department to lay out a hiking and bicycle trail system for the peninsula, according to secretary Russell Melquist.

They also agreed to ask the council to appropriate money to proceed with the landscaping of Tiburon Boulevard 100 yards east of San Rafael Avenue. Commissioners will get estimates for the work, to submit to the council, Melquist said.

Commissioners heard a proposal from George L. Ellman that a civic celebration be inaugurated on Aug. 5 to celebrate the day Juan Manuel DeAyala sailed into Ayala Cove in 1775.

They decided to seek cooperation from citizens and the local chamber of commerce to establish the holiday, which they thought might include fireworks.

Three-Day AFS Session Is Set

George Brosi of the Council of the Southern Mountains, Kentucky, and co-author of the pamphlet "Vocations for Social Change," will be guest speaker at a conference sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee at Forest Farm Camp, Forest Knolls, Oct. 20-22.

Workshops, panel discussions, informal conversation and entertainment will be features of the conference, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Friday and close at 2 p.m. Sunday. The event, open to college students and others, is aimed at persons facing a decision on vocations.

Workshop Tomorrow On Photography

Mill Valley photographer Pirkle Jones will conduct a weekend workshop entitled "Photography 1967, Natural and Man-Made" at the Mendocino Art Center in Mendocino tomorrow.

Jones studied at the California School of Fine Arts and has taught photography in Ansel Adam's workshops. He has exhibited locally, nationally and in Europe.

Millionaire Awaiting Coin Ransom Message

MIAMI (UPI) — Millionaire Willis Harrington du Pont today offered to pay $200,000 in cash to ransom his $1.5 million Russian coin collection taken by five bandits who forced their way into his estate.

Du Pont said he has hired private detective William Stanton to act as a go-between in attempts to recover the coins.

Stanton has secured a special phone number and a post office box to wait for messages from the bandits.

A sophisticated infrared warning system guarding Du Pont's $3 million estate on the Coconut Grove bayfront was not in operation when the robbery took place. Du Pont said the elaborate electronic burglar alarm had not been on for several weeks, but he refused to say why.

The coin collection may have been an unexpected bonus for five hooded gunmen who invaded the 42-room Du Pont manion early yesterday and made off with the largest haul in Miami history.

The wise-cracking bandits held Du Pont, his beautiful Spanish wife, their son and two servants at gunpoint while spending two hours ransacking the showplace estate.

While rounding up rare U.S. coins valued at about half a million dollars, jewelry and other valuables, the bandits ran across material describing the Russian Prince George Mikhailovitzy collection.

They told him he could have the coins back for $200,000 in cash, with the arrangements to be made through his lawyer.

Friends said Du Pont had the warning system installed more out of fear of kidnapers than burglars. He and his wife, Miren, 29, have two sons, Victor, 4, and Lammot, 1.

The bandits, sometimes polite, sometimes gruff, chided Du Pont for not working for a living "like everybody else" as they loaded up his valuables.

On their way out one dropped a $10,000 bill. They also forgot to take one of the suitcases filled with rare coins.

Takeoff Crash Claims One; 13 Others Injured

SINGAPORE (AP) — A two-engine U.S. Navy transport plane crashed and burned on takeoff at Singapore's Paya Lebar Airport today, killing one American and injuring 13 others.

Those aboard included several Navy crew members, other military personnel and dependents.

Dean's Home Hit By Bomb

Dr. William Bush, who is white, and his wife were asleep in the small brick house.

The blast shattered windows, blew out the double rear door and knocked away the eaves. Authorities said the bombing apparently was a "high order explosive," similar to dynamite.

Tougaloo, which has an enrollment of about 560, has been a stronghold of civil rights militants but has not been a center of unrest for several months.

Student Pact

The Kentfield School District board will consider an agreement with the Larkspur School District for educational services for educationally handicapped students at 8 p.m. Monday at Wolfe Grade School. The board will consider hiring five part-time classified employees. Two classified employees have submitted resignations.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Pacheco has been a prominent name in California for two centuries. And notable in a family of notables was Ygnacio Pacheco, one of Marin County's colorful early land grant dons. In tomorrow's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, I-J Historian Florence Donnelly tells you the story of the gentle don who ruled over the vast area now occupied by the community of Igancio and Hamilton Air Force Base, and also about his ancestors and his descendants.

The Marin Art and Garden Center at Ross has long been one of Marin's busiest community centers. But now it is taking on increased importance as the site for cultural activities. A number of new programs have found a home there, and still more are planned for the future. The Marin Magazine presents a pictorial report tomorrow on the center — on what is going on there now, and on what is planned there for the future.

The aircraft was a C47 transport, the military version of the DC3, and was assigned to the U.S. Embassy in Jakarta.

Dean's Home Hit By Bomb

Dr. William Bush, who is white, and his wife were asleep in the small brick house.

The blast shattered windows, blew out the double rear door and knocked away the eaves. Authorities said the bombing apparently was a "high order explosive," similar to dynamite.

Tougaloo, which has an enrollment of about 560, has been a stronghold of civil rights militants but has not been a center of unrest for several months.

Student Pact

The Kentfield School District board will consider an agreement with the Larkspur School District for educational services for educationally handicapped students at 8 p.m. Monday at Wolfe Grade School. The board will consider hiring five part-time classified employees. Two classified employees have submitted resignations.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Pacheco has been a prominent name in California for two centuries. And notable in a family of notables was Ygnacio Pacheco, one of Marin County's colorful early land grant dons. In tomorrow's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, 1-J Historian Florence Donnelly tells you the story of the gentle don who ruled over the vast area now occupied by the community of Igancio and Hamilton Air Force Base, and also about his ancestors and his descendants.

The Marin Art and Garden Center at Ross has long been one of Marin's busiest community centers. But now it is taking on increased importance as the site for cultural activities. A number of new programs have found a home there, and still more are planned for the future. The Marin Magazine presents a pictorial report tomorrow on the center —on what is going on there now, and on what is planned there for the future.

Narcotics Indictment For Escobedo

CHICAGO (UPI)—Danny Escobedo, whose troubles with the law led to a revolution in U.S. law enforcement procedures, was in jail today under indictment on six counts of federal narcotics violations.

Escobedo, whose murder conviction was overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark decision requiring that a suspect be informed by police that he has rights to a lawyer and to remain silent, was indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury.

5 TO 20 YEARS

Assistant U.S. Atty. John J. McDonnell, who presented the case to the grand jury, said Escobedo, 29, could be sentenced to 5 to 20 years in prison and fined $20,000 if convicted of each count of the indictment.

The laborer of Mexican descent had served four years of a 20-year sentence for the murder of his brother-in-law, Manuel Valtierra, when the Supreme Court heard his appeal and handed down its decision.

RIGHT TO COUNSEL

Escobedo was set free. The Supreme Court said the prosecution should not have used an oral confession Escobedo allegedly gave police, because he had not been informed of his rights to counsel before answering police questions.

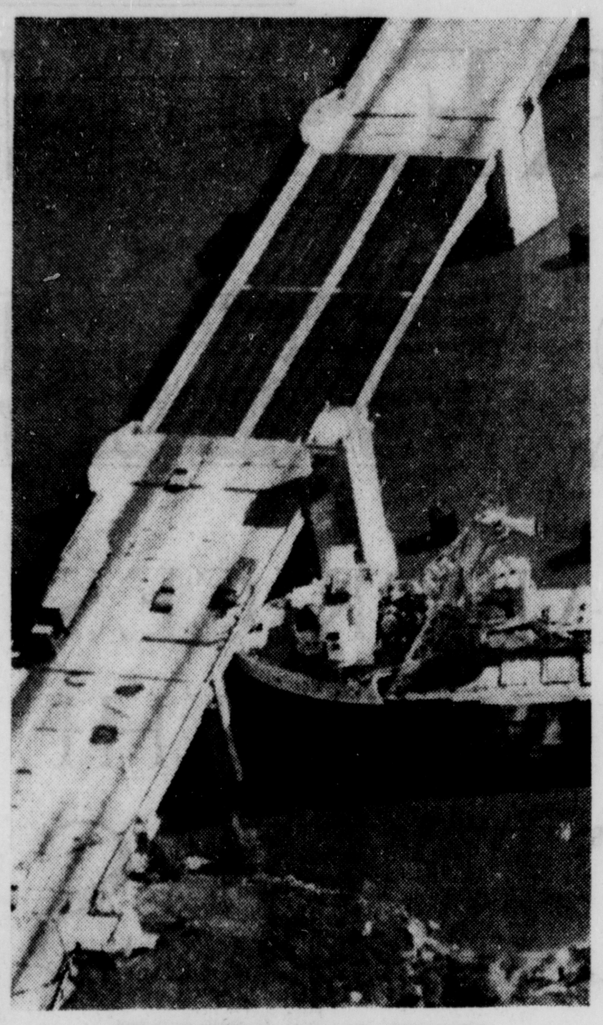
That decision resulted in today's procedure, in most police departments, of officers' reciting a speech informing the accused of his rights of counsel and silence.

Escobedo was not retried because of the lack of witnesses.

TV Technicians Picket At Firm

Members of the National Association of Broadcasting Engineers and Technicians, striking the American Broadcasting Co., were handing out leaflets to customers outside the Eileen Feather Salon in San Rafael today complaining of salon advertising on station KGO-TV in San Francisco.

George Roogie, a spokesman for AFL-CIO, said the union was not picketing.



FREIGHTER RAMS BRIDGE

Ghilotti Brothers Bids Low For Homestead Drain Project

Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael yesterday turned in the low bid of $14,483 for the Linden Lane storm drainage improvement project in Homstead Valley.

Bids by Ghilotti and six others will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for action on Tuesday.

The project calls for installation of pipes under Evergreen Avenue and Linden Lane in Homestead Valley to handle storm water runoff. The job should be completed in about two months, said Mogens Ring, county flood control engineer.

Other contractors and their bids were Industrial Construction Inc. of Richmond, $17,666; MGuire and Hester of Oakland, $19,415; A. J. Bresnan Co. of San Rafael, $20,275; W. J. McLellan Co. of San Anselmo, $23,506; E. A. Forde Co. of San Anselmo, $24,256; and V. Maggiora and Son of Sausalito, $25,677. The engineer's estimate on the project was $14,000.

Pool Closes

Because of mechanical trouble, the swimming pool of Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District has been shut for the season ahead of its Oct. 15 scheduled closing date, secretary Cleo Murray reported yesterday.

280-Acre Tideland Parcel To Corte Madera Wins Nod

The Local Agency Formation Commission quibbled hardly at all last night before approving annexation of a 280-acre parcel of mostly tidelands to Corte Madera.

The parcel, which has only three dwelling units on it at present, lies between Corte Madera Canal and Paradise Drive and between the city limits of Corte Madera and Tiburon.

NO OBJECTION

Supervisor Peter H. Behr, a commission member, declared "We could go into a discussion but it seems rather obvious" that it should go to Corte Madera because of its location.

Supervisor and Commissioner Thomas T. Storer raised the only mild issue, stating the acreage is "in the heart of the county" with a heavy portion of the county's population around it. "Another thing is I don't think you should annex something just because it is adjacent," he added.

Storer then joined the unanimous vote for approval.

TO CORTE MADERA

The commission also unanimously voted for detachment of an 11,000-square-foot lot at Lark Meadows off Magnolia Avenue from Larkspur's city limits and approving annexation of that lot by Corte Madera. Reason was that the only access to the lot is via Edison Avenue in Corte Madera.

John F. Barrows, commission executive director, said both city councils have tentatively agreed to this transfer.

A grand jury recommendation that LAFC assume the cost and responsibility of updating and maintaining the "special districts" booklet compiled earlier by the league of women voters also was agreed upon by the commission.

BUDGET COSTS

Barrows said cost to the commission's budget will be only between $100 and $200 yearly. Hugh G. Marchant, commissioner-at-large, commented that if the booklet, which gives details of all specials districts within the county, is useful at all, it should be kept up to date.

Neil R. Brixon, Larkspur councilman attending as an alternate in the absence last night of Chairman Jan Paul Dyk of Sausalito, suggested trying the project for one year at least.

It filed a letter from Douglas De La Fontaine, chairman of the Committee Against Annexation in a recent unsuccessful attempt by City of Tiburon.

The letter declared, "It is submitted that the residents and owners of the areas involved in the unsuccessful annexation attempt by City of Tiburon will reject similar attempts by neighboring cities in the future, and desire to retain their status as unincorporated areas."

The annexation move died in city council chambers for insufficient backing.

Action Halted Against Singer

LONDON (UPI) — A theft charge against American singer Cass Elliot, 24, 210-pound member of "The Mamas and the Papas," was dropped today.

Miss Elliot, who was wrestled out of a car by police yesterday and spent the night in jail, had been accused fo stealing two blankets and two keys from a hotel last February.

She pleaded innocent to the charge in London Magistrate's Court this morning and Prosecutor Paul Focher told the judge:

"We have received an explanation from the defendant with which we are now satisfied and in view of this neither party considers it proper to continue with the present proceedings."

Violence Tapers Off In Steel Truckers' Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Violence has tapered off in the steel truckers' strike, but an economic vise gripped steel producers and users in seven states.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan said, "We are prepared to put all the manpower necessary on the road to put an end to lawless and violent acts."

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ordered State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta to take a personal hand in directing reinforced patrols in western Pennsylvania, a hotbed of violence.

But the steel industry, which ships more than 50 per cent of its products by truck, was still feeling the economic pinch and other industries—from highway builders to grocery stores—were beginning to feel the affects as the strike closed off supply and delivery lines.

Applicants Lag For Spot On Rec Board

More applicants are needed to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District, president Norman Gurin announced at Wednesday's meeting.

The vcancy was created two weeks ago with the resignation of director Austin Gibbon "for personal reasons."

"So far we have only one applicant," said Gurin. "We'd like to advertise that we're accepting letters from other prospective candidates."

The vacancy will be filled at next month's meeting on Nov. 1.

The swimming pool at the Terra Linda Community Center, which was scheduled to remain open until next weekend, is now closed because of necessary repairs that are being made, said Gurin.

The directors also decided to stop work on the median strip along Las Gallinas Avenue, where bushes were being cleared to give better visibility. A delegation of residents along Las Gallinas appeared at Wednesday's meeting to protest the clearing of bushes. Gurin said that directors and residents plan a joint meeting to work out a solution.

Open House Set

Vallecito School in Terra Linda will hold an open house for parents Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Parents will tour classrooms and meet teachers.

$750,000 Fatal Crash Suit Filed

The widow and two children of a Novato milkman killed in a three-vehicle smashup on Highway 101 Sept. 6 yesterday filed a $750,000 wrongful death suit.

The Marin Superior Court complaint by Mrs. Emma Hollars and her children, Gwendolyn, 14, and Vance, 13, charges negligent driving by Manuel R. Damos, 29, driver for Simpson Lumber Co., Arcata, resulted in death of the husband and father, Mark Lee Hollars, 33.

California Highway Patrol said Hollars, of 806 Reichert Avenue, Novato, and owner of Mark's Milk Delivery, was driving southbound in Novato when the truck driven by Damos clipped the milk truck's left rear.

Hollars' truck struck a utility pole. Damos' truck smashed a center divider and overturned. The third vehicle, driven by Gerhart E. Lazare, 41, of Santa Rosa hit the wreckage of the lumber truck. Lazare also was killed.

Applicants Lag For Spot On Rec Board

More applicants are needed to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District, president Norman Gurin announced at Wednesday's meeting.

The vcancy was created two weeks ago with the resignation of director Austin Gibbon "for personal reasons."

"So far we have only one applicant," said Gurin. "We'd like to advertise that we're accepting letters from other prospective candidates."

The vacancy will be filled at next month's meeting on Nov. 1.

The swimming pool at the Terra Linda Community Center, which was scheduled to remain open until next weekend, is now closed because of necessary repairs that are being made, said Gurin.

The directors also decided to stop work on the median strip along Las Gallinas Avenue, where bushes were being cleared to give better visibility. A delegation of residents along Las Gallinas appeared at Wednesday's meeting to protest the clearing of bushes. Gurin said that directors and residents plan a joint meeting to work out a solution.

Open House Set

Vallecito School in Terra Linda will hold an open house for parents Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Parents will tour classrooms and meet teachers.

$750,000 Fatal Crash Suit Filed

The widow and two children of a Novato milkman killed in a three-vehicle smashup on Highway 101 Sept. 6 yesterday filed a $750,000 wrongful death suit.

The Marin Superior Court complaint by Mrs. Emma Hollars and her children, Gwendolyn, 14, and Vance, 13, charges negligent driving by Manuel R. Damos, 29, driver for Simpson Lumber Co., Arcata, resulted in death of the husband and father, Mark Lee Hollars, 33.

California Highway Patrol said Hollars, of 806 Reichert Avenue, Novato, and owner of Mark's Milk Delivery, was driving southbound in Novato when the truck driven by Damos clipped the milk truck's left rear.

Hollars' truck struck a utility pole. Damos' truck smashed a center divider and overturned. The third vehicle, driven by Gerhart E. Lazare, 41, of Santa Rosa hit the wreckage of the lumber truck. Lazare also was killed.

A Middle School Land Panel Asked

A Mill Valley city-school committee was proposed last night to investigate construction of a middle school on the projected municipal park site at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

The study would include feasibility of selling a portion of the Enchanted Knolls School site to defray costs of the middle school, now estimated at $2.9 million.

A joint meeting of the city council and the Mill Valley School District board recommended the committee comprise two council members, two board representatives and city and school staffs. No members were chosen, and no firm date for a report was set.

Picking the "Project 17" park site, west of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks, as best for a middle school, school board representatives ruled out two others, but left the door open for the Edna Maguire-Alto School site as a possibility.

Architectural studies have been asked for the latter. School board representatives have expressed disinterest in the other two sites, east of the railroad tracks, because of cost, land size and acquisition problems.

Middle school cost estimates had been placed at $2.5 million, but Supt. James Collins said today construction at the Project 17 site would increase the figure by $400,000.

Voters approved a $3.5 million bond issue in June for middle school construction and improvements to other schools. Collins said the board is committed to holding $1 million for improvements.

Dunked Sailors Taken From Bay

Coast Guard rescue units were alerted yesterday when two men were reported clinging to an overturned boat in the bay, south of San Rafael-Richmond Bridge near San Quentin.

But when a cutter and helicopter arrived in response to the 4:45 p.m. message, the two dunked sailors had been picked up by a passing boat.

The Coast Guard said the capsized 12-foot skiff was owned and operated by James Gates of Turlock. Officials had no name for the second man.

Negro Loses Bid To Become Mayor

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A. W. Willis, Tennessee's first Negro state legislator in more than half a century, couldn't put together a winning coalition yesterday and failed in a bid to become the first Negro mayor of a major Old South city.

Two men with experience in the job—incumbent Mayor William Ingram and former Mayor Henry Loeb—made it into the Nov. 2 runoff as Willis trailed fourth in his race against six white candidates.

Lebanon Says Israel Holds The Peace Key

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Lebanon told the United Nations today that a withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied positions could bring peaceful conditions "guaranteeing the renunciation of the use of force and the security of all states in the region." But it ruled out recognition of Israel or negotiations with it.

"The conditions are favorable for a peaceful settlement to the present crisis," Lebanese Foreign Minister Georges Hakim said in a policy speech to the 122-nation General Assembly.

"If peace is not achieved now, war will break out sooner or later. Time is not on the side of peace in the Middle East. The United Nations, either in the Security Council or in the General Assembly, must act now."

Last Monday Hakim told an Associated Press reporter that the Arab states had decided at their recent conference at Khartoum to "choose the peaceful solution rather than one leading to war sooner or later."

"This means," Hakim said, "that if Israeli troops were withdrawn to positions occupied June 5, the Arab States would renounce the use of force and agree to the establishment of peaceful conditions in which the security and territorial integrity of all states in the region would be respected."

This was more moderate than the statements that Arab foreign ministers have been making in the assembly's policy debate.

Senate Approves Super Jet Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The proposed supersonic transport (SST) has made another successful flight through the Senate despite charges it will be used "only by the jet set."

The Senate approved an appropriation of $142 million for the 2,000 mile-an-hour plane yesterday on a 54-19 vote.

The measure was part of a $1.6 billion transportation appropriations bill. The Senate passed the big measure 71 to 1 and sent it to a joint conference committee.

Greenbrae Burglary Nets $5,000 In Loot

Burglars took about $5,000 worth of goods, mainly jewelry, from the apartment of Nat S. Arnold, 42 Corte Encanto, Greenbrae yesterday between 9 a.m. and 4:20 p.m., according to Larkspur police.

Police said thieves pried open the front door, ransacked the apartment and took a portable television set, some clothes, and jewelry including diamond, topaz and amethyst rings, pearl and silver necklaces and several sets of men's jewelry.

Eel's Middle Fork Development Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Department of Water Resources and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers today announced plans for joint state-federal development on the middle fork of the Eel River in Mendocino County.

The agreement was signed yesterday by Brig. Gen. John A.B. Dillard of the Corps' South Pacific Division and William R. Gianelli, state water resources director.

The pact calls for construction and operation by the Corps of Dos Rios Reservoir. The state will contract for the water supply conserved in the reservoir and will construct a diversion tunnel to transport that supply into the Sacramento Basin as an additional supply for the State Water Project.

The Gianelli-Dillard agreement assures a major flood control facility on the Eel's middle fork and will firm up the department's annual state water project entitlements for delivery of 4,230,000 acre-feet of water to 31 contracting agencies throughout California.

"This joint development is an advantageous and economical means of providing urgently needed facilities," Gianelli said. "Savings in capital outlay to the State Water Project may be as high as $160 million."

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Rubber Checks And The Law

Molly Mophead always said that she couldn't keep her checkbook straight. Nobody was surprised when the check she wrote for the Red Bend Store bounced. The store notified her twice about the check. They sent it through the bank again, only to see it bounce again.

At last the store had Molly arrested, at which Molly was shocked. She paid the check and then sued the store for "malicious prosecution."

The court said nothing doing. The store had acted in good faith and had "probable cause" to go to the district attorney, since it had notified and called Molly. And so the court found the store's action was not malicious prosecution, although the district attorney later dropped the proceeding when it was clear Molly had not really meant to cheat the store.

Under the law no one who acts without good reason or with malice can bring criminal proceedings against another person. If so, the injured person can make the malicious one pay.

In another case a cab driver had no change for a ten-dollar bill when he and his fare arrived at the passenger's home. He drove several blocks to a store to get the change, and then drove his passenger back home. The cabbie tried to charge the passenger for the extra trip. When he would not pay, the cabbie had him arrested. At the criminal hearing, the cabbie didn't show up and the judge dismissed the case. The passenger then sued for malicious prosecution and recovered damages.

"Abuse of process" arises when a person sues, attaches one's property, or puts a claim on one's land without "probable cause" or "in bad faith." The person whose credit is thus injured or who suffers other losses as a result can recover damages.

As a rule, anyone who uses the legal process on advice of his lawyer cannot be sued for "abuse of process' since advice of counsel is "probable cause." In such cases the client must tell his lawyer all the facts. Failure to do so may indicate bad faith or even malice in bringing the proceedings.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

A Middle School Land Panel Asked

A Mill Valley city-school committee was proposed last night to investigate construction of a middle school on the projected municipal park site at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

The study would include feasibility of selling a portion of the Enchanted Knolls School site to defray costs of the middle school, now estimated at $2.9 million.

A joint meeting of the city council and the Mill Valley School District board recommended the committee comprise two council members, two board representatives and city and school staffs. No members were chosen, and no firm date for a report was set.

Picking the "Project 17" park site, west of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks, as best for a middle school, school board representatives ruled out two others, but left the door open for the Edna Maguire-Alto School site as a possibility.

Architectural studies have been asked for the latter. School board representatives have expressed disinterest in the other two sites, east of the railroad tracks, because of cost, land size and acquisition problems.

Middle school cost estimates had been placed at $2.5 million, but Supt. James Collins said today construction at the Project 17 site would increase the figure by $400,000.

Voters approved a $3.5 million bond issue in June for middle school construction and improvements to other schools. Collins said the board is committed to holding $1 million for improvements.

Dunked Sailors Taken From Bay

Coast Guard rescue units were alerted yesterday when two men were reported clinging to an overturned boat in the bay, south of San Rafael-Richmond Bridge near San Quentin.

But when a cutter and helicopter arrived in response to the 4:45 p.m. message, the two dunked sailors had been picked up by a passing boat.

The Coast Guard said the capsized 12-foot skiff was owned and operated by James Gates of Turlock. Officials had no name for the second man.

Negro Loses Bid To Become Mayor

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A. W. Willis, Tennessee's first Negro state legislator in more than half a century, couldn't put together a winning coalition yesterday and failed in a bid to become the first Negro mayor of a major Old South city.

Two men with experience in the job—incumbent Mayor William Ingram and former Mayor Henry Loeb—made it into the Nov. 2 runoff as Willis trailed fourth in his race against six white candidates.

Lebanon Says Israel Holds The Peace Key

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Lebanon told the United Nations today that a withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied positions could bring peaceful conditions "guaranteeing the renunciation of the use of force and the security of all states in the region." But it ruled out recognition of Israel or negotiations with it.

"The conditions are favorable for a peaceful settlement to the present crisis," Lebanese Foreign Minister Georges Hakim said in a policy speech to the 122-nation General Assembly.

"If peace is not achieved now, war will break out sooner or later. Time is not on the side of peace in the Middle East. The United Nations, either in the Security Council or in the General Assembly, must act now."

Last Monday Hakim told an Associated Press reporter that the Arab states had decided at their recent conference at Khartoum to "choose the peaceful solution rather than one leading to war sooner or later."

"This means," Hakim said, "that if Israeli troops were withdrawn to positions occupied June 5, the Arab States would renounce the use of force and agree to the establishment of peaceful conditions in which the security and territorial integrity of all states in the region would be respected."

This was more moderate than the statements that Arab foreign ministers have been making in the assembly's policy debate.

Senate Approves Super Jet Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The proposed supersonic transport (SST) has made another successful flight through the Senate despite charges it will be used "only by the jet set."

The Senate approved an appropriation of $142 million for the 2,000 mile-an-hour plane yesterday on a 54-19 vote.

The measure was part of a $1.6 billion transportation appropriations bill. The Senate passed the big measure 71 to 1 and sent it to a joint conference committee.

Eel's Middle Fork Development Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Department of Water Resources and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers today announced plans for joint state-federal development on the middle fork of the Eel River in Mendocino County.

The agreement was signed yesterday by Brig. Gen. John A.B. Dillard of the Corps' South Pacific Division and William R. Gianelli, state water resources director.

The pact calls for construction and operation by the Corps of Dos Rios Reservoir. The state will contract for the water supply conserved in the reservoir and will construct a diversion tunnel to transport that supply into the Sacramento Basin as an additional supply for the State Water Project.

The Gianelli-Dillard agreement assures a major flood control facility on the Eel's middle fork and will firm up the department's annual state water project entitlements for delivery of 4,230,000 acre-feet of water to 31 contracting agencies throughout California.

"This joint development is an advantageous and economical means of providing urgently needed facilities," Gianelli said. "Savings in capital outlay to the State Water Project may be as high as $160 million."

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Rubber Checks And The Law

Molly Mophead always said that she couldn't keep her checkbook straight. Nobody was surprised when the check she wrote for the Red Bend Store bounced. The store notified her twice about the check. They sent it through the bank again, only to see it bounce again.

At last the store had Molly arrested, at which Molly was shocked. She paid the check and then sued the store for "malicious prosecution."

The court said nothing doing. The store had acted in good faith and had "probable cause" to go to the district attorney, since it had notified and called Molly. And so the court found the store's action was not malicious prosecution, although the district attorney later dropped the proceeding when it was clear Molly had not really meant to cheat the store.

Under the law no one who acts without good reason or with malice can bring criminal proceedings against another person. If so, the injured person can make the malicious one pay.

In another case a cab driver had no change for a ten-dollar bill when he and his fare arrived at the passenger's home. He drove several blocks to a store to get the change, and then drove his passenger back home. The cabbie tried to charge the passenger for the extra trip. When he would not pay, the cabbie had him arrested. At the criminal hearing, the cabbie didn't show up and the judge dismissed the case. The passenger then sued for malicious prosecution and recovered damages.

"Abuse of process" arises when a person sues, attaches one's property, or puts a claim on one's land without "probable cause" or "in bad faith." The person whose credit is thus injured or who suffers other losses as a result can recover damages.

As a rule, anyone who uses the legal process on advice of his lawyer cannot be sued for "abuse of process' since advice of counsel is "probable cause." In such cases the client must tell his lawyer all the facts. Failure to do so may indicate bad faith or even malice in bringing the proceedings.

School Bond Issues Face Voters Tuesday

Tuesday will be School Bond Election Day in Marin. Tamalpais High School District, San Anselmo School District and Sausalito School District will all hold bond issue elections. San Anselmo will also put an increase in the tax rate limit up to the electorate.

Biggest of the lot is a whopping $12,315,000 issue in Tamalpais High School District.

With these milliions, the Tam district proposes to add a music building at Redwood High School, science rooms at Drake High, classrooms at Tamalpais High, a small administration building, and build brand-new schools at Tiburon and in the San Geronimo Valley.

THIS IS A BIG order. The Tam District board, and the citizen committees backing the issue, have looked far into the future. The proposals are designed to assure adequate school facilities through 1977. Enrollment projections indicate they will do it with a little to spare.

However, though looking far ahead in its plans for the two new schools, the Tam District is faced with immediate, urgent need for the expansions at the the three existing schools. All are now over capacity.

It may be that Tiburon and San Geronimo high schools will not both be needed within the next 10 years. But the people of the Tam district cannot wait for additions to the present schools. And it should be born in mind that authorization of the bond issue does not mean the district must go ahead on both new schools immediately. In fact, that is not intended.

The logical thing appears to be to vote the authorization so that the necessary additions can be made at once to Tam, Redwood and Drake—then watch the board to make sure it exercises caution in proceeding on the new schools.

IN THE SAN ANSELMO district, where a $950,000 bond issue is asked, there can be no question of the need for additional classrooms at Red Hill, Hidden Valley, and Sleepy Hollow schools, and renovating the old Isabel Cook and Wade Thomas schools. These are the purposes for which the bond issue is sought. The need is great and can scarcely be argued.

The proposed 75-cent increase in the limit on the general purpose tax in San Anselmo District is another matter. Although a 75-cent authorization is sought, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi has said only 25 cents probably will be needed next year.

The money bill voted by the Legislature this year was supposed to eliminate need for immediate local school tax increases. It apparently has not done so. But the request to up the limit by 75 cents seems untimely.

SAUSALITO'S CASE is again different. There, a $1.4 million bond issue is sought to build an "educational park" on the Bayside School site.

There is no question that Sausalito needs new school buildings. But the bond issue must succeed or fail on whether the public wants all its children to attend a single school or prefers to keep neighborhood schools.

Charity's Fun At Festival

The Fashion Mall at Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael won't be the same sort of place as usual tomorrow.

Instead, it will be a sort of old-fashioned coutry fair or outdoor bazaar, known to Marinites as the Grape Festival.

This annual affair is the principal fund-raising event to aid the Presbyterian-operated home for orphans and disturbed and unwanted children in San Anselmo.

The Grape Festival is a great Marin tradition, for an excellent cause. Operated by the various guilds which work year-around to help and support Sunny Hills, it offers fun, unusual merchandise, and even some bargains. It has proved year after year that charity can be a pleasure.

See you there!

Falcons For Starlings

Many remedies have been suggested for riading areas of that noxious fellow, the starling — everything from the pill to a sticky goo spread on their perching places.

Perhaps starling-harrassed Marinites will not take amiss another far out suggestion. We suggest falcons. Yes, falcons. Applying the ancient art of falconry to our relatively new starling problem.

The British Navy has put these trained hawks to work clearing the runways of airfields of gulls. Prior to using falcons, the Navy was averaging $50,000 a month in damage resulting when aircraft collided with gulls.

Why, we wonder, doesn't some government agency give the falcons a chance to prove their worth?

October's Golden Days

Golden October is here again. There is a strong nip in the morning air — a hint of impending autumn. The hills are burnished gold, patched with groves of evergreens and the bright fall colors, just beginning, of the deciduous trees.

Grapes, clear, crisp, shorter days — and rain. That's October in Marin.

Salute Due Effort Of Bond Committee

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A salute is certainly due the earnest efforts of the Tamalpais Bond Election Committee. Over 1,000 precinct workers are busy contacting citizens to give them full information on the Oct. 10 issue.

This effort is essential since the district faces a problem of serious overcrowding, which will continue to worsen. A tremendous amount of study has gone into the program by two separate citizen committees and by the best professionals available. The high standard of education, for which the Tam District is well known, must be implemented by needed classroom facilities. The bond proposal represents the best dollar value and the best program for the district and for the taxpayers.

The bond committee has disseminated all kinds of written material on the widest possible basis, invited questions from all sides and offered to answer any received. It would be most unfortunate if doubts were raised at the last minute in such a way as to prevent the committee from providing answers.

Community organizations informed of the bond proposal have supported it enthusiastically. I certainly hope that the voters will turn out and give their support to help meet this serious crisis.

Good Education Is Desirable, But . . .

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Good education is the concern of all of us, but the property owners' ability to support further burdensome taxation, when property taxes have reached the confiscatory stage, must be considered. I resent being stampeded by "crisis" type campaigning. I resent elections being speeded up to be held the day before property taxes will be mailed. I resent being deceived by "hidden costs." Money alone does not provide motivation and palaces do not guarantee good education. We need more time to plan for the next 10 years . . . Let's take another look at the whole situation after we get our tax bills. Vote NO on Tuesday.

'Legalism Does Not Set Criminals Free'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your editorial, "Who Protects the Innocent," is astonishing naivete from an editor's desk. It shows a nervous anxiety that does not do credit to your position.

Sir, you have reversed the camera: you have photographed the men in the black hats getting the cattle over the border to defeat the tall-riding heroes in the white hats. And it isn't that way.

"Legalism" does not set criminals free; inept and untutored arresting officers do. It is they who construct the escape route for criminals by imprisoning them illegally. Were they allowed to work this way I, too, would be nervous because we would then be living in a totalitarian police state where illegal convictions supercede the law.

Don't worry about protection of the innocent, editor. Until the police get the smart idea that they should learn the simple ABC's of due process of law governing arrests, the law will continue to protect the innocent.

This "legalism" you fear is actually the blessed air of freedom of these fifty states of the Union. Fling up your head and breathe it deeply. There is really, I assure you, no poison in it.

Proposed Federal Law Seen As Hindering Smog Fight

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's automobile smog problem not only is the state's greatest health hazard, but it is getting worse, according to Assemblyman John Francis Foran, D-San San Francisco, who is chairman of the Assembly Committee on Transportation and Commerce.

The Bay Area legislator says that even more alarming is the fact that federal legislation currently before Congress would condemn residents of this state to suffer in denser and denser concentrations of the blight, which threatens health, agriculture and general well-being.

He urged congressional restoration of the Murphy amendment to pending federal air pollution legislation, which would give this state more latitude in enacting stricter anti-smog legislation.

"CALIFORNIA'S SMOG problem," said Foran, "is of a different magnitude than that of any other state. Yet under the federal aid pollution bill approved by the House Commerce Committee last week, California cannot adopt stricter requirements for reducing motor vehicle pollution.

"The Murphy amendment would have allowed this state to set stricter standards to meet compelling and extraordinary conditions.

"The recent smog attacks in Los Angeles and San Francisco are simply the latest indicated of the special problems in California."

The assemblyman noted California was the first state in the country to recognize the automobile smog problem, and the first to set and enforce standards for automobile emissions.

He said the proposed federal standards for 1968 are the same California has required since 1966, and "They are now inadequate."

"Preliminary investigation by our committee," he declared, "leaves no doubt in my mind that current smog control standards for automobiles must be strengthened. The state Department of Public Health already has recommended tougher standards for new cars in 1970. Committee hearings in Los Angeles next week will constitute the first legislative inquiry into this subject in two years.

"I think it unconsciable that the federal government would even consider preventing California from doing everything in its power to protect the health and well-being of its citizens.

"The effects of this proposed federal action will certainly be dealt with at length in our public hearings next week. I urge all Californians to contact their congressional representatives and demand restoration of the Murphy amendments. The welfare of California is at stake."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A PROUD FATHER, unaware of the sophistication of the youngsters of today, set out to acquaint his small daughter with the value of money. First he explained the variety of coins, then he lined up a penny, a nickel, a dime, a quarter, and a dollar bill, and asked her which one she'd choose for herself. She eyed him speculatively for a moment, then said, "I'll take the copper one, Daddy — but I think I'll take the little piece of paper along to wrap it in."

SIGNS:

On a trailer in a second-hand car lot: "Room for rent. Willing to travel."

At a cemetery gate: "Owing to employment difficulties, grave digging will be done temporarily by a skeleton crew."

In the room of a hotel that had just installed a sprinkler system: "Please don't smoke in bed. You may drown yourself."

Senate Takes Oblique Approach In Trying To Curb President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is shadow-boxing with the President. It's talking of doing something it can't make stick.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright and others complain President Johnson is getting too big for his britches, although they didn't put it that plainly. So alterations are suggested. It's an old story with Congress and presidents.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is still being criticized for something he did when Germany had Britain on the ropes just before World War II. He gave the British 50 old destroyers without consulting Congress.

And President Harry S. Truman got an endless pasting for going into the Korean War without asking Congress for so much as by-your-leave.

But Roosevelt was operating under the Lend-Lease Act which made what he did possible. And Truman was responding, if he needed a legal reason, to the United Nations' call to its members, of which the United States was one, to stop the invasion from North Korea.

BUT JOHNSON did the opposite. He got overwhelming congressional approval beforehand for sending troops into Vietnam, if he found that necessary, which he did—and now he's on the receiving end from Congress just the same.

What he got mixed up in, in a big way, was the ancient rivalry for power in foreign affairs between Congress and presidents.

The approval he got was in the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which Congress passed Aug. 7, 1964, at his request—the Senate by a vote of 88-2 and the House by 416-0. It authorized him to do what he thought necessary to stop aggression in Southeast Asia.

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee and Johnson's most constant critic about the war, took charge of getting the Tonkin resolution through the Senate three years ago.

But now he has offered his own resolution which would cripple Johnson's handling of foreign affairs by saying a "national commitment" has no validity or meaning unless both the president and Senate approve.

ONE TROUBLE with "national commitment" is its vagueness. What does it mean? Fulbright explained it as too often turning out to be "statements previously made by someone saying that we pledge ourselves to some undertaking."

But in Congress over the years a "commitment" could be interpreted as meaning all kinds of presidential actions which Congress hadn't approved.

Thirteen years ago, in the last great effort to drag the country back into her ancient isolationism, Sen. John W. Bricker, an Ohio Republican, offered something more powerful than a resolution. He called for a constitutional amendment.

His proposal would have hamstrung a president even more than Fulbright's. Fulbright, at that time opposed to tying any more strings to a president, called Bricker's idea a retreat from the world. The Senate killed the proposal.

The next day a substitute proposal, a little milder than Bricker's but still an interference with the president's foreign affairs powers, was also killed.

IRONICALLY, while Fulbright voted against that, too, Johnson, then Democratic leader in the Senate when Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, voted for it.

But even if the Senate votes for Fulbright's resolution it can't change anything for Johnson. He wouldn't have to pay any attention to it since such a resolution is not a law.

Yet if it passed, it would be a warning to Johnson he could expect rough treatment if he made any "national commitment" and didn't get the Senate's approval first.

This could damage his strength in dealing with other nations, for they could rightly ask: How can Johnson promise anything, and how can we expect him to make good on his promise, if the Senate hasn't agreed to the promise?

All the Senate uproar over Johnson—because of his sending troops into Vietnam—could be ended in a minute if the Senate would just act to rescind the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave him the power.

So what's happening is an oblique attempt to curb him instead of doing it directly.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is stubbornly persisting in his efforts to expand trade with the Soviet bloc despite the step-up of military aid to North Vietnam by these Communist nations.

A graphic illustration of this policy occurred last week when the President succeeded in getting Senate-House foreign aid conferees to kill an amendment that would have forced withdrawal of Poland's "most favored nation" status under U.S. tariff laws because of her shipment of arms to Hanoi.

This legislative acton, behind closed doors, came at a time when three Polish vessels — Konopicka, Benowski, and F. Ceynowa — were in Haiphong harbor unloading military equipment for the North Vietnamese.

THE AMENDMENT barring the highly prized tariff concessions to Poland was overwhelmingly approved by the House last month after being offered by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The President's advisers, after succeeding in keeping the ban out of the Senate version, took his fight against the Findley amendment to the House-Senate confereees.

On request of Sec. of State Rusk, J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida., vigorously attacked the amendment in the conference. Both argued that a withdrawal of tariff concessions at this time could wreck President Johnson'ss program of "building bridges" to Poland. They contended the trade issue should not be linked with the Vietnam war on the grounds this would only heat up the cold war.

In defense of the Findley amendment, Rep. E. Ross Adair, Ind., second ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared:

"So long as this blood bath in Vietnam is going on, Congress should not give aid or comfort to any country supplying arms to our enemy. No one in this room can deny that Poland is sending Hanoi instruments of death to be used against our boys."

DESPITE THIS administration victory, the battle is still far from over.

When the foreign aid authorization measure comes back to the House for final approval, Representative Findley plans to launch a new counterattack that could tie up the legislation indefinitely.

This strategy is in line with the policy of House GOP leaders. They are on record as opposed to continuing "most favored nation" tariff concessions to Soviet bloc nations under existing world conditions. Poland is the only one now receiving such concessions.

These lower tariffs have been the most significant factor in Poland's favorable balance of trade with the U.S., according to Commerce Department officials. In 1966, they point out, Poland's exports to the U.S. were $82.9 million and its imports $53 million, resulting in a favorable balance to Poland of $29.9 million. In 1959, the last year before the concessions were granted, Poland exported only $31.8 million in goods to the U.S., but imports from the U.S. were $75 million, a deficit of $43 million.

School Bond Issues Face Voters Tuesday

Tuesday will be School Bond Election Day in Marin. Tamalpais High School District, San Anselmo School District and Sausalito School District will all hold bond issue elections. San Anselmo will also put an increase in the tax rate limit up to the electorate.

Biggest of the lot is a whopping $12,315,000 issue in Tamalpais High School District.

With these milliions, the Tam district proposes to add a music building at Redwood High School, science rooms at Drake High, classrooms at Tamalpais High, a small administration building, and build brand-new schools at Tiburon and in the San Geronimo Valley.

THIS IS A BIG order. The Tam District board, and the citizen committees backing the issue, have looked far into the future. The proposals are designed to assure adequate school facilities through 1977. Enrollment projections indicate they will do it with a little to spare.

However, though looking far ahead in its plans for the two new schools, the Tam District is faced with immediate, urgent need for the expansions at the the three existing schools. All are now over capacity.

It may be that Tiburon and San Geronimo high schools will not both be needed within the next 10 years. But the people of the Tam district cannot wait for additions to the present schools. And it should be born in mind that authorization of the bond issue does not mean the district must go ahead on both new schools immediately. In fact, that is not intended.

The logical thing appears to be to vote the authorization so that the necessary additions can be made at once to Tam, Redwood and Drake—then watch the board to make sure it exercises caution in proceeding on the new schools.

IN THE SAN ANSELMO district, where a $950,000 bond issue is asked, there can be no question of the need for additional classrooms at Red Hill, Hidden Valley, and Sleepy Hollow schools, and renovating the old Isabel Cook and Wade Thomas schools. These are the purposes for which the bond issue is sought. The need is great and can scarcely be argued.

The proposed 75-cent increase in the limit on the general purpose tax in San Anselmo District is another matter. Although a 75-cent authorization is sought, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi has said only 25 cents probably will be needed next year.

The money bill voted by the Legislature this year was supposed to eliminate need for immediate local school tax increases. It apparently has not done so. But the request to up the limit by 75 cents seems untimely.

SAUSALITO'S CASE is again different. There, a $1.4 million bond issue is sought to build an "educational park" on the Bayside School site.

There is no question that Sausalito needs new school buildings. But the bond issue must succeed or fail on whether the public wants all its children to attend a single school or prefers to keep neighborhood schools.

Charity's Fun At Festival

The Fashion Mall at Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael won't be the same sort of place as usual tomorrow.

Instead, it will be a sort of old-fashioned coutry fair or outdoor bazaar, known to Marinites as the Grape Festival.

This annual affair is the principal fund-raising event to aid the Presbyterian-operated home for orphans and disturbed and unwanted children in San Anselmo.

The Grape Festival is a great Marin tradition, for an excellent cause. Operated by the various guilds which work year-around to help and support Sunny Hills, it offers fun, unusual merchandise, and even some bargains. It has proved year after year that charity can be a pleasure.

See you there!

Falcons For Starlings

Many remedies have been suggested for ridding areas of that noxious fellow, the starling — everything from the pill to a sticky goo spread on their perching places.

Perhaps starling-harrassed Marinites will not take amiss another far out suggestion. We suggest falcons. Yes, falcons. Applying the ancient art of falconry to our relatively new starling problem.

The British Navy has put these trained hawks to work clearing the runways of airfields of gulls. Prior to using falcons, the Navy was averaging $50,000 a month in damage resulting when aircraft collided with gulls.

Why, we wonder, doesn't some government agency give the falcons a chance to prove their worth?

October's Golden Days

Golden October is here again. There is a strong nip in the morning air — a hint of impending autumn. The hills are burnished gold, patched with groves of evergreens and the bright fall colors, just beginning, of the deciduous trees.

Grapes, clear, crisp, shorter days — and rain. That's October in Marin.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Salute Due Effort Of Bond Committee

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A salute is certainly due the earnest efforts of the Tamalpais Bond Election Committee. Over 1,600 precinct workers are busy contacting citizens to give them full information on the Oct. 10 issue.

This effort is essential since the district faces a problem of serious overcrowding, which will continue to worsen. A tremendous amount of study has gone into the program by two separate citizen committees and by the best professionals available. The high standard of education, for which the Tam District is well known, must be implemented by needed classroom facilities. The bond proposal represents the best dollar value and the best program for the district and for the taxpayers.

The bond committee has disseminated all kinds of written material on the widest possible basis, invited questions from all sides and offered to answer any received. It would be most unfortunate if doubts were raised at the last minute in such a way as to prevent the committee from providing answers.

Community organizations informed of the bond proposal have supported it enthusiastically. I certainly hope that the voters will turn out and give their support to help meet this serious crisis.

Good Education Is Desirable, But . . .

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Good education is the concern of all of us, but the property owners' ability to support further burdensome taxation, when property taxes have reached the confiscatory stage, must be considered. I resent being stampeded by "crisis" type campaigning. I resent elections being speeded up to be held the day before property taxes will be mailed. I resent being deceived by "hidden costs." Money alone does not provide motivation and palaces do not guarantee good education. We need more time to plan for the next 10 years . . . Let's take another look at the whole situation after we get our tax bills. Vote NO on Tuesday.

'Legalism Does Not Set Criminals Free'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your editorial, "Who Protects the Innocent," is astonishing naivete from an editor's desk. It shows a nervous anxiety that does not do credit to your position.

Sir, you have reversed the camera: you have photographed the men in the black hats getting the cattle over the border to defeat the tall-riding heroes in the white hats. And it isn't that way.

"Legalism" does not set criminals free; inept and untutored arresting officers do. It is they who construct the escape route for criminals by imprisoning them illegally. Were they allowed to work this way I, too, would be nervous because we would then be living in a totalitarian police state where illegal convictions supercede the law.

Don't worry about protection of the innocent, editor. Until the police get the smart idea that they should learn the simple ABC's of due process of law governing arrests, the law will continue to protect the innocent.

This "legalism" you fear is actually the blessed air of freedom of these fifty states of the Union. Fling up your head and breathe it deeply. There is really, I assure you, no poison in it.

Proposed Federal Law Seen As Hindering Smog Fight

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's automobile smog problem not only is the state's greatest health hazard, but it is getting worse, according to Assemblyman John Francis Foran, D-San San Francisco, who is chairman of the Assembly Committee on Transportation and Commerce.

The Bay Area legislator says that even more alarming is the fact that federal legislation currently before Congress would condemn residents of this state to suffer in denser and denser concentrations of the blight, which threatens health, agriculture and general well-being.

He urged congressional restoration of the Murphy amendment to pending federal air pollution legislation, which would give this state more latitude in enacting stricter anti-smog legislation.

"CALIFORNIA'S SMOG problem," said Foran, "is of a different magnitude than that of any other state. Yet under the federal aid pollution bill approved by the House Commerce Committee last week, California cannot adopt stricter requirements for reducing motor vehicle pollution.

"The Murphy amendment would have allowed this state to set stricter standards to meet compelling and extraordinary conditions.

"The recent smog attacks in Los Angeles and San Francisco are simply the latest indicated of the special problems in California."

The assemblyman noted California was the first state in the country to recognize the automobile smog problem, and the first to set and enforce standards for automobile emissions.

He said the proposed federal standards for 1968 are the same California has required since 1966, and "They are now inadequate."

"Preliminary investigation by our committee," he declared, "leaves no doubt in my mind that current smog control standards for automobiles must be strengthened. The state Department of Public Health already has recommended tougher standards for new cars in 1970. Committee hearings in Los Angeles next week will constitute the first legislative inquiry into this subject in two years.

"I think it unconsciable that the federal government would even consider preventing California from doing everything in its power to protect the health and well-being of its citizens.

"The effects of this proposed federal action will certainly be dealt with at length in our public hearings next week. I urge all Californians to contact their congressional representatives and demand restoration of the Murphy amendments. The welfare of California is at stake."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A PROUD FATHER, unaware of the sophistication of the youngsters of today, set out to acquaint his small daughter with the value of money. First he explained the variety of coins, then he lined up a penny, a nickel, a dime, a quarter, and a dollar bill, and asked her which one she'd choose for herself. She eyed him speculatively for a moment, then said, "I'll take the copper one, Daddy — but I think I'll take the little piece of paper along to wrap it in."

SIGNS:

At a cemetery gate: "Owing to employment difficulties, grave digging will be done temporarily by a skeleton crew."

In the room of a hotel that had just installed a sprinkler system: "Please don't smoke in bed. You may drown yourself."

Senate Takes Oblique Approach In Trying To Curb President

Sen. J. W. Fulbright and others complain President Johnson is getting too big for his britches, although they didn't put it that plainly. So alterations are suggested. It's an old story with Congress and presidents.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is still being criticized for something he did when Germany had Britain on the ropes just before World War II. He gave the British 50 old destroyers without consulting Congress.

And President Harry S. Truman got an endless pasting for going into the Korean War without asking Congress for so much as by-your-leave.

But Roosevelt was operating under the Lend-Lease Act which made what he did possible. And Truman was responding, if he needed a legal reason, to the United Nations' call to its members, of which the United States was one, to stop the invasion from North Korea.

BUT JOHNSON did the opposite. He got overwhelming congressional approval beforehand for sending troops into Vietnam, if he found that necessary, which he did—and now he's on the receiving end from Congress just the same.

What he got mixed up in, in a big way, was the ancient rivalry for power in foreign affairs between Congress and presidents.

The approval he got was in the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which Congress passed Aug. 7, 1964, at his request—the Senate by a vote of 88-2 and the House by 416-0. It authorized him to do what he thought necessary to stop aggression in Southeast Asia.

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee and Johnson's most constant critic about the war, took charge of getting the Tonkin resolution through the Senate three years ago.

But now he has offered his own resolution which would cripple Johnson's handling of foreign affairs by saying a "national commitment" has no validity or meaning unless both the president and Senate approve.

ONE TROUBLE with "national commitment" is its vagueness. What does it mean? Fulbright explained it as too often turning out to be "statements previously made by someone saying that we pledge ourselves to some undertaking."

But in Congress over the years a "commitment" could be interpreted as meaning all kinds of presidential actions which Congress hadn't approved.

Thirteen years ago, in the last great effort to drag the country back into her ancient isolationism, Sen. John W. Bricker, an Ohio Republican, offered something more powerful than a resolution. He called for a constitutional amendment.

His proposal would have hamstrung a president even more than Fulbright's. Fulbright, at that time opposed to tying any more strings to a president, called Bricker's idea a retreat from the world. The Senate killed the proposal.

The next day a substitute proposal, a little milder than Bricker's but still an interference with the president's foreign affairs powers, was also killed.

IRONICALLY, while Fulbright voted against that, too, Johnson, then Democratic leader in the Senate when Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, voted for it.

But even if the Senate votes for Fulbright's resolution it can't change anything for Johnson. He wouldn't have to pay any attention to it since such a resolution is not a law.

Yet if it passed, it would be a warning to Johnson he could expect rough treatment if he made any "national commitment" and didn't get the Senate's approval first.

This could damage his strength in dealing with other nations, for they could rightly ask: How can Johnson promise anything, and how can we expect him to make good on his promise, if the Senate hasn't agreed to the promise?

All the Senate uproar over Johnson—because of his sending troops into Vietnam—could be ended in a minute if the Senate would just act to rescind the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which gave him the power.

So what's happening is an oblique attempt to curb him instead of doing it directly.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is stubbornly persisting in his efforts to expand trade with the Soviet bloc despite the step-up of military aid to North Vietnam by these Communist nations.

A graphic illustration of this policy occurred last week when the President succeeded in getting Senate-House foreign aid conferees to kill an amendment that would have forced withdrawal of Poland's "most favored nation" status under U.S. tariff laws because of her shipment of arms to Hanoi.

This legislative acton, behind closed doors, came at a time when three Polish vessels — Konopicka, Benowski, and F. Ceynowa — were in Haiphong harbor unloading military equipment for the North Vietnamese.

THE AMENDMENT barring the highly prized tariff concessions to Poland was overwhelmingly approved by the House last month after being offered by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The President's advisers, after succeeding in keeping the ban out of the Senate version, took his fight against the Findley amendment to the House-Senate confereees.

On request of Sec. of State Rusk, J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida., vigorously attacked the amendment in the conference. Both argued that a withdrawal of tariff concessions at this time could wreck President Johnson'ss program of "building bridges" to Poland. They contended the trade issue should not be linked with the Vietnam war on the grounds this would only heat up the cold war.

In defense of the Findley amendment, Rep. E. Ross Adair, Ind., second ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared:

"So long as this blood bath in Vietnam is going on, Congress should not give aid or comfort to any country supplying arms to our enemy. No one in this room can deny that Poland is sending Hanoi instruments of death to be used against our boys."

When the foreign aid authorization measure comes back to the House for final approval, Representative Findley plans to launch a new counterattack that could tie up the legislation indefinitely.

This strategy is in line with the policy of House GOP leaders. They are on record as opposed to continuing "most favored nation" tariff concessions to Soviet bloc nations under existing world conditions. Poland is the only one now receiving such concessions.

These lower tariffs have been the most significant factor in Poland's favorable balance of trade with the U.S., according to Commerce Department officials. In 1966, they point out, Poland's exports to the U.S. were $82.9 million and its imports $53 million, resulting in a favorable balance to Poland of $29.9 million. In 1959, the last year before the concessions were granted, Poland exported only $31.8 million in goods to the U.S., but imports from the U.S. were $75 million, a deficit of $43 million.

Goodbye To Dust Bowl Minstrel Whose Songs Changed America

Woody Guthrie died Tuesday. Most people will recall him as "that folk singer who wrote so many songs," but he was more than that.

He was the single seminal figure from whom stemmed the present folk music orientation which permeates every phase of contemporary music except the John Cage stuff and such esoterica.

Guthrie came out of the dust bowl singing, back in the 1930s, and while he freely admitted borrowing tunes and verses from a thousand sources, he turned them into music that was hand-made, to use Malvina Reynolds' phrase, and music that meant something.

He was spiritual father to the Weavers and stepfather to the Kingston Trip, Peter, Paul and Mary, and all the groups of a few years ago when folk music first started making the big time. By then Guthrie was in the hospital and many people even then thought he was dead.

If he has a single musical heir it is Pete Seeger, not Bob Dylan, although Dylan started with Guthrie for an inspiration and worked his way from there in new directions that are still sprouting.

THE KIND OF MUSIC Guthrie made has gone through a lot of transformations since he wrote things like "Cryderville Jail" and "The Ladies' Auxiliary," but every amplified guitar note you hear owes something to him, because he was the embodiment of the folk music scene. He didn't invent folk, but he distilled it and became the one common ancestor for everyone from Harry Belfonte to Moby Grape.

He wasn't the sort of man who gets in history books. He never won a war or signed a treaty, although he sang irreverently about those who did. But he said something positive and hopeful to people, and he will be remembered longer and more fondly than most of the mountebanks passing for statesmen today.

And one of his songs, "This Land Is Your Land," would make a considerably better national anthem than the one we have now; it can be sung.

EITHER THE San Francisco papers are suppressing the news or Little Miss Marker hasn't done any campaigning in her race for congress. There is, however, a Shirley Temple film festival this week in Los Gatos, a bit south of her district. Perhaps the non-campaign is the wave of the future.

Does it bother anyone else that half of the super-steel and super-expensive razor blades turn out no better, after two shaves, than the old cheap kind you used and threw away? Are the blademen unloading their old stock by putting one or two cheapies in each pack of stainless blades? Or is it just they don't know what they're doing?

Could one of our senators or others claiming the title please explain the difference between a hawk and a warmonger? Maybe a hawk is a warmonger on our side and a warmonger is a hawk on theirs.

THERE IS A remarkably scenic Sunday drive tucked away in southern Marin waiting for newcomers who haven't learned about it.

Turn off the Sausalito Lateral to Fort Baker, drive down past the harbor and take the dirt road under the Golden Gate Bridge. (First stop by the water and explore a little, hear the music or cars clanking the metal bridge joints high above you, walk along the little rocky beach and look at the city across the water.)

Keep out of the restricted areas and away from closed gates, and eventually you get onto paved road again. It runs up onto the headlands, past a couple of abandoned military shacks and toward the radar station.

There are turnouts every so often where you can watch ships and seagulls, and the road eventually winds downhill and over toward Fort Barry, Rodeo Lagoon and Fort Cronkite.

You can return through the tunnel and end up on the Sausalito Lateral again.

With binoculars and plenty of time, you can see views of the bay, the ocean and the bridge — from above — much better than from any millionaire's house in Marin.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

What follows would seem unbelievable, if one were being told by word of mouth. I have before me an eight-page epistle which has been sent to employees of the county by the County of Marin Personnel Department: "Position Description Questionnaire." This is the first page.

"Your answer to this questionnaire will aid us in the preparation of a description of the duties and responsibilities of your position.

"Please look over the entire questionnaire before beginning to fill it out, then answer each question as clearly and definitely as possible. The description of your duties should be clear and accurate and sufficiently detailed, so that we can understand exactly WHAT you do and HOW you do it. Please keep that WHAT and HOW in mind as you write; try to be specific and avoid general terms.

"If your work involves the preparation of reports, indicate the kind, the purpose of each, and exactly what you contribute to them. Such expressions as 'filing,' 'keeping records,' and 'assisting in the preparation of reports' are of little value unless we know the kind and volume of filing, the kind and purpose of records and reports, and what you contribute in each case. IF POSSIBLE, PLEASE TYPE THE ANSWERS TO THIS QUESTIONNAIRE."

ON THE FOLLOWING seven pages there are questions numbered 1 to 30. Now bear in mind that this department was set up under and by the administrator at the very beginning, some 10 years ago. And, as I recall, the present director was hired in '61 or '62.

As samples of the questions are related here, it will be quite all right to ask; "just what have they been doing all that time?" It is believed that they prepare and give examinations to applicants together with oral reviews. At least the image they have been trying to promote is one of extreme activity. However, the boss man did slip once about a year ago and was caught going through waste baskets other than his own, which somewhat tarnished the picture.

Here are some of the questions: "Do you maintain records? . . . If so, what type of records? . . . What purpose do they serve? . . . Does your position involve writing correspondence? . . . If so, what is the general subject matter of your letters; to whom do you generally write; which types of letters do you initiate yourself; do you or your supervisor sign them?"

Then from other pages? "What kinds of errors could easily be made in your position? . . . What would be the probable consequences of such errors? . . How would such errors be discovered? . . . How would these errors be corrected? . . . What contacts do you make with people outside of your division or department? . . . How frequently, and for what purpose? . . . What type of experience and specific knowledges and skills should a person have before being employed in your position? . . . What knowledges, necessary for the performance of your duties, did you learn after you were employed in your present position? . . . Approximately how long did it take you to acquire these knowledges?"

"What per cent of your time is spent: Sitting . . . Standing . . . Walking about? . . . Does your position involve considerable exertion or effort, such as: Climbing . . . Bending . . . Reaching . . . Lifting or carrying heavy objects? . . . If so, briefly state why."

FROM AND INCLUDING 1964-65 to 1966-67 (three years), for salaries and benefits alone, this department cost $124,663 plus all other incidental expenses. It jumped from $23,000 to $51,000 and is budgeted for '67-'68 at $58,940. Then there were six or more prior years' costs. Yet they still have to ask 30 questions about jobs that presumably they were well informed about.

Paper work making more paper work — the Parkinson Law in action.

More "Two-bitting" and it makes the big bite.

ART BUCHWALD

Announcement Of Non-Candidacy Despite Entreaties Of Backers

WASHINGTON — It's probably too early to announce it, but I have decided not to run for President of the United States on the Republican ticket. In so doing I join a long list of distinguished men who are also not running for President, including Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. Ronald Reagan, Sen. Charles Percy, former Vice President Richard Nixon, and Gen. James Gavin, who have all publicly stated they are not interested in the office. (Romney still hasn't made up his mind.)

Like all these men I am terribly embarrassed by my many well-meaning friends and supporters who have opened campaign headquarters in cities throughout the country, and I would like to disassociate myself from their enthusiasm and ardor.

I've done everything possible to persuade them that I wish to remain in my present position where I can do the most good for the people.

But these supporters refuse to take no for an answer, and all I can do is keep denying I am a candidate for the presidency right up until the Republican convention where I would probably not even accept a draft.

IT'S TRUE that I've been leading President Johnson in the Iowa polls, but everybody is leading President Johnson in Iowa, so I must in all modesty say that although I'm pleased, I'm not surprised.

There are those who say that I have accepted speaking engagements in all parts of the country as a method of lining up delegates. This, of course, is a dastardly accusation. The only reason I have been making these trips is to meet the American people so they can see what sort of man they could have had for President, if I were running for the office, which I am, of course, not doing.

But at the same time, like all other men who are not running for the presidency, I am distrubed about the war in Vietnam, rampant crime in the streets, wasteful government spending, the credibility gap, and our hippie youth who have forsaken the true values of the American way of life.

There are great urban problems to be solved, but let's not forget the farmer or the old people on Social Security or our gallant forest fire fighters.

THE QUESTION that the American people will have to ask in 1968, and I can't answer it because I'm not a candidate, is, are we moving with the times, or are we being pushed aside by events that will eventually smother us and make us a second-rate power, in a world where the only thing the Communists understand is strength?

I have been asked by those who put their country above everything else if I would reconsider my irrevocable decision not to run for the presidential nomination, and I have told them that it would be unfair for me to even consider it when Rocky, Dick, Ronnie, Charles and Jim have all announced that they were not candidates for the same office.

So if you get invited to a fund-raising dinner or a political rally by the "Citizens for Buchwald" committee, I want you to know I have nothing to do with it, and I repudiate their efforts and would nip the groundswell in the bud if I only knew how.

Grateful Dead Members Blast Laws On Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The Grateful Dead have struck back.

Raided last Tuesday for possession of marijuana, the successful hard rock band held a news conference yesterday and denounced the law against pot and the officers who enforce it.

Five of the band's figures were arrested in the raid, along with five young women. Officers said they found more than a pound of marijuana and hashish.

Arrested were singer Rod McKernan, 22; guitarist Robert Weir, 19; equipment manager Robert Matthews, 19, and business managers Rock Scully, 26, and Daniel Rifkin, 23. The trial will be Oct. 27.

"They're just harassing people with long hair," said Rifkin.

The rock group complained the law "classifies smoking marijuana along with murder, rape and armed robbery as a felony.

"Yet almost anyone who has ever studied marijuana seriously and objectively has agreed that, physically and psychologically, marijuana is the least harmful chemical used for pleasure and life-enhancement. It is particularly less harmful than alcohol," the statement said.

"Tens of millions" use marijuana and the law against it is "seriously out of touch with reality," the argument continued.

"If the lawyers, doctors, advertising men, teachers and political office holders who use marijuana were arrested today, the law might well be off the books before Thanksgiving," it was suggested.

The hippies, said the statement, are a false image created by the public media to discredit "a city full of individuals trying to develop styles of life as free men and women."

He was spiritual father to the Weavers and stepfather to the Kingston Trip, Peter, Paul and Mary, and all the groups of a few years ago when folk music first started making the big time. By then Guthrie was in the hospital and many people even then thought he was dead.

If he has a single musical heir it is Pete Seeger, not Bob Dylan, although Dylan started with Guthrie for an inspiration and worked his way from there in new directions that are still sprouting.

THE KIND OF MUSIC Guthrie made has gone through a lot of transformations since he wrote things like "Cryderville Jail" and "The Ladies' Auxiliary," but every amplified guitar note you hear owes something to him, because he was the embodiment of the folk music scene. He didn't invent folk, but he distilled it and became the one common ancestor for everyone from Harry Belfonte to Moby Grape.

He wasn't the sort of man who gets in history books. He never won a war or signed a treaty, although he sang irreverently about those who did. But he said something positive and hopeful to people, and he will be remembered longer and more fondly than most of the mountebanks passing for statesmen today.

And one of his songs, "This Land Is Your Land," would make a considerably better national anthem than the one we have now; it can be sung.

EITHER THE San Francisco papers are suppressing the news or Little Miss Marker hasn't done any campaigning in her race for congress. There is, however, a Shirley Temple film festival this week in Los Gatos, a bit south of her district. Perhaps the non-campaign is the wave of the future.

Does it bother anyone else that half of the super-steel and super-expensive razor blades turn out no better, after two shaves, than the old cheap kind you used and threw away? Are the blademen unloading their old stock by putting one or two cheapies in each pack of stainless blades? Or is it just they don't know what they're doing?

Could one of our senators or others claiming the title please explain the difference between a hawk and a warmonger? Maybe a hawk is a warmonger on our side and a warmonger is a hawk on theirs.

THERE IS A remarkably scenic Sunday drive tucked away in southern Marin waiting for newcomers who haven't learned about it.

Turn off the Sausalito Lateral to Fort Baker, drive down past the harbor and take the dirt road under the Golden Gate Bridge. (First stop by the water and explore a little, hear the music or cars clanking the metal bridge joints high above you, walk along the little rocky beach and look at the city across the water.)

Keep out of the restricted areas and away from closed gates, and eventually you get onto paved road again. It runs up onto the headlands, past a couple of abandoned military shacks and toward the radar station.

There are turnouts every so often where you can watch ships and seagulls, and the road eventually winds downhill and over toward Fort Barry, Rodeo Lagoon and Fort Cronkite.

You can return through the tunnel and end up on the Sausalito Lateral again.

With binoculars and plenty of time, you can see views of the bay, the ocean and the bridge — from above — much better than from any millionaire's house in Marin.

ART BUCHWALD

Announcement Of Non-Candidacy Despite Entreaties Of Backers

WASHINGTON — It's probably too early to announce it, but I have decided not to run for President of the United States on the Republican ticket. In so doing I join a long list of distinguished men who are also not running for President, including Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. Ronald Reagan, Sen. Charles Percy, former Vice President Richard Nixon, and Gen. James Gavin, who have all publicly stated they are not interested in the office. (Romney still hasn't made up his mind.)

Like all these men I am terribly embarrassed by my many well-meaning friends and supporters who have opened campaign headquarters in cities throughout the country, and I would like to disassociate myself from their enthusiasm and ardor.

I've done everything possible to persuade them that I wish to remain in my present position where I can do the most good for the people.

But these supporters refuse to take no for an answer, and all I can do is keep denying I am a candidate for the presidency right up until the Republican convention where I would probably not even accept a draft.

IT'S TRUE that I've been leading President Johnson in the Iowa polls, but everybody is leading President Johnson in Iowa, so I must in all modesty say that although I'm pleased, I'm not surprised.

There are those who say that I have accepted speaking engagements in all parts of the country as a method of lining up delegates. This, of course, is a dastardly accusation. The only reason I have been making these trips is to meet the American people so they can see what sort of man they could have had for President, if I were running for the office, which I am, of course, not doing.

But at the same time, like all other men who are not running for the presidency, I am distrubed about the war in Vietnam, rampant crime in the streets, wasteful government spending, the credibility gap, and our hippie youth who have forsaken the true values of the American way of life.

There are great urban problems to be solved, but let's not forget the farmer or the old people on Social Security or our gallant forest fire fighters.

THE QUESTION that the American people will have to ask in 1968, and I can't answer it because I'm not a candidate, is, are we moving with the times, or are we being pushed aside by events that will eventually smother us and make us a second-rate power, in a world where the only thing the Communists understand is strength?

I have been asked by those who put their country above everything else if I would reconsider my irrevocable decision not to run for the presidential nomination, and I have told them that it would be unfair for me to even consider it when Rocky, Dick, Ronnie, Charles and Jim have all announced that they were not candidates for the same office.

So if you get invited to a fund-raising dinner or a political rally by the "Citizens for Buchwald" committee, I want you to know I have nothing to do with it, and I repudiate their efforts and would nip the groundswell in the bud if I only knew how.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

What follows would seem unbelievable, if one were being told by word of mouth. I have before me an eight-page epistle which has been sent to employees of the county by the County of Marin Personnel Department: "Position Description Questionnaire." This is the first page.

"Your answer to this questionnaire will aid us in the preparation of a description of the duties and responsibilities of your position.

"Please look over the entire questionnaire before beginning to fill it out, then answer each question as clearly and definitely as possible. The description of your duties should be clear and accurate and sufficiently detailed, so that we can understand exactly WHAT you do and HOW you do it. Please keep that WHAT and HOW in mind as you write; try to be specific and avoid general terms.

"If your work involves the preparation of reports, indicate the kind, the purpose of each, and exactly what you contribute to them. Such expressions as 'filing,' 'keeping records,' and 'assisting in the preparation of reports' are of little value unless we know the kind and volume of filing, the kind and purpose of records and reports, and what you contribute in each case. IF POSSIBLE, PLEASE TYPE THE ANSWERS TO THIS QUESTIONNAIRE."

ON THE FOLLOWING seven pages there are questions numbered 1 to 30. Now bear in mind that this department was set up under and by the administrator at the very beginning, some 10 years ago. And, as I recall, the present director was hired in '61 or '62.

As samples of the questions are related here, it will be quite all right to ask; "just what have they been doing all that time?" It is believed that they prepare and give examinations to applicants together with oral reviews. At least the image they have been trying to promote is one of extreme activity. However, the boss man did slip once about a year ago and was caught going through waste baskets other than his own, which somewhat tarnished the picture.

Here are some of the questions: "Do you maintain records? . . . If so, what type of records? . . . What purpose do they serve? . . . Does your position involve writing correspondence? . . . If so, what is the general subject matter of your letters; to whom do you generally write; which types of letters do you initiate yourself; do you or your supervisor sign them?"

Then from other pages? "What kinds of errors could easily be made in your position? . . . What would be the probable consequences of such errors? . . How would such errors be discovered? . . . How would these errors be corrected? . . . What contacts do you make with people outside of your division or department? . . . How frequently, and for what purpose? . . . What type of experience and specific knowledges and skills should a person have before being employed in your position? . . . What knowledges, necessary for the performance of your duties, did you learn after you were employed in your present position? . . . Approximately how long did it take you to acquire these knowledges?"

"What per cent of your time is spent: Sitting . . . Standing . . . Walking about? . . . Does your position involve considerable exertion or effort, such as: Climbing . . . Bending . . . Reaching . . . Lifting or carrying heavy objects? . . . If so, briefly state why."

FROM AND INCLUDING 1964-65 to 1966-67 (three years), for salaries and benefits alone, this department cost $124,663 plus all other incidental expenses. It jumped from $23,000 to $51,000 and is budgeted for '67-'68 at $58,940. Then there were six or more prior years' costs. Yet they still have to ask 30 questions about jobs that presumably they were well informed about.

Grateful Dead Members Blast Laws On Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The Grateful Dead have struck back.

Raided last Tuesday for possession of marijuana, the successful hard rock band held a news conference yesterday and denounced the law against pot and the officers who enforce it.

Five of the band's figures were arrested in the raid, along with five young women. Officers said they found more than a pound of marijuana and hashish.

Arrested were singer Rod McKernan, 22; guitarist Robert Weir, 19; equipment manager Robert Matthews, 19, and business managers Rock Scully, 26, and Daniel Rifkin, 23. The trial will be Oct. 27.

"They're just harassing people with long hair," said Rifkin.

The rock group complained the law "classifies smoking marijuana along with murder, rape and armed robbery as a felony.

"Yet almost anyone who has ever studied marijuana seriously and objectively has agreed that, physically and psychologically, marijuana is the least harmful chemical used for pleasure and life-enhancement. It is particularly less harmful than alcohol," the statement said.

"Tens of millions" use marijuana and the law against it is "seriously out of touch with reality," the argument continued.

"If the lawyers, doctors, advertising men, teachers and political office holders who use marijuana were arrested today, the law might well be off the books before Thanksgiving," it was suggested.

The hippies, said the statement, are a false image created by the public media to discredit "a city full of individuals trying to develop styles of life as free men and women."

Arthur L. Brown's Wife Seeks Divorce

Arthur L. Brown, president of the board of directors of Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, was sued yesterday for divorce by his wife of 14 years, Beatrice Brown.

She alleged extreme cruelty in the Marin Superior Court suit and asks her share of community property including the family home at 85 Park Circle, Marin City, custody of their three children, and support for herself and the children.

'The Endless Summer'— A Surprise

By LES DARD

NORTHGATE THEATER

Now showing is the biggest "sleeper" of the year, a film that began as a documentary but caught fire.

"The Endless Summer" is the best look yet at th sport of surfing. It is the work of Bruce Brown, a San Franciscan who moved south and became a surfing expert. He is producer, director, photographer, narrator, editor — just about a one-man show except for two surfing pals who star in the film.

This is not the "Beach Party" nonsense we've seen before; it will likely give you a new respect for the boys who ride those slim surfboards on bonecrushing breakers.

TAMALPAIS

"The San Pebbles," a must for every serious movie-goer, is set in China's waterways in the 1920s. It tells the story of the U.S. gunboat San Pablo — nickname Sand Pebbles—trying to keep the peace after the Chinese decided to rid themselves of "foreign devils."

Steve McQueen performs as an engineer who at first cares only for his engines, but gradually gets personally involved in the heaving troubles around him; Richard Crenna is forceful and determined as the beleagured captain.

RAFAEL THEATER

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

A sophisticated and graceful satire on the joys and anguish of being very, very rich is "The Honey Pot."

NOVATO THEATER

"Batman" is back, with all spoofs intact. With him are not only Robin, his faithful Dynamic Duo partner, but a wild assortment of villains including The Riddler, The Joker, The Penguin and The Catwoman.

MOTOR MOVIES

We're being revisited tonight through Sunday by "Splendor in the Grass," the anguished tale of young lovers in a cruel, adult world.

Natalie Wood is a high school girl desperately in love with Warren Beatty. Too young to marry, but too much in love, the youngsters seek guidance from parents and other grownups.

What they get is self-interest and hypocrisy.

LARK THEATER

"The Umbrellas of Cherbourg" is rare, a musical without song or dance. But, every word is sung, in the fable of the dreams and futilities of young love.

Co-featured is "The Jokers," a British Comedy.

SEQUOIA THEATER

Held over is "The Family Way," with Hayley Mills as a young bride in a comedy about the troubles of newlyweds:

Two British youngsters can't afford their own place, and so move in with the groom's parents.

FAIRFAX THEATER

Also remaining with us is "The Taming of the Shrew," latest effort of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

101 DRIVE-IN

Held over is "The Dirty Dozen," starring Lee Marvin. A maverick major assigned to whip 12 military convicts into a fighting unit.

70 Photographs To Be Exhibited

An exhibit of over 70 photographs will be held at the Mill Valley Public Library from Oct. 18 through Nov. 1.

The work is by members of the recreational group of the 1967 summer youth program of Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

Auditions Set

Auditions for experienced women dancers for parts in the Sonoma State College opera workshop production of "Hansel and Gretel" will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the college's music building. The opera will be performed during the Christmas season.

RAFAEL THEATER

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

A sophisticated and graceful satire on the joys and anguish of being very, very rich is "The Honey Pot."

NOVATO THEATER

"Batman" is back, with all spoofs intact. With him are not only Robin, his faithful Dynamic Duo partner, but a wild assortment of villains including The Riddler, The Joker, The Penguin and The Catwoman.

MOTOR MOVIES

We're being revisited tonight through Sunday by "Splendor in the Grass," the anguished tale of young lovers in a cruel, adult world.

Natalie Wood is a high school girl desperately in love with Warren Beatty. Too young to marry, but too much in love, the youngsters seek guidance from parents and other grownups.

What they get is self-interest and hypocrisy.

LARK THEATER

"The Umbrellas of Cherbourg" is rare, a musical without song or dance. But, every word is sung, in the fable of the dreams and futilities of young love.

Co-featured is "The Jokers," a British Comedy.

SEQUOIA THEATER

Held over is "The Family Way," with Hayley Mills as a young bride in a comedy about the troubles of newlyweds:

Two British youngsters can't afford their own place, and so move in with the groom's parents.

FAIRFAX THEATER

Also remaining with us is "The Taming of the Shrew," latest effort of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

101 DRIVE-IN

Held over is "The Dirty Dozen," starring Lee Marvin. A maverick major assigned to whip 12 military convicts into a fighting unit.

70 Photographs To Be Exhibited

An exhibit of over 70 photographs will be held at the Mill Valley Public Library from Oct. 18 through Nov. 1.

The work is by members of the recreational group of the 1967 summer youth program of Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

Auditions Set

Auditions for experienced women dancers for parts in the Sonoma State College opera workshop production of "Hansel and Gretel" will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the college's music building. The opera will be performed during the Christmas season.

A YOUNG BEGINNING

Dance Steps Toward Adventure

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Professional ballerina to Fulbright fellow, well on her way eventually to a doctorate in anthropology at Harvard University is the record of 22-year-old Julie Taylor of Mill Valley.

Like many a dancer, she has an apparently fragile loveliness that conceals the steely strength and discipline that build astonishing endurance. This characteristic and her intelligence and curiosity have led her into adventures, such as being shipwrecked in the Antarctic, that would test the mettle of a pioneer woman.

One of the three children of Joseph Taylors of Mill Valley — Julie has an older brother Stephen, in the U.S. Navy, and a younger sister Joan, a student at the Inter-American University in Puerto Rico.

Julie was graduated in 1962 from Tamalpais High School as class salutatorian with an E. E. Wood Honor Society scholarship, but from the time she started dancing lessons at the age of six, her sole ambition was to become a professional ballerina.

"I almost didn't go to college," she says, "but I knew education was a more lasting thing. So I entered Radcliffe and continued my dancing lessons at the same time for two years at the Boston School of Ballet.

"THEN I QUIT BECAUSE I had fallen in love with Harvard. Also I had danced professionally and saw that if at 27 you are not Margot Fonteyn, you are done. I also saw that though these dancers were bright girls, they didn't have trained minds. I decided to get a degree in anthropology and do research on dance.

"At the end of my junior year at Radcliffe I received a grant from the National Science Foundation and went to Peru to do research in dance. I lived in a little village almost three months doing practical study of what I had been learning from books. And I also traveled two months in South America.

In my senior year I received another National Science Foundation grant for a thesis on what I had learned in Peru. In 1966 I was graduated with a B. A. in anthropology from Harvard, a Fulbright fellowship and a Woodrow Wilson fellowship. The Fulbright was to be used to send me to Argentina for a year for the experience of living in another culture, and the Wilson was for a year's study at Columbia University. I had to turn down the Wilson to take the Fulbright."

Julie said she received the kind of Fulbright fellowship offered recent graduates, which permits them to do independent, informal study that is not to be used toward a degree.

Required to attend classes, she attended the Catholic University of Argentina for one semester and the National Universtiy of Buenos Aires one semester.

"MY RESEARCH PROJECT was structured around the Argentinian tango," she said. "In fact, I learned to do many of the South American folk dances. It was a wonderful way to get to know the people because they are so thrilled when you can do their dances.

"Though I cannot use this experience toward a degree, it gave me information on how to get material for my doctoral dissertation."

Julie said that people receiving this kind of training are expected to be helpful as ambassadors to the intellectuals and people in the upper middle and lower upper classes of foreign countries, whereas Peace Corps workers serve the same function with the lower classes.

Since the Fulbright fellowships provide money for travel through a student's assigned area, Julie decided to go to Tierra del Fuego.

"I just wanted to go the farthest south I could go. It was called the land of fire by the sailors who saw the Indians' fires all along the straits of Magellan and didn't know what they were.

"IT IS INCREDIBLY beautiful country. My roommate, Lyn Tolkoff, another Fulbrighter, and I were going to spend three days there and stayed three months.

Julie had her first taste of hardship when they crossed barren, cold Patagonia in a bus

'The dirt roads were terrible," she said, "and we were marooned two days because of inundated roads in a little town during a rain and wind storm so awful that it tore the car door off when I opened it."

"From Ushuaia the girls went on a seven-hour trip by Land Rover to Harberton through magnificent country so wild that trees had to be cut down as they went through.

On returning to Ushuaia the girls were invited to join one of the tours to the Antarctic. This was a rare opportunity, for 150 years ago no one had ever sighted the south polar continent, and even today less than 100 women have set foot on it.

Even if passengers don't mind discomfort, there is great danger when they board the chartered Argentinian naval vessel "Lapataia," which sails across Drake Passage, 500 miles of the roughest water in the world.

Color photographs of this trip appeared in Sept. 8 issue of Life magazine, but the experience was far more exciting than told, Julie says.

"After leaving Ushuaia we passed Cape Horn and spent 16 days on the ship stopping at various islands where there were Argentine Navy bases.

"Scenery was breath-takingly beautiful but backward from what we usually see. Instead of being snow-capped the mountain peaks were black because it was summer and the snow had melted on top, leaving them white at the bottom.

"We had fun with the penguins and could have caught them, but it's not wise to, because in self-defense they spray you with guano, which has a horrible smell."

THE GIRLS HAD a really exciting experience when a storm came up while some members of the party who had left the landing launch were on the other side of an island despite warnings.

"The mate said, 'Now we're in for it!' By the time we got to where the people were, waves were crashing over the boat, and we couldn't land. And the people couldn't swim out to the boat because if you are in the water more than two minutes, you die.

"A wave swept our young navigator overboard, but an officer caught his jacket. By this time the launch was falling apart, and we had to go into the water up to our waists and struggle ashore. Fortunately we were close.

"The launch always lands near a base, and when we realized we couldn't get back to the ship, we went to one of the refuges maintained for stranded ice breakers. They are provided with three months' supply of food and change of clothing.

"AFTER THE NAVIGATOR was revived, he took charge, and soon had the crew cooking in the kitchen. Fifty or 60 of us put on old navy clothes, and that night we sat down to dinner that included wine. No Argentine would be caught dead without wine.

"We slept in bunks, and the next morning the ship tried to send out life saving craft to pick us up, but it was too rough. Finally they were able to get little dinghies to shore, which took us to the life boats.

"On the way to get in a dinghy Lyn and I ran across what we thought was an expanse of snow, but it was a lake, and it broke through. Luckily we had been instructed on how to crawl out. We spent most of two days wet.

"THE NIGHT WE got back on the ship we had a big party."

Julie then returned to Buenos Aires. Later, on another research project she went to Chile, where a memorable experience was visiting 50,000 Indians of a tribe that had never been conquered. She also went to Northern Argentina and spent a month in Lima.

On her way home, which she had not seen for three years, she met her sister Joan, who was on her way to the University in Puerto Rico.

Julie's contacts with South Americans were helped greatly because of the fluent Spanish she taught herself. She has also become quite an expert photographer. She had taken a seminar at Radcliffe in how to use cinema and still photography in anthropology, and with her $10-second hand camera took pictures in Peru that were exhibited at Harvard.

As for her future plans, Julie is working at a temporary job until she returns to Harvard in 1968 to work on a doctorate in anthropology.

"DANCE WILL BE my focal point," she says. "I don't dance any more. I want to write about its anthropological aspects and psychological and social funcitions for people of the same class as those I studied.

"It's unfair that only academic people learn these things. I don't want my work to be just a thesis read by professors.

"Eventually I want to write books and magazine articles."

JULIE TAYLOR, a Fulbright fellow recently returned from South America, where she did research in dance, shows her mother, Mrs. Joseph Taylor of Mill Valley, the Huayno dance of Peru. Her costume is that of an Indian of Duzco, old Inca capital. Mothers carry babies and bundles on their backs in this shawl. Braids worn down the back indicate unmarried status. Mrs. Taylor holds an Argentine gaucho doll, and on the table is a whale vertebra Julie picked up on a Tierra Del Fuego beach.

Newswomen Meet California's First Lady At Brunch, Tour

By PATRICIA ZINN

Northern California's newswomen mingled socially for a change yesterday as the honored guests at a brunch given by California's First Lady at the executive mansion in Sacramento.

NANCY REAGAN

Following introductions to Mrs. Reagan by Nancy Clark Reynolds, assistant press secretary who lived in Sleepy Hollow while with Station KPIX, guests were seated at tables under the huge oak trees around the pool. Among the guests was Mill Valley's Wanda Ramey who has assumed her new position with Station KQED.

THE GOLD-clothed covered tables were centered with fall arrangements of orange and yellow African marigolds and brilliant cox-combs done by members of the Sacramento Garden Club.

The menu, which drew high praise from the guests, was planned by Virginia Stanton of Carmel Valley, a friend of Nancy Reagan's who has been a longtime writer on party entertaining for House Beautiful magazine.

It featured chicken teriyaki, broiled mushrooms, melons in ginger sugar, eggs in aspic with a shredded ham pate, avocado halves stuffed with mandarin oranges, pineapple ring and cherry, and date and nut bread. Drawing raves, too, were walnuts which had been toasted in a Worchestershire sauce and butter.

Marin Women

Legislation Urged For Working Women

Points of the new platform include:

LEGISLATIVE PURPOSES: 1. To elevate standards for the employed woman, to promote her interests, to create a spirit of cooperation, to expand opportunities through industrial, scientific and vocational activities, to secure equal consideration under the law and to establish conditions which assure both men and women the fullest opportunity and reward for the development of their capacities to the maximum potential.

2. To consider the place and responsibility of the employed woman as a concerned citizen in the complex democratic society of the United States, and to strengthen the role of this nation in world affairs.

ACTION ITEMS: 1. Propose and support legislation to amend the Constitution of the United States to provide equality of rights under the law to men and women.

2. Propose and support: (a) Legislation in the field of employment which provides uniform laws and regulations for men and women as to working conditions, rates of pay, and equal employment opportunity; and (b) uniform legislation for men and women in the areas of taxation and retirement.

3. Propose and support legislation to provide for uniform jury service and uniform qualifications in the selection of men and women to serve on grand and petit juries in any court.

POLICY ITEM: Support measures within the framework of the Constitution of the United States that promote peace and strengthen national security and make more effective the United Nations and such other international organizations in which the United States is a participant, without relinquishment of our basic freedoms.

The federation also discussed and placed emphasis on repeal of state restrictive laws that limit the earning power of women.

SHOWING, RAIN OR SHINE—

There was an umbrella at the ready, but the sun cooperated when four members who modeled at the Outdoor Art Club's "Fall Fling" fashion luncheon were photographed yesterday in Mill Valley. Front from left, Mrs. John V. Buckley wears a tweed day dress and Garbo hat and Mrs. William Pemberton is in a beige camel's hair suit and printed velvet fedora. Back left, Mrs. Roland Kelly, models a plaid wool coat with lambskin trim and the new hardware look, and Mrs. Fred Wight, shows a neon pink wool shift and chinchilla cloth Cossack hat.

Julie had her first taste of hardship when they crossed barren, cold Patagonia in a bus

on the way to Ushuaia, the southermost city in the world.

"The dirt roads were terrible," she said, "and we were marooned two days because of inundated roads in a little town during a rain and wind storm so awful that it tore the car door off when I opened it."

"From Ushuaia the girls went on a seven-hour trip by Land Rover to Harberton through magnificent country so wild that trees had to be cut down as they went through.

On returning to Ushuaia the girls were invited to join one of the tours to the Antarctic. This was a rare opportunity, for 150 years ago no one had ever sighted the south polar continent, and even today less than 100 women have set foot on it.

Even if passengers don't mind discomfort, there is great danger when they board the chartered Argentinian naval vessel "Lapataia," which sails across Drake Passage, 500 miles of the roughest water in the world.

Color photographs of this trip appeared in Sept. 8 issue of Life magazine, but the experience was far more exciting than told, Julie says.

"After leaving Ushuaia we passed Cape Horn and spent 16 days on the ship stopping at various islands where there were Argentine Navy bases.

"Scenery was breath-takingly beautiful but backward from what we usually see. Instead of being snow-capped the mountain peaks were black because it was summer and the snow had melted on top, leaving them white at the bottom.

"We had fun with the penguins and could have caught them, but it's not wise to, because in self-defense they spray you with guano, which has a horrible smell."

THE GIRLS HAD a really exciting experience when a storm came up while some members of the party who had left the landing launch were on the other side of an island despite warnings.

"The mate said, 'Now we're in for it!' By the time we got to where the people were, waves were crashing over the boat, and we couldn't land. And the people couldn't swim out to the boat because if you are in the water more than two minutes, you die.

"A wave swept our young navigator overboard, but an officer caught his jacket. By this time the launch was falling apart, and we had to go into the water up to our waists and struggle ashore. Fortunately we were close.

"The launch always lands near a base, and when we realized we couldn't get back to the ship, we went to one of the refuges maintained for stranded ice breakers. They are provided with three months' supply of food and change of clothing.

"AFTER THE NAVIGATOR was revived, he took charge, and soon had the crew cooking in the kitchen. Fifty or 60 of us put on old navy clothes, and that night we sat down to dinner that included wine. No Argentine would be caught dead without wine.

"We slept in bunks, and the next morning the ship tried to send out life saving craft to pick us up, but it was too rough. Finally they were able to get little dinghies to shore, which took us to the life boats.

"On the way to get in a dinghy Lyn and I ran across what we thought was an expanse of snow, but it was a lake, and it broke through. Luckily we had been instructed on how to crawl out. We spent most of two days wet.

"THE NIGHT WE got back on the ship we had a big party."

Julie then returned to Buenos Aires. Later, on another research project she went to Chile, where a memorable experience was visiting 50,000 Indians of a tribe that had never been conquered. She also went to Northern Argentina and spent a month in Lima.

On her way home, which she had not seen for three years, she met her sister Joan, who was on her way to the University in Puerto Rico.

Julie's contacts with South Americans were helped greatly because of the fluent Spanish she taught herself. She has also become quite an expert photographer. She had taken a seminar at Radcliffe in how to use cinema and still photography in anthropology, and with her $10-second hand camera took pictures in Peru that were exhibited at Harvard.

As for her future plans, Julie is working at a temporary job until she returns to Harvard in 1968 to work on a doctorate in anthropology.

"DANCE WILL BE my focal point," she says. "I don't dance any more. I want to write about its anthropological aspects and psychological and social funcitions for people of the same class as those I studied.

"It's unfair that only academic people learn these things. I don't want my work to be just a thesis read by professors.

"Eventually I want to write books and magazine articles."

JULIE TAYLOR, a Fulbright fellow recently returned from South America, where she did research in dance, shows her mother, Mrs. Joseph Taylor of Mill Valley, the Huayno dance of Peru. Her costume is that of an Indian of Duzco, old Inca capital. Mothers carry babies and bundles on their backs in this shawl. Braids worn down the back indicate unmarried status. Mrs. Taylor holds an Argentine gaucho doll, and on the table is a whale vertebra Julie pick-up on a Tierra Del Fuego beach.

By PATRICIA ZINN

Northern California's newswomen mingled socially for a change yesterday as the honored guests at a brunch given by California's First Lady at the executive mansion in Sacramento.

NANCY REAGAN

Following introductions to Mrs. Reagan by Nancy Clark Reynolds, assistant press secretary who lived in Sleepy Hollow while with Station KPIX, guests were seated at tables under the huge oak trees around the pool. Among the guests was Mill Valley's Wanda Ramey who has assumed her new position with Station KQED.

THE GOLD-clothed covered tables were centered with fall arrangements of orange and yellow African marigolds and brilliant coxcombs done by members of the Sacramento Garden Club.

The menu, which drew high praise from the guests, was planned by Virginia Stanton of Carmel Valley, a friend of Nancy Reagan's who has been a longtime writer on party entertaining for House Beautiful magazine.

It featured chicken teriyaki, broiled mushrooms, melons in ginger sugar, eggs in aspic with a shredded ham pate, avocado halves stuffed with mandarin oranges, pineapple ring and cherry, and date and nut bread. Drawing raves, too, were walnuts which had been toasted in a Worchestershire sauce and butter.

Marin Women

Legislation Urged For Working Women

Points of the new platform include:

LEGISLATIVE PURPOSES: 1. To elevate standards for the employed woman, to promote her interests, to create a spirit of cooperation, to expand opportunities through industrial, scientific and vocational activities, to secure equal consideration under the law and to establish conditions which assure both men and women the fullest opportunity and reward for the development of their capacities to the maximum potential.

2. To consider the place and responsibility of the employed woman as a concerned citizen in the complex democratic society of the United States, and to strengthen the role of this nation in world affairs.

ACTION ITEMS: 1. Propose and support legislation to amend the Constitution of the United States to provide equality of rights under the law to men and women.

2. Propose and support: (a) Legislation in the field of employment which provides uniform laws and regulations for men and women as to working conditions, rates of pay, and equal employment opportunity; and (b) uniform legislation for men and women in the areas of taxation and retirement.

3. Propose and support legislation to provide for uniform jury service and uniform qualifications in the selection of men and women to serve on grand and petit juries in any court.

POLICY ITEM: Support measures within the framework of the Constitution of the United States that promote peace and strengthen national security and make more effective the United Nations and such other international organizations in which the United States is a participant, without relinquishment of our basic freedoms.

The federation also discussed and placed emphasis on repeal of state restrictive laws that limit the earning power of women.

SHOWING, RAIN OR SHINE—

Brunch With The First Lady

WHILE WAITING for the bus which was to transport the women to the governor's offices in the state capitol , Nancy Reagan elected to show the paintings in the living and dining room which she and the governor had brought from both their ranch and home in Pacific Palisades.

Over the mantel in the living room hangs an Amen painting given to the governor by television's Chuch Connors and on the walls hang oils done by Claire Booth Luce and James Cagney. A Grandma Moses has been hung in the entry way and Old English prints accent the dining room.

Mrs. Reagan also pointed out the new white slipcovering she has recently had done on the sofa and chairs in the living room. After exclaiming "Oh, have you seen the electric trains in the playroom" and a 'I don't know what condition its in" the attractive first lady took her guests down the stairs for a look. Encompassing the room is an electric train which Nancy Reagan admitted their son Skipper "has to share with his father."

ON THE WALLS of this room are cherished mementos of the Reagans. One, in particular, is a framed photograph of the governor on a horse whose inked inscription reads "To Ron: If I live to be thousand I never want to go through this scene again — Lady Bird". Among others are a picture of the Blue Angels in formation autographed by the pilots and an original Peanuts cartoon sent the governor by Charles Schulz.

The newswomen then boarded a bus tour of the capitol and a personal tour of the governor's newly-decorated offices. Entering the governor's wing and proceeding down the new green-carpeted corridors, the women were captivated with the old prints, calendars and photographs which Nancy Reagan had found at Sutter's Fort and had framed.

AFTER LINGERING long over each fascinating print, the women joined their "tour leader" who had paused where the room number was 1088 and where the carpeting changed from green to red.

IN DECORATING her husband's private offices, Nancy Reagan's purpose was two-fold —the conference room is strictly California and the governor's own office is strictly Ronald Reagan.

In the conference room Nancy has chosen such early California antiques as a music box, clock from Sutter's Fort and is still on the lookout for an old hat rack for one corner. At this point the governor joined his wife and played a welcome on the music box.

THE GOVERNOR'S own office has a red and white color scheme. The personality of Ronald Reagan is reflected throughout from the horse paintings brought from the ranch, 18th Century antique lamp and even a jar of his favorite candy-jellybeans. Other mementos cherished by the governor include a redwood gavel, frontier hat and a shrapnel-shredded flag sent by a boy who flew it on his tank in Vietnam.

At the conclusion of the tour, the women asked Mrs. Reagan to urge her husband proclaim "Every Thursday be a day for the newswomen."

Marin teachers, counsellors and parents of the 1967 Girls State citizens as well as alumnae of previous years are invited to the rally, which will be preceded by a dinner for the high school girls.

Lawyer Comments On 'Unmarried Husband's' High Fee Complaint

DEAR HELEN:

The "unmarried husband" who said the high cost of divorce made him a bigamist needs an answer from the other side of the fence. Here's one from a lawyer — me:

DEAR UNMARRIED HUSBAND: I have several comments to make about your letter. First of all, laws have little to do with the cost of divorce. Court costs are ordinarily reasonable. Attorney fees are generally regulated by the Bar Association, charge.

If a lawyer is getting five thousand dollars for a divorce, with no children involved, I would like to meet him and see how he does it. Our minimum fee for divorce without children or property involved is $150, and costs will not run over $20.00.

Some states have unnaturally difficult grounds for divorce; but to blame your lack of one on cost is like hanging the wrong man. In the first place, either spouse can obtain a divorce without consent of the other. I doubt, on reading your letter, that you have ever discussed your problem with a lawyer — which would cost only a few dollars for consultation fees. Or, if you have, perhaps he has priced himself out of the market to avoid representing you. This sometimes happens. We aren't eager for divorce cases, especially the bitter kind.

I feel as though lawyers are blamed for some things over which they have no control. — H.C.M., A MEMBER OF THE NEW MEXICO STATE BAR ASSOCIATION.

DEAR HELEN:

I, too, am an "Unmarried Husband." My wife was a borderline mental case even before I married her, but I hoped her condition would improve. Instead it worsened, and her mother, the doctor and I agreed she must be institutionalized.

I have been supporting my mentally incompetent wife for more than 20 years. This I expect, but the laws of my state (New Jersey) do not recognize insanity as grounds for divorce. My wife's mother brought court action against me simply because I found a companion who has been everything to me that a real wife should be. I feel that I am doing no wrong. The law is wrong, and someday, it will be changed, but not in time to help us. — F.W.

DEAR HELEN:

I am the legal wife of one of these "Unmarried Husbands." My "husband" isn't accumulating any property or children now either, but he left me stranded with a mortgage to pay, plus all the expenses and problems of raising two boys alone.

I think that instead of blaming the women for all men's sins, people should consider what we put up with in this type of immature, selfish man before he finally deserts. He is the kind who can't stand to be tied down. He wants excitement, race cars, other women, and to be free as the wind. At least mine did. — LEGAL WIFE

DEAR HELEN:

The letter from "Unmarried Husband" was like finding a long lost friend. Several years ago my husband deserted me and our three small children. My family turned away from me because they believe I am at fault. They're wrong, but I'm too proud to argue. I scraped along on small support checks which eventually stopped.

A year later I met a man who had married at 19 to give a baby his name. He was never sure the baby was his, and two months later the marriage ended, but his wife refused a divorce. With no money to bring the matter to court, he lived as a single, yet married, man. My husband refused a divorce too, and while I was able to borrow enough for court costs, no law firm will advance costs for a contested suit. So here we were, so much in love, but not able to marry. Then one day I realized my sanity was at stake, so we made our move. "We 'disappeared'," and became Mr. and Mrs. in another state.

Maybe the vows we made to each other weren't legal, but they were made in our hearts. The five of us are very happy now, and little by little our prayers are being answered.

Two days ago my husband's legal wife filed for divorce because she is carrying another man's child. Maybe in time my ex-husband will tire of his cat and mouse game and set me free.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1967 — 21

HER TOY — A particular pillow is designated as Tirza's private property, but she sometimes feigns confusion about which pillow that is and grabs another off the divan.

SLIGHTLY SPOILED JAGUAR

Larkspur Pet Not Sure If She's A Dog Or 'A People'

DAMP ENTHUSIASM—German shepherds Guy and Monique take turns with an outdoor shower. Jaguar Tirza loves to swim, at the beach or in a private pool, but she leaves the shower to the dogs.

Story and Photos
By CAROL MARSH

Mrs. Terri Shanahan of Larkspur goes to sleep every night with a 95-pound jaguar at the foot of her bed.

Tirza, the slightly spoiled but very friendly Jaguar, has her own bed in the same room, but prefers to sleep on Mrs. Shanahan's bed, as would the average "puppy."

Tirza, according to Mrs. Shanahan, eats kibbled dog food and "isn't quite sure whether she's a dog or a people, but it has certainly never entered her mind that she's a cat." Tirza, 10 months old, joined the large family in a hillside home on Walnut Avenue when she weighed a paltry seven pounds, and was raised by a German shepherd named Monique, whom she believes is her mother.

A MENAGERY

The family also includes a 3-month-old puma named Sabrina, another German shepherd named Guy, a great Dane named Shadow and a dachshund named Grumpy, and Mrs. Sh anahan's five children, Rich, 16 and Jody, 7, and three girls, Dawn, 12, Kim, 10 and Shelly, 6.

Mrs. Shanahan owns an old 12-seat school bus for transporting the family, and they usually travel together. Tirza attracts attention by watching cars out the window of the school bus, and thoroughly enjoys it.

WATCHES TV

Tirza is kept on a 30-foot chain in the yard, but has free run of the house, and is taken for daily walks on a chain. She watches television with the family in the evening, and her "mother," Monique, has taught her how to open drawers in the kitchen.

She has been de-clawed and de-fanged, and has never hurt anyone, except causing a few bruises from over-enthusiastic wrestling, according to Mrs. Shanahan. In addition to the dog food, Tirza eats hamburger, raw egg yolk, cottage cheese, and anything the Shanahans eat.

Tirza "has never met a person she didn't like," Mrs. Shanahan said, but her friendliness tends to disturb strangers. So, she is kept on a short leash when Mrs. Shanahan takes her shopping or for a walk downtown.

Mrs. Shanahan said training Tirza to be a house cat required constant attention for months.

TRAINING TASK

The Shanahans once had an ocelot, but it couldn't get along with the children or the rest of the family, Mrs. Shanahan said. She was shopping for a puma when she found Tirza, and she acquired Sabrina recently.

But Mrs. Shanahan has found she does not nave the time to train Sabrina properly, so she plans to sell her. In the mean time, Sabrina gets along fine with the rest of the family, "but she's a lot more jumpy than Tirza — she's airborne quite a lot of the time," Mrs. Shanahan said. Sabrina will grow to about 85 pounds.

Tirza is the spoiled one of the family, while Grumpy, the dachshund, is the overlord. "When he talks, all of the animals move," Mrs. Shanahan said.

Schultz Calls For Review Of Tam Valley Planning

Marin County Planning Commissioner Niels Schulz Jr. told the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club last night that the Tamalpais Valley master plan, now several years old, should be reviewed.

He predicted that pressure from urban population expansion will be reflected in the Tamalpais Valley with an increase in multiple dwellings.

Architect Joe D. Allen, chairman of the club's building committee, received authorization to proceed with soil tests for building of a new community recreation center at the intersection of Marin Avenue and Tennessee Valley Road. The building, designed by Allen, would be 30 feet by 60 feet, of laminated wood, and would house most of the existing community groups. The club has appropriated $15,000 to cover the cost of the building, but soil tests and 4,000 yards of fill will add to the cost.

New Deputy In Tiburon

Deputy Ronald C. Spurrell, 23, has been assigned to the Tiburon sheriff's sub-station, starting last night.

Spurrell replaces Deputy Joseph G. Kelly, who has been transferred to the San Rafael office.

A sheriff's deputy for two years, Spurrell previously served in the Army as a medical battalion sergeant for three years. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

He and his wife, Margaret, and their three children reside in San Rafael.

KILLER WANTS TO KEEP DEATH DATE

Death Row Inmate Writes Reagan Claiming He Wants No Stay; It May Come Anyway

Convicted murderer Robert Lee Massey wants no one to interfere and stop his scheduled execution Tuesday in San Quentin's gas chamber.

He has written to Gov. Ronald Reagan insisting he keep his 10 a.m. appointment with the executioner. Reagan was told Massey has fired his attorney and ended "all legal proceedings on my behalf. I desire no intervention . . regarding by sentence of death."

But despite his wishes, his execution may be postponed whether he likes it or not.

Both men were convicted of the 1955 robbery murder of Mrs. Mildred Weiss, a San Gabriel housewife. Massey drew the death sentence while Vetter was sentenced to life imprisonment as driver of the robbery car.

Vetter's sentence, however, was overturned by the State Supreme Court and a new trial ordered. Attorney Roger S. Hanson believes evidence by Massey could be vital in the retrial.

But Massey has wired Supreme Court Chief Justice Roger Traynor: "If I am sent back to Los Angeles as a material witness I will not testify. I will remain mute."

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said at San Quentin today: "Massey made a three-and-one-half-hour deposition for the first Vetter trial and believes this should be sufficient.

"Massey is not begging to die. He has given it a lot of thought and has come to the conclusion it is the best way, after considering all the alternatives. To him, it is a rational decision."

Gov. Reagan will study the attorney's petition for a stay of execution for Massey and was expected to announce his decision later today.

Anti-Hepatitis Shots Are Given

Marin County Public Health Department gave gamma globulin shots to approximately 110 teachers and pupils Wednesday at Bolinas School after a faculty member contracted infectious hepatitis.

Almost the entire student body was exposed, Dr. Patricia Hallinan said, because the teacher's subject is taught to every class. Gamma globulin can prevent the disease or modify its effect, Dr. Hallinan said.

The only followup needed, she said, is waiting to see if anyone exposed contracts the disease. Incubation period is 15 to 50 days with an average of 25 days, she said.

Bird Watch Date

The pelagic bird watching trip to the Farallon Islands by the Marin Audubon Society will be Oct. 29, not this Sunday, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal. However, the boat is filled and no more reservations are being accepted.

Marin City Garden Tour Winners Told

In the low area, the apartment garden of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, 273 Drake Avenue; high rise area, a balcony garden grown by Mrs. Hattie Williams, 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 6; home area, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Kelly, 19 Pacheco Street, whose garden extends over the entire back lot and includes a doll house; hillside area, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Herbert, 69 Buckelew Street, for their hillside patio garden.

Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sibbaluca of 125 Drake Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gions of 143 Drake Avenue, Marion Taylor of 75 Park Circle and Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Barrow of 28 Burgess Court.

Mrs. Juanita Cobb, President, said judges considered all the gardens outstanding and they added "worthy mention" for gardens in all homes along Drake Avenue from the First Missionary Baptist Church to the firehouse.

The association meets on first Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Southern Marin Boys Club.

Bus System Held Commute Solution

A modern bus system should be set up immediately to provide better commuter service between Marin and San Francisco, the Marin Citizens Transportation Committee decided last night.

The committee, headed by Raymond Ryason of San Anselmo, passed a resolution calling for "immediate formulation of a modern bus system to be operated by the Marin Transit District."

FAST SERVICE

"Emphasis should be on providing a fast, comfortable ride and convenient loading points," says the resolution. "Marin Transit District must carry the present bus riders as well as attract potential riders now in cars."

The resolution urges all affected public agencies, most particularly the Marin Transit District, to "begin planning for an exclusive bus right-of-way in both Marin and in San Francisco, although initial bus service may have to be on existing streets and highways."

BEST PLAN

"Of all systems studied, a bus system is the most financially realistic now. A bus system will produce far less damage to the environment than will additional freeways. A rapid transit bus system is the one system of public transportation that might be implemented in time to do some good."

The resolution urges that a financial plan for a bus system be prepared, outlining various costs and estimated revenues. It notes that a definite financial commitment should be obtained from the Golden Gate Bridge and highway district as to its participation.

The resolution will go to the Marin Transit District, Marin County Board of Supervisors and the bridge and highway district.

Patient Care Workshop Set

Nursing personnel from throughout Marin will attend a workshop on the care of long term patients Thursday at the San Geronimo Country Club from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the Marin County branch of the American Cancer Society and panel moderator will be Mrs. Bernadine Monroy, head nurse of obstetrics at Marin General Hospital.

Speakers will include Dr. J. Lyman Hurlbut of Kentfield, Dr. John Spiegler of Greenbrae and Dr. E. Fritz Schmerl of Piedmont. Willmina Rose, assistant professor at the University of California School of Nursing, will conduct the final segment of the workshop.

Reagan Sued By Union On Convicts In Fields

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The California Labor Federation has filed suit against Gov. Ronald Reagan, challenging as unconstitutional his authority to use convict labor in California farm fields.

The AFL-CIO group asked Superior Court Judge Charles S. Perry yesterday for a temporary restraining order against the governor, citing Article 10, Section 1 of the state Constitution which says "The labor of convicts shall not be let out by contract to any person, co-partnership company, or corporation."

"Everyone from Governor Reagan on down must recognize that if there are crops rotting in any fields that are worth saving, they must be worth the payment of decent wages to save them," said CFL Secretary-treasurer Thomas L. Pitts.

"Any other view tacitly places the profits of a few growers above the plight of the people who harvest our crops, some of the most unfairly recompensed people in our state."

Judge Perry denied the temporary restraining order, but ordered the state to appear at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 16 to show cause why it should not be permanently enjoined against the alleged practice.

Spanish Theme Is Announced

Flower arrangements reflecting early Spanish days in commemoration of Mission San Rafael Arcangel's Sesquicentennial will be a feature of the 18th annual show of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin this month.

Entitled "Chrysanthemum Fiesta," the show will be Oct. 21 and 22 at the Crocker Citizens National Bank, Fourth and B streets in San Rafael. Registration closes Oct. 17.

Oakland Bank Sues Founder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The First National Bank of Oakland has sued its founder and former general counsel in federal court here, asking at least $1 million in punitive damages for alleged irregularities.

The suit filed yesterday charges that Oakland attorney C. Jay Hollander permitted purchase and sale of property at "terms less favorable to the bank....and more favorable to Hollander."

It said also that he "breached his duty" in obtaining the bank's headquarters building in Oakland, in lending $550,000 to builders Edward Davis and Thomas Holstein in Sunnyvale, and in the sale and financing of property at Walnut Creek known as Encino Grande.

Student Picnic

The third annual picnic for foreign students, jointly sponsored by the Rotary clubs of Marin County and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, will be held at the College of Marin, Oct. 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Rocket Expert Von Braun Defends Safety Criticisms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientist Wernher von Braun describes as "entirely normal" his past criticism of a major space contractor's product as potentially unsafe.

Von Braun and other top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration responded at yesterday's news conference to the release by Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., of a letter in which the scientist told the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation that its engines—used in the Saturn Apollo program—could cause an accident.

Ryan, in a statement issued after the news conference, accused the NASA officials of trying to cover up space program problems.

"An exchange of this kind between the customer who is buying the engines and the manufacturer who makes them is entirely normal procedure," Von Braun said of his letter to Rocketdyne.

"It is the only way the customer, representing the taxpayer, can be aware that he is getting his money's worth," he added.

NASA Administrator James E. Webb said von Braun's letter concerned matters often discussed by contractor and manufacturer. He said the news media sometimes blew such matters out of proportion.

Sea-dwelling leatherback turtles can reach a length of eight feet and weigh as much as 1,500 pounds, says the Miami Seaquarium.

Two Arraigned In Robbery Of Sausalito Shop

Two of four persons accused in the April 29 armed robbery of Bottle Shop in Sausalito were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

The pair, Frank Henry Brown, 23, and Robert James McFate, 22, both of San Francisco, is scheduled for plea entries at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

They also are accused of shooting at Sausalito Police Officer Robert Glynn following the holdup.

The other two defendants, Peggy Ann Priesman, 26, and Joseph Jarvis, were convicted of the robbery earlier. Mrs. Priesman was given a year in county jail and placed on four years probation. Jarvis was sentenced to five years to life in state prison.

Russ Scientist Will Not Return

EDMONTON, Canada (AP)— Boris Dotsenko, 41-year-old former chief nuclear scientist at the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences in Kiev, said yesterday he will not return to the Soviet Union and wishes to live in Canada.

Dotsenko came to the University of Alberta a year ago on 10 months' leave from his position as head of the nuclear laboratory at Kiev State University.

He said in an interview that he applied to the Canadian immigration department two months ago and was granted a one-year extension of his stay in Canada, plus a promise that his application for permanent residence here will be considered at the end of the one-year period.

Reagan Sued By Union On Convicts In Fields

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The California Labor Federation has filed suit against Gov. Ronald Reagan, challenging as unconstitutional his authority to use convict labor in California farm fields.

The AFL-CIO group asked Superior Court Judge Charles S. Perry yesterday for a temporary restraining order against the governor, citing Article 10, Section 1 of the state Constitution which says "The labor of convicts shall not be let out by contract to any person, co-partnership company, or corporation."

"Everyone from Governor Reagan on down must recognize that if there are crops rotting in any fields that are worth saving, they must be worth the payment of decent wages to save them," said CFL Secretary-treasurer Thomas L. Pitts.

"Any other view tacitly places the profits of a few growers above the plight of the people who harvest our crops, some of the most unfairly recompensed people in our state."

Judge Perry denied the temporary restraining order, but ordered the state to appear at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 16 to show cause why it should not be permanently enjoined against the alleged practice.

Spanish Theme Is Announced

Flower arrangements reflecting early Spanish days in commemoration of Mission San Rafael Arcangel's Sesquicentennial will be a feature of the 18th annual show of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin this month.

Entitled "Chrysanthemum Fiesta," the show will be Oct. 21 and 22 at the Crocker Citizens National Bank, Fourth and B streets in San Rafael. Registration closes Oct. 17.

Oakland Bank Sues Founder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The First National Bank of Oakland has sued its founder and former general counsel in federal court here, asking at least $1 million in punitive damages for alleged irregularities.

The suit filed yesterday charges that Oakland attorney C. Jay Hollander permitted purchase and sale of property at "terms less favorable to the bank....and more favorable to Hollander."

It said also that he "breached his duty" in obtaining the bank's headquarters building in Oakland, in lending $550,000 to builders Edward Davis and Thomas Holstein in Sunnyvale, and in the sale and financing of property at Walnut Creek known as Encino Grande.

Student Picnic

The third annual picnic for foreign students, jointly sponsored by the Rotary clubs of Marin County and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, will be held at the College of Marin, Oct. 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Rocket Expert Von Braun Defends Safety Criticisms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientist Wernher von Braun describes as "entirely normal" his past criticism of a major space contractor's product as potentially unsafe.

Von Braun and other top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration responded at yesterday's news conference to the release by Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., of a letter in which the scientist told the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation that its engines—used in the Saturn Apollo program—could cause an accident.

Ryan, in a statement issued after the news conference, accused the NASA officials of trying to cover up space program problems.

"An exchange of this kind between the customer who is buying the engines and the manufacturer who makes them is entirely normal procedure," Von Braun said of his letter to Rocketdyne.

"It is the only way the customer, representing the taxpayer, can be aware that he is getting his money's worth," he added.

NASA Administrator James E. Webb said von Braun's letter concerned matters often discussed by contractor and manufacturer. He said the news media sometimes blew such matters out of proportion.

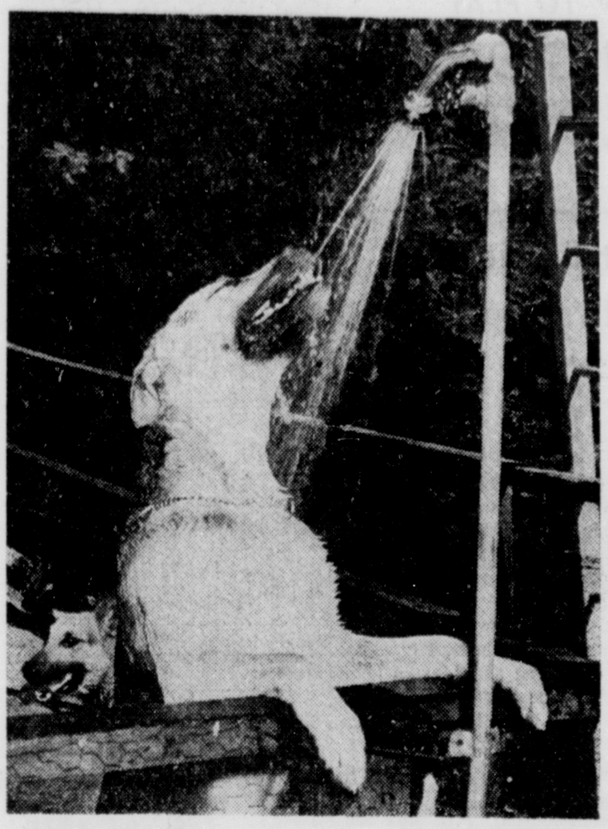
HER TOY — A particular pillow is designated as Tirza's private property, but she sometimes feigns confusion about which pillow that is and grabs another off the divan.

SLIGHTLY SPOILED JAGUAR

Larkspur Pet Not Sure If She's A Dog Or 'A People'



DAMP ENTHUSIASM—German shepherds Guy and Monique take turns with an outdoor shower. Jaguar Tirza loves to swim, at the beach or in a private pool, but she leaves the shower to the dogs.

Story and Photos
By CAROL MARSH

Mrs. Terri Shanahan of Larkspur goes to sleep every night with a 95-pound jaguar at the foot of her bed.

Tirza, the slightly spoiled but very friendly Jaguar, has her own bed in the same room, but prefers to sleep on Mrs. Shanahan's bed, as would the average "puppy."

Tirza, according to Mrs. Shanahan, eats kibbled dog food and "isn't quite sure whether she's a dog or a people, but it has certainly never entered her mind that she's a cat." Tirza, 10 months old, joined the large family in a hillside home on Walnut Avenue when she weighed a paltry seven pounds, and was raised by a German shepherd named Monique, whom she believes is her mother.

A MENAGERY

The family also includes a 3-month-old puma named Sabrina, another German shepherd named Guy, a great Dane named Shadow and a dachshund named Grumpy, and Mrs. Sh anahan's five children, Rich, 16 and Jody, 7, and three girls, Dawn, 12, Kim, 10 and Shelly, 6.

Mrs. Shanahan owns an old 12-seat school bus for transporting the family, and they usually travel together. Tirza attracts attention by watching cars out the window of the school bus, and thoroughly enjoys it.

WATCHES TV

Tirza is kept on a 30-foot chain in the yard, but has free run of the house, and is taken for daily walks on a chain. She watches television with the family in the evening, and her "mother," Monique, has taught her how to open drawers in the kitchen.

She has been de-clawed and de-fanged, and has never hurt anyone, except causing a few bruises from over-enthusiastic wrestling, according to Mrs. Shanahan. In addition to the dog food, Tirza eats hamburger, raw egg yolk, cottage cheese, and anything the Shanahans eat.

Tirza "has never met a person she didn't like," Mrs. Shanahan said, but her friendliness tends to disturb strangers. So, she is kept on a short leash when Mrs. Shanahan takes her shopping or for a walk downtown.

Mrs. Shanahan said training Tirza to be a house cat required constant attention for months.

TRAINING TASK

The Shanahans once had an ocelot, but it couldn't get along with the children or the rest of the family, Mrs. Shanahan said. She was shopping for a puma when she found Tirza, and she acquired Sabrina recently.

But Mrs. Shanahan has found she does not nave the time to train Sabrina properly, so she plans to sell her. In the mean time, Sabrina gets along fine with the rest of the family, "but she's a lot more jumpy than Tirza — she's airborne quite a lot of the time," Mrs. Shanahan said. Sabrina will grow to about 85 pounds.

Tirza is the spoiled one of the family, while Grumpy, the dachshund, is the overlord. "When he talks, all of the animals move," Mrs. Shanahan said.

Schultz Calls For Review Of Tam Valley Planning

Marin County Planning Commissioner Niels Schulz Jr. told the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club last night that the Tamalpais Valley master plan, now several years old, should be reviewed.

He predicted that pressure from urban population expansion will be reflected in the Tamalpais Valley with an increase in multiple dwellings.

Architect Joe D. Allen, chairman of the club's building committee, received authorization to proceed with soil tests for building of a new community recreation center at the intersection of Marin Avenue and Tennessee Valley Road. The building, designed by Allen, would be 30 feet by 60 feet, of laminated wood, and would house most of the existing community groups. The club has appropriated $15,000 to cover the cost of the building, but soil tests and 4,000 yards of fill will add to the cost.

New Deputy In Tiburon

Deputy Ronald C. Spurrell, 23, has been assigned to the Tiburon sheriff's sub-station, starting last night.

Spurrell replaces Deputy Joseph G. Kelly, who has been transferred to the San Rafael office.

A sheriff's deputy for two years, Spurrell previously served in the Army as a medical battalion sergeant for three years. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

He and his wife, Margaret, and their three children reside in San Rafael.

KILLER WANTS TO KEEP DEATH DATE

Death Row Inmate Writes Reagan Claiming He Wants No Stay; It May Come Anyway

Convicted murderer Robert Lee Massey wants no one to interfere and stop his scheduled execution Tuesday in San Quentin's gas chamber.

He has written to Gov. Ronald Reagan insisting he keep his 10 a.m. appointment with the executioner. Reagan was told Massey has fired his attorney and ended "all legal proceedings on my behalf. I desire no intervention . . regarding by sentence of death."

But despite his wishes, his execution may be postponed whether he likes it or not.

Both men were convicted of the 1955 robbery murder of Mrs. Mildred Weiss, a San Gabriel housewife. Massey drew the death sentence while Vetter was sentenced to life imprisonment as driver of the robbery car.

Vetter's sentence, however, was overturned by the State Supreme Court and a new trial ordered. Attorney Roger S. Hanson believes evidence by Massey could be vital in the retrial.

But Massey has wired Supreme Court Chief Justice Roger Traynor: "If I am sent back to Los Angeles as a material witness I will not testify. I will remain mute."

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said at San Quentin today: "Massey made a three-and-one-half-hour deposition for the first Vetter trial and believes this should be sufficient.

"Massey is not begging to die. He has given it a lot of thought and has come to the conclusion it is the best way, after considering all the alternatives. To him, it is a rational decision."

Gov. Reagan will study the attorney's petition for a stay of execution for Massey and was expected to announce his decision later today.

Anti-Hepatitis Shots Are Given

Marin County Public Health Department gave gamma globulin shots to approximately 110 teachers and pupils Wednesday at Bolinas School after a faculty member contracted infectious hepatitis.

Almost the entire student body was exposed, Dr. Patricia Hallinan said, because the teacher's subject is taught to every class. Gamma globulin can prevent the disease or modify its effect, Dr. Hallinan said.

The only followup needed, she said, is waiting to see if anyone exposed contracts the disease. Incubation period is 15 to 50 days with an average of 25 days, she said.

Marin City Garden Tour Winners Told

In the low area, the apartment garden of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, 273 Drake Avenue; high rise area, a balcony garden grown by Mrs. Hattie Williams, 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 6; home area, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Kelly, 19 Pacheco Street, whose garden extends over the entire back lot and includes a doll house; hillside area, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Herbert, 69 Buckelew Street, for their hillside patio garden.

Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sibbaluca of 125 Drake Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gions of 143 Drake Avenue, Marion Taylor of 75 Park Circle and Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Barrow of 28 Burgess Court.

Mrs. Juanita Cobb, President, said judges considered all the gardens outstanding and they added "worthy mention" for gardens in all homes along Drake Avenue from the First Missionary Baptist Church to the firehouse.

The association meets on first Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Southern Marin Boys Club.

Bus System Held Commute Solution

A modern bus system should be set up immediately to provide better commuter service between Marin and San Francisco, the Marin Citizens Transportation Committee decided last night.

The committee, headed by Raymond Ryason of San Anselmo, passed a resolution calling for "immediate formulation of a modern bus system to be operated by the Marin Transit District."

FAST SERVICE

"Emphasis should be on providing a fast, comfortable ride and convenient loading points," says the resolution. "Marin Transit District must carry the present bus riders as well as attract potential riders now in cars."

The resolution urges all affected public agencies, most particularly the Marin Transit District, to "begin planning for an exclusive bus right-of-way in both Marin and in San Francisco, although initial bus service may have to be on existing streets and highways."

BEST PLAN

"Of all systems studied, a bus system is the most financially realistic now. A bus system will produce far less damage to the environment than will additional freeways. A rapid transit bus system is the one system of public transportation that might be implemented in time to do some good."

The resolution urges that a financial plan for a bus system be prepared, outlining various costs and estimated revenues. It notes that a definite financial commitment should be obtained from the Golden Gate Bridge and highway district as to its participation.

The resolution will go to the Marin Transit District, Marin County Board of Supervisors and the bridge and highway district.

Patient Care Workshop Set

Nursing personnel from throughout Marin will attend a workshop on the care of long term patients Thursday at the San Geronimo Country Club from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the Marin County branch of the American Cancer Society and panel moderator will be Mrs. Bernadine Monroy, head nurse of obstetrics at Marin General Hospital.

Speakers will include Dr. J. Lyman Hurlbut of Kentfield, Dr. John Spiegler of Greenbrae and Dr. E. Fritz Schmerl of Piedmont. Willmina Rose, assistant professor at the University of California School of Nursing, will conduct the final segment of the workshop.

Bird Watch Date

The pelagic bird watching trip to the Farallon Islands by the Marin Audubon Society will be Oct. 29, not this Sunday, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal. However, the boat is filled and no more reservations are being accepted.

'Killing Defense At Bridge' Is Delightful, Instructive Book

It will give you valuable practice in working out the location of the unseen cards — and then picking the right play.

DIAMOND OPENER

West opens with the ace of diamonds, a very shrewd choice, and does some thinking as he looks at the dummy and his own hand. West should feel sure, Kelsey points out, that South has both black aces and at least ten black cards to account for his very strong bidding. Since there is no advantage in giving up, West must mentally assign South a reasonable hand which can be beaten.

A CLUB SHORT

South cannot be beaten if he has five clubs. East will then have a singleton club, which means that South can draw trumps without reaching the dummy. The situation is hopeless unless East has K-x of clubs.

West mentally gives his partner K-x of clubs and goes on with his thinking. If South is allowed to reach dummy with the king of hearts he will take a trump finessee and draw another round of trumps. The rest of the hand will be easy.

HOPES FOR SINGLETON

West's only chance is to find a singleton spade in the East hand; and West must act quickly to give East a spade ruff before declarer can draw trumps. This means that West must lead a spade at the second trick. West is on the right track, but he has still not worked out the exact lead to defeat the contract.

DUMMY WINNER

If West leads a low spade, dummy's ten will win and declarer will immediately lead a trump from dummy to take a trump finesse.

West finally sees that he must lead the queen of spades at the second trick! South wins and leads a heart, whereupon West must step right up with the ace of hearts to lead another spade. Take a bow if you worked this out with Mr. Kelsey.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠—Q 9 5 4 3
♥—A J 6
♦A 9 8
♣—8 3.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three spades.

This forcing jump raise shows strong trump support, with about 13 to 16 points, counting distribution as well as high cards. In this case you have 11 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton and 1 extra point for the queen of partner's bid suit or for extra trump length.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 6, the 279th day of 1967 with 86 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Born on this day in 1906 was American tennis champion Helen Wills.

On this day in history:

In 1955, 66 persons died when a United Airlines DC-4 hit Medicine Bow peak in Southern Wyoming.

A thought for the day — American diplomat Walter Hines Page once said: "There is one thing better than good government, and that is government in which all the people have a part."

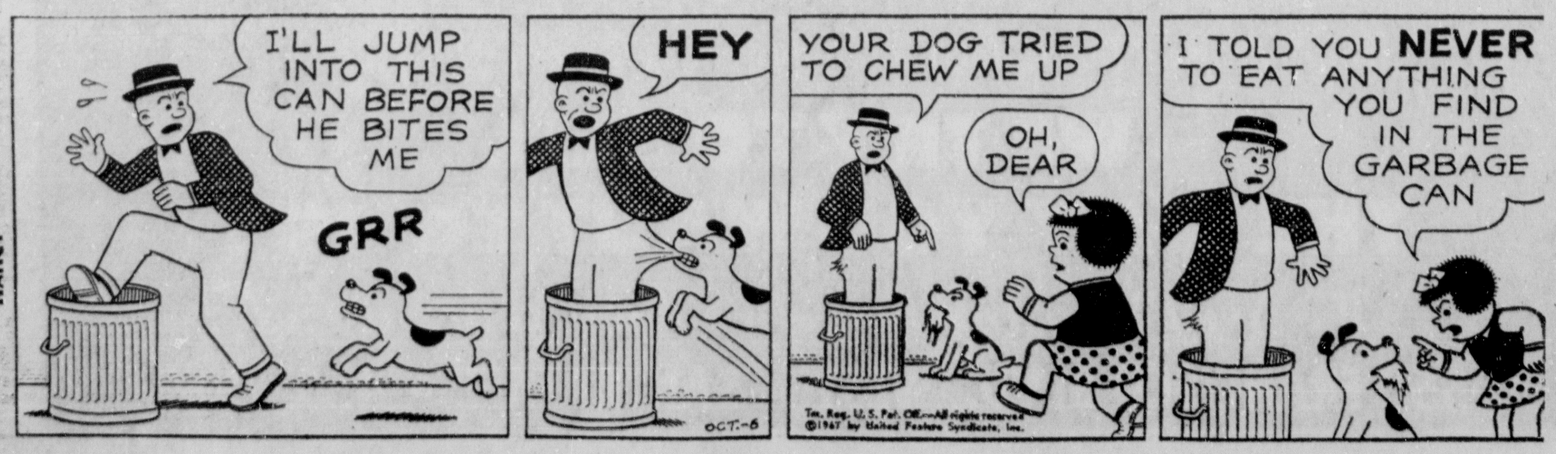
NANCY



ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 6, the 279th day of 1967 with 86 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Born on this day in 1906 was American tennis champion Helen Wills.

On this day in history:

In 1955, 66 persons died when a United Airlines DC-4 hit Medicine Bow peak in Southern Wyoming.

A thought for the day — American diplomat Walter Hines Page once said: "There is one thing better than good government, and that is government in which all the people have a part."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

'Killing Defense At Bridge' Is Delightful, Instructive Book

It will give you valuable practice in working out the location of the unseen cards — and then picking the right play.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three spades.

This forcing jump raise shows strong trump support, with about 13 to 16 points, counting distribution as well as high cards. In this case you have 11 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton and 1 extra point for the queen of partner's bid suit or for extra trump length.

DIAMOND OPENER

West opens with the ace of diamonds, a very shrewd choice, and does some thinking as he looks at the dummy and his own hand. West should feel sure, Kelsey points out, that South has both black aces and at least ten black cards to account for his very strong bidding. Since there is no advantage in giving up, West must mentally assign South a reasonable hand which can be beaten.

A CLUB SHORT

South cannot be beaten if he has five clubs. East will then have a singleton club, which means that South can draw trumps without reaching the dummy. The situation is hopeless unless East has K-x of clubs.

West mentally gives his partner K-x of clubs and goes on with his thinking. If South is allowed to reach dummy with the king of hearts he will take a trump finessee and draw another round of trumps. The rest of the hand will be easy.

HOPES FOR SINGLETON

West's only chance is to find a singleton spade in the East hand; and West must act quickly to give East a spade ruff before declarer can draw trumps. This means that West must lead a spade at the second trick. West is on the right track, but he has still not worked out the exact lead to defeat the contract.

DUMMY WINNER

If West leads a low spade, dummy's ten will win and declarer will immediately lead a trump from dummy to take a trump finesse.

West finally sees that he must lead the queen of spades at the second trick! South wins and leads a heart, whereupon West must step right up with the ace of hearts to lead another spade. Take a bow if you worked this out with Mr. Kelsey.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

Perhaps we are a bit premature, but we have had so many inquiries from people expressing an interest in this beautiful quiet and secluded area, that we have opened a temporary office, and are now taking reservations on the limited number of breathtaking view sites and secluded sites which are encompassed by trees. The new model homes are not built, and the streets are not paved, but the sites are ready. Wear your old clothes because it is dusty. We are sure that when you see this exciting setting, which we feel is outstanding and cannot be duplicated, you will be pleasantly surprised.

GLENWOOD FOREST

Perhaps we are a bit premature, but we have had so many inquiries from people expressing an interest in this beautiful quiet and secluded area, that we have opened a temporary office, and are now taking reservations on the limited number of breathtaking view sites and secluded sites which are encompassed by trees. The new model homes are not built, and the streets are not paved, but the sites are ready. Wear your old clothes because it is dusty. We are sure that when you see this exciting setting, which we feel is outstanding and cannot be duplicated, you will be pleasantly surprised.

Our salesmen will be on the site all day Saturday, Sunday, October 7th & 8th. During the following week by appointment. The phone at the site is 454-3768, or call 479-9611 for further information.

Both taught me at San Rafael High School, 'way back, so they must be old school teachers, but yet they don't look it. They're retired, though, and would kill me for running this ad as "old school-teachers' car," so let's say "retired school teachers' special."

Marin-Made Movie Has A Non-Premier

The movie, an anti-cigarette film for showing to fourth through sixth graders, was to have its preview before members of the Marin Medical Society at their monthly dinner meeting at the Meadow Club above Fairfax.

Dr. Gerald E. Hill, who was responsible for the project as head of the society's smoking education committee, gave a preliminary talk setting forth reasons for making the film. Then the lights went out. The projector was turned on.

All it did was burn a hole in the film. The reels wouldn't turn to feed the film through the projector.

SURGERY HUDDLE

The lights went back on. Physicians and surgeons clustered around the ailing projector, for all the world like an exploratory surgery conference on "Dr. Kildare" — except they didn't have on white coats.

An internist poked a finger here and there. A general practitioner flipped switches on and off. A psychiatrist wound and unwound the film reel. Nothing happened.

At last Dr. Hill announced that either the audience would have to wait until another projector could be brought from San Rafael, or the showing would be postponed until the society's November meeting. A voice vote was overwhelmingly in favor of postponement.

PREMIER DELAYED

So "Warning From Outer Space" will not premiere until Nov. 2. Dr. Hill said that people from other planets are tops in prestige with today's youngsters, hence it was decided to use them in the movie presenting a warning against the dangers of cigarette-smoking. "Warning From Outer Space" is intended for showing to children below the age that appreciates the committee's first — and highly successful — anti-cigarette film, "Too Tough To Care."

SLATE SELECTED

Nominees are: For president-elect, Dr. Austin W. Lea of Kentfield; for secretary-treasurer, Dr. Marjorie E. Balknap of Corte Madera; for California Medical Association delegate, Dr. Arthur R. Ablin of San Rafael; for CMA alternate, Dr. Albert E. White of Mill Valley; for directors, Dr. Leo A. Wagner of Novato and Dr. Hill.

Contributing Arrest Made

Sheriff's Lt. Harvey Teague said the defendant, of 55 Cazneau Avenue, allegedly harbored the youth following his June 20 walk-away. He was found in her car parked in Marinwood last Wednesday, said Teague, and taken into custody.

The officer said Vicki Hutchins then telephoned the center, giving a false name and saying she was mother of the youth and would pick him up. Teague said investigation disclosed her true identity and warrant for her arrest was obtained.

Lack Of Fish May Be Cause Of Sclerosis

WASHINGTON (SS) — Too much beef and too little fish in the diet may be a cause of multiple sclerosis, an incurable disease of the brain and nervous system which afflicts some 100,000 persons in the United States.

Results of a 5-year study suggest that a diet rich in fresh fish and seed oils, particularly for children and pregnant women, might reduce the incidence of the disease.

Multiple sclerosis is known to appear most frequently in persons living in urban centers in northern climates where where average diets are rich in animal protein and low in fish and vegetable proteins.

Conversely, in tropical countries and coastal communities where diets are rich in seafoods, soybeans, millet, and vegetable oils, multiple sclerosis is rare.

The researchers, Drs. Joseph Bernsphn of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Hines, Ill., and Leo M. Stephanides of Northwestern University Medical School, in a report in the British journal Nature discount theories that multiple sclerosis is an inherited disorder. Its tendency to be familial, they say, can be explained by the fact that members of the same family are likely to have similar diets.

Experiments on brain development of chick embryos verified that polyunsaturated fatty acids from fish and vegetable oils are necessary for normal brain development.

One of these in particular, a substance called linolenic acid which is more prevalent in the brain than other organs, cannot be manufactured by the body; it must come from food. Fish and seed oils are the principal source of linolenic acids.

If a pregnant woman does not eat enough of these foods, her child may be born with a structural defect in nervous tissue. A similar defect could develop in a child whose diet is deficient after birth.

Although evidence of a defect is unlikely to appear until development is complete, at about 14 or 15 years of age, it may lead to destruction of the fatty covering around nerve fibers which is characteristic of multiple sclerosis.

Cannot Share In Sweepstakes

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled today that parochial and nonpublic schools cannot share in state sweepstakes profits.

In a 4-1 decision, the court voided a state law that would have allowed the parochial and nonpublic schools to share in the sweepstakes profits.

"Since parochial and other religiously oriented schools appear to predominate among the nonpublic schools which are sought to be aided (by the new law)," the court said, "the major part of the scheme cannot be carried into effect because of the constitutional prohibition (against public aid to religious institutions)."

Christmas Seals Volunteers Asked

Volunteers are needed for the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Association 1967 Christmas Seals campaign, according to Mrs. Charles Banfield, campaign co-chairman.

She said typists, envelope stuffers and label stickers are among the skilled and non-skilled workers needed at the association's office at 206 Bon Air Center, Greenbrae.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Fast Ambulances Do Not Give Assurances Of Saving A Life

VAN DELLEN

We live close to a medical center. The most bothersome annoyance is the frequent wailing of ambulances blasting their way through traffic. Several of these conveyances have new sirens that make the loudest shrieking noise yet invented. The drivers apparently enjoy getting everyone out of their way, but I pity the sick or dying passengers being rushed to the hospital.

I may be prejudiced, having voiced my objections repeatedly to the use of sirens. The drivers of these vehicles assume that everyone hears the racket and is going to stop or pull over to the curb. Outside noises, however, are difficult to hear when car windows are closed and the radio or air conditioner is turned on. This explains why ambulances have crashed into moving cars, buses, and trucks at intersections and on the wrong side of the street. Ambulances have even collided with each other.

MANY PEOPLE seem to think that every accident or heart attack is an emergency, and that sustaining life depends upon split-second medical decisions and care. There are only a few real emergencies, such as controling a massive hemorrhage, opening up an obstructed windpipe, or restarting a heartbeat.

When life hinges on two or three minutes, it is doubtful whether an ambulance can get the person to the hospital in time. Furthermore, we assume that the hospital has been alerted and physicians are waiting at the emergency room door.

IT IS ALSO questionable whether a person who dies on reaching the hospital would have lived had he arrived three minutes earlier. A Flint, Mich., physician reported that among 2,500 consecutive ambulance runs the outcome was no different when the driver averaged more than 30 miles in the city than it was when he traveled at a slower rate.

CAESAREAN BIRTHS

Mrs. E. S. writes: I have been told that once a woman gives birth by caesarean, all future babies must be delivered in this way. Why is this?

REPLY

It is not necessary but there is always a chance that the uterus will rupture because of the previous scar. Many obstetricians feel the risk is too great and adhere to the dictum "Once a caesarean, always a caesarean." An English woman recently had her 10th child by caesarean.

HIGH TEMPERATURE

C. M. L. writes: Would a temperature of 104 degrees with a cold leave any bad effects in an adult?

REPLY

Colds due to certain streptococci may be followed in two or three weeks by Bright's disease or rheumatic fever. These complications are not common and usually occur in those with an inherent susceptibility to these organisms.

PLASTIC SURGERY

Mrs. C. A. writes: I'm a 65-year-old domestic and would like to have my face lifted. Would I have to stay in the hospital for this operation?

REPLY

Yes, depending upon the extent of the operation. If the work must be done why not arrange to have the surgery during your vacation?

KNEE PAIN

O. S. writes: Can anything be done to relieve sore knees in a man of 80?

REPLY

Yes, even though distress is due to arthritis. There are a number of hormones and pain killing drugs as well as physical therapy procedures that are safe for an elderly man to use.

ALCOHOLIC INTAKE IN DIABETIC

H. P. writes: I am a diabetic and my physician says I can have one ounce of Scotch or brandy or six ounces of beer twice a week. Will this harm me in any way?

REPLY

No, but I am sure your physician is not insisting that you drink liquor. He merely means that this is the amount of alcohol allowed in the diet.

CHILD SMOKER

J. C. writes: How can I make my 11-year-old brother stop smoking?

REPLY

It is difficult unless he can be motivated to do so. Hasn't your brother heard that smoking will stunt the growth, cause halitosis, or make him shortwinded? If he were older, he might consider heart attacks and cancer of the lung.

HEAT FOR PHLEBITIS

Mrs. R. Z. writes: I have phlebitis and one person tells me to apply heat and another says cold is better. Please advise.

REPLY

Heat is better. There is more to the treatment of vein inflammation than the application of heat or cold.

Today's Health Hint — Do not buy or use cracked or unclean eggs.

Lawmaker Fears Block To Undersea Exploring

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — United States exploration of the sea could be halted a few miles from shore if the United Nations were given control of the floor of the ocean, Rep. Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.) charges.

"The continental shelf is a national limit only if a nation can exploit no further (out into the depths of the sea)," Rogers asserted. "We shall be able to exploit further and no giveaway should stand in our way."

He made the charges in a keynote speech to the second International Buoy Technology Symposium meeting here.

Rogers' comments were underscored by the subject matter of the meeting — exploration of the world's oceans using buoys of all sizes as remote scientific laboratories to collect and transmit oceanographic data.

While relatively few such buoys have been placed around the world, marine scientists and engineers are planning systems that would place a grid or grids of thousands of buoys across the seas.

This sort of exploration, plus the manned sea floor stations and deep mining operations, would be curtailed by supranational ownership of the ocean bottom, Rep. Rogers insisted.

"American industry has invested millions of dollars in ocean research," he said. "The rewards of that investment and research should not be denied."

His warning came as part of a growing chorus of replies to the proposal that the U.N. own the sea floor, made recently by the World Peace Through Law Center at a conference in Genva.

Income from the mineral-rich undersea territory would go mainly for assistance to the less developed countries of the world, according to the Center's proposal.

The idea has received both vehement support and equally strong opposition in Congress. Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), one of its supporters, had declared that such a scheme might remove a possible point of future international rivalry or conflict while giving the U.N. its own source of revenue.

Reports that the Administration would support the idea when it was introduced in the U.N. by the government of Malta have been denied by the office of Vice President Humphrey.

The State Department said this country would encourage discussion, but it would not support efforts to have the U.N. take over the sea bottom.

An official position is expected to become clear during the U.N. debate when, the Vice President's office said, the U.S. will have some "positive proposals" to make.

Marin-Made Movie Has A Non-Premier

The movie, an anti-cigarette film for showing to fourth through sixth graders, was to have its preview before members of the Marin Medical Society at their monthly dinner meeting at the Meadow Club above Fairfax.

Dr. Gerald E. Hill, who was responsible for the project as head of the society's smoking education committee, gave a preliminary talk setting forth reasons for making the film. Then the lights went out. The projector was turned on.

All it did was burn a hole in the film. The reels wouldn't turn to feed the film through the projector.

SURGERY HUDDLE

The lights went back on. Physicians and surgeons clustered around the ailing projector, for all the world like an exploratory surgery conference on "Dr. Kildare" — except they didn't have on white coats.

An internist poked a finger here and there. A general practitioner flipped switches on and off. A psychiatrist wound and unwound the film reel. Nothing happened.

At last Dr. Hill announced that either the audience would have to wait until another projector could be brought from San Rafael, or the showing would be postponed until the society's November meeting. A voice vote was overwhelmingly in favor of postponement.

PREMIER DELAYED

So "Warning From Outer Space" will not premiere until Nov. 2. Dr. Hill said that people from other planets are tops in prestige with today's youngsters, hence it was decided to use them in the movie presenting a warning against the dangers of cigarette-smoking. "Warning From Outer Space" is intended for showing to children below the age that appreciates the committee's first — and highly successful — anti-cigarette film, "Too Tough To Care."

SLATE SELECTED

Nominees are: For president-elect, Dr. Austin W. Lea of Kentfield; for secretary-treasurer, Dr. Marjorie E. Balknap of Corte Madera; for California Medical Association delegate, Dr. Arthur R. Ablin of San Rafael; for CMA alternate, Dr. Albert E. White of Mill Valley; for directors, Dr. Leo A. Wagner of Novato and Dr. Hill.

Contributing Arrest Made

Sheriff's Lt. Harvey Teague said the defendant, of 55 Cazneau Avenue, allegedly harbored the youth following his June 20 walk-away. He was found in her car parked in Marinwood last Wednesday, said Teague, and taken into custody.

The officer said Vicki Hutchins then telephoned the center, giving a false name and saying she was mother of the youth and would pick him up. Teague said investigation disclosed her true identity and warrant for her arrest was obtained.

Lack Of Fish May Be Cause Of Sclerosis

WASHINGTON (SS) — Too much beef and too little fish in the diet may be a cause of multiple sclerosis, an incurable disease of the brain and nervous system which afflicts some 100,000 persons in the United States.

Results of a 5-year study suggest that a diet rich in fresh fish and seed oils, particularly for children and pregnant women, might reduce the incidence of the disease.

Multiple sclerosis is known to appear most frequently in persons living in urban centers in northern climates where where average diets are rich in animal protein and low in fish and vegetable proteins.

Conversely, in tropical countries and coastal communities where diets are rich in seafoods, soybeans, millet, and vegetable oils, multiple sclerosis is rare.

The researchers, Drs. Joseph Bernsphn of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Hines, Ill., and Leo M. Stephanides of Northwestern University Medical School, in a report in the British journal Nature discount theories that multiple sclerosis is an inherited disorder. Its tendency to be familial, they say, can be explained by the fact that members of the same family are likely to have similar diets.

Experiments on brain development of chick embryos verified that polyunsaturated fatty acids from fish and vegetable oils are necessary for normal brain development.

One of these in particular, a substance called linolenic acid which is more prevalent in the brain than other organs, cannot be manufactured by the body; it must come from food. Fish and seed oils are the principal source of linolenic acids.

If a pregnant woman does not eat enough of these foods, her child may be born with a structural defect in nervous tissue. A similar defect could develop in a child whose diet is deficient after birth.

Although evidence of a defect is unlikely to appear until development is complete, at about 14 or 15 years of age, it may lead to destruction of the fatty covering around nerve fibers which is characteristic of multiple sclerosis.

Cannot Share In Sweepstakes

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled today that parochial and nonpublic schools cannot share in state sweepstakes profits.

In a 4-1 decision, the court voided a state law that would have allowed the parochial and nonpublic schools to share in the sweepstakes profits.

"Since parochial and other religiously oriented schools appear to predominate among the nonpublic schools which are sought to be aided (by the new law)," the court said, "the major part of the scheme cannot be carried into effect because of the constitutional prohibition (against public aid to religious institutions)."

Christmas Seals Volunteers Asked

Volunteers are needed for the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Association 1967 Christmas Seals campaign, according to Mrs. Charles Banfield, campaign co-chairman.

She said typists, envelope stuffers and label stickers are among the skilled and non-skilled workers needed at the association's office at 206 Bon Air Center, Greenbrae.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

We live close to a medical center. The most bothersome annoyance is the frequent wailing of ambulances blasting their way through traffic. Several of these conveyances have new sirens that make the loudest shrieking noise yet invented. The drivers apparently enjoy getting everyone out of their way, but I pity the sick or dying passengers being rushed to the hospital.

I may be prejudiced, having voiced my objections repeatedly to the use of sirens. The drivers of these vehicles assume that everyone hears the racket and is going to stop or pull over to the curb. Outside noises, however, are difficult to hear when car windows are closed and the radio or air conditioner is turned on. This explains why ambulances have crashed into moving cars, buses, and trucks at intersections and on the wrong side of the street. Ambulances have even collided with each other.

MANY PEOPLE seem to think that every accident or heart attack is an emergency, and that sustaining life depends upon split-second medical decisions and care. There are only a few real emergencies, such as controling a massive hemorrhage, opening up an obstructed windpipe, or restarting a heartbeat.

When life hinges on two or three minutes, it is doubtful whether an ambulance can get the person to the hospital in time. Furthermore, we assume that the hospital has been alerted and physicians are waiting at the emergency room door.

IT IS ALSO questionable whether a person who dies on reaching the hospital would have lived had he arrived three minutes earlier. A Flint, Mich., physician reported that among 2,500 consecutive ambulance runs the outcome was no different when the driver averaged more than 30 miles in the city than it was when he traveled at a slower rate.

CAESAREAN BIRTHS

Mrs. E. S. writes: I have been told that once a woman gives birth by caesarean, all future babies must be delivered in this way. Why is this?

REPLY

It is not necessary but there is always a chance that the uterus will rupture because of the previous scar. Many obstetricians feel the risk is too great and adhere to the dictum "Once a caesarean, always a caesarean." An English woman recently had her 10th child by caesarean.

HIGH TEMPERATURE

C. M. L. writes: Would a temperature of 104 degrees with a cold leave any bad effects in an adult?

REPLY

Colds due to certain streptococci may be followed in two or three weeks by Bright's disease or rheumatic fever. These complications are not common and usually occur in those with an inherent susceptibility to these organisms.

PLASTIC SURGERY

Mrs. C. A. writes: I'm a 65-year-old domestic and would like to have my face lifted. Would I have to stay in the hospital for this operation?

REPLY

Yes, depending upon the extent of the operation. If the work must be done why not arrange to have the surgery during your vacation?

KNEE PAIN

O. S. writes: Can anything be done to relieve sore knees in a man of 80?

REPLY

Yes, even though distress is due to arthritis. There are a number of hormones and pain killing drugs as well as physical therapy procedures that are safe for an elderly man to use.

ALCOHOLIC INTAKE IN DIABETIC

H. P. writes: I am a diabetic and my physician says I can have one ounce of Scotch or brandy or six ounces of beer twice a week. Will this harm me in any way?

REPLY

No, but I am sure your physician is not insisting that you drink liquor. He merely means that this is the amount of alcohol allowed in the diet.

CHILD SMOKER

J. C. writes: How can I make my 11-year-old brother stop smoking?

REPLY

It is difficult unless he can be motivated to do so. Hasn't your brother heard that smoking will stunt the growth, cause halitosis, or make him shortwinded? If he were older, he might consider heart attacks and cancer of the lung.

HEAT FOR PHLEBITIS

Mrs. R. Z. writes: I have phlebitis and one person tells me to apply heat and another says cold is better. Please advise.

REPLY

Heat is better. There is more to the treatment of vein inflammation than the application of heat or cold.

Today's Health Hint — Do not buy or use cracked or unclean eggs.

Lawmaker Fears Block To Undersea Exploring

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — United States exploration of the sea could be halted a few miles from shore if the United Nations were given control of the floor of the ocean, Rep. Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.) charges.

"The continental shelf is a national limit only if a nation can exploit no further (out into the depths of the sea)," Rogers asserted. "We shall be able to exploit further and no giveaway should stand in our way."

He made the charges in a keynote speech to the second International Buoy Technology Symposium meeting here.

Rogers' comments were underscored by the subject matter of the meeting — exploration of the world's oceans using buoys of all sizes as remote scientific laboratories to collect and transmit oceanographic data.

While relatively few such buoys have been placed around the world, marine scientists and engineers are planning systems that would place a grid or grids of thousands of buoys across the seas.

This sort of exploration, plus the manned sea floor stations and deep mining operations, would be curtailed by supranational ownership of the ocean bottom, Rep. Rogers insisted.

"American industry has invested millions of dollars in ocean research," he said. "The rewards of that investment and research should not be denied."

His warning came as part of a growing chorus of replies to the proposal that the U.N. own the sea floor, made recently by the World Peace Through Law Center at a conference in Genva.

Income from the mineral-rich undersea territory would go mainly for assistance to the less developed countries of the world, according to the Center's proposal.

The idea has received both vehement support and equally strong opposition in Congress. Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), one of its supporters, had declared that such a scheme might remove a possible point of future international rivalry or conflict while giving the U.N. its own source of revenue.

Reports that the Administration would support the idea when it was introduced in the U.N. by the government of Malta have been denied by the office of Vice President Humphrey.

The State Department said this country would encourage discussion, but it would not support efforts to have the U.N. take over the sea bottom.

An official position is expected to become clear during the U.N. debate when, the Vice President's office said, the U.S. will have some "positive proposals" to make.

English Tennis Rebellion

LONDON (AP)—Britain's tennis rulers are gambling the future of the hallowed Wimbledon Tournament on a bold move to rid the game of phony amateurism and let the professionals compete as equals.

Success would usher in the biggest tennis revolution this century.

These were the stakes in yesterday's decision by the Council of the British Lawn Tennis Federation to defy international rules and abolish the distinction between amateurs and professionals.

Member clubs are virtually certain to ratify the change at a meeting in December. It will mean that next year Wimbledon and other British tournaments will be open to everyone in the general category of "players"—whether they compete for money or for fun.

AGAINST

"I sincerely hope that the British will think twice before taking a decision which could have serious consequences.

"Should Britain withdraw from the international federation it would expose itself to grave sanctions, including the suspension and cancelation of all tennis meetings on its own territory."

Jan Staubo, Norway's representative on the International Olympic Committee, said in Oslo:

"I feel that this question of amateurism should be solved in cooperation with other nations of the world. I do not believe one country will achieve anything by going it alone."

BLOCKED

Britain has been campaigning 10 years for open tournaments, but its proposals were blocked each time by an overwhelming majority of the 92 federations of the ILTF.

A two-thirds majority would be sufficient to expel the British federation from the LTF. That could leave Wimbledon and other national tournaments open only to British players and professionals who want to compete.

At the same time Britain could be banned from overseas competitions and the Davis Cup. It's a risk the British are prepared to take in the cause of ending abuses of international rules by under-the-counter payments to amateur tennis stars.

Tars Open League

October 6th may seem early for a mid-season-type "crucial" but tonight's encounter between the College of Marin and Sierra's defending Golden Valley Conference champion Wolverines shapes up as just that.

When the teams clash at Marin Stadium in Kentfield tonight at 8 o'clock, the winner's prize will be more than one more digit in the victory column. The club that takes tonight's conference opener will be in fine position to make a run at the league title.

The Wolverine squad that will try to derail the Tar express will bear little resemblance to the powerful aggregation that edged Marin 34-31 in Auburn last fall.

'FULL HOUSE'

While last year's Sierrans used a "full house" backfield geared to power football en route to an 8-1 season mark and unblemished 5-0 in the GVC, the 1967 edition likes to put the ball in the air, with freshman signal caller Ivan Lippi running the quarterback option and passing to a trio of fast receivers from the pro-set offense. Lippi's passes go to split end Fred Fisher, a 1966 GVC All-Star at defensive back, flanker Dan Miller and tight end Tom Banducci.

When running is needed, Lippi calls on left half Barney Hansberry, a 165-pound speedster, and fullback John Besio. (5-11, 183). The Wolverines like to run outside to augment their passing, capitalizing on their fine speed.

TARS STARS

The Tars will challenge that pursuit with a batch of good runners and receivers, including Honor Jackson, who made life miserable for the Sierra secondary last fall, catching 8 passes for 136 yards. Quarterback Bill Ingram can also throw to ends Bill Kilcoyne and Len Pieri, or

Golfing Quartet In Tie

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—America's Doug Sanders, Billy Casper and Gardner Dickinson and 22-year-old Englishman Brian Barnes went into the second round today as leaders of the 72-hole Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament—and the weatherman predicted stormy conditions for the next three days.

Sanders, of Tulsa, Okla., Casper, of Peacock Gap, and Dickinson, of Lost Tree Village, Fla., all shot four-under-par 68s in the first round and the only English player to match them was young Barnes.

Sanders said, "The old course at St. Andrews was nice to us yesterday. But I wonder how long that's going to last."

The sun was shining yesterday and there was only a slight wind as 19 golfers—11 Americans, seven Britons and New Zealander Bob Charles—began chasing the first prize of $55,000. That's the biggest first prize ever offered in professional golf.

$125,000 JACKPOT

Casper traveled the old course, with its par of 36-36—72, in almost par figures in practice and experts around St. Andrews rated him as the man to watch for the title—although he's a newcomer to this home of golf.

Sanders, the only American who has played St. Andrews before, likes the Scottish course. He missed winning the British Open Championship at Muirfield last year by one stroke behind Jack Nicklaus.

Peter Alliss of England and Bobby Nichols of Louisville, Ky., and Gay Brewer, the reigning U. S. Masters champion from Dallas, Tex., were bracketed on 69—one shot behind the leaders.

Quite A Forecast By Yaz And Lon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg, the big men on the Boston Red Sox, are a couple of pleasant fellows who like to kid with people, even going so far as making predictions in jest.

Now their crystal ball forecasts are virtually coming true in the World Series th the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was kidding around and told someone I would hit two homers and get three hits today—but I was only kidding," Yastrzemski said yesterday after the Red Sox squared the Series at one game apiece with a 5-0 victory in Boston.

MADE GOOD

Yastrzemski, the American League's Triple Crown champion, made good on his prediction, belting a pair of homers, good for four runs batted in, and then singling in the eighth.

Lonborg just missed on his prediction, losing a no-hit bid on Julian Javier's two-out double in the eighth inning. Gentleman Jim had to settle for a one-hitter, only the fourth in World Series history.

Lonborg hurled perfect ball for 6 1-3 innings, retiring 19 Cardinals in order before Curt Flood walked on a 3-2 pitch with one out in the seventh. Then Javier broke up the no-hitter in the eighth.

EXTRA PRACTICE

Yastrzemski, a one-man gang in the hitting department all season, took extra batting practice after the Red Sox dropped the Series opener 2-1 Wednesday. Then, he wound up pregame practice yesterday by working at third base in an infield drill.

Yaz connected for his first Series blast by lining a low fast ball into the right field stands for a 1-0 Boston lead in the fourth.

"I didn't take batting practice because there wasn't any need for it," he said. "When I take batting practice after one game, I don't like to take it before the next. It takes a lot out of me."

NAPPED

With runners on first and second and one out in the seventh, southpaw Joe Hoerner was summoned from the bullpen to pitch to Boston's left swinger. Yaz promptly unloaded on a 2-2 pitch and sent a booming shot into the bleachers beyond the Boston bullpen in right center.

In a similar situation just last Saturday, the Minnesota Twins called on southpaw ace Jim Merrit to face Yaz in the seventh inning. The result: a three-

Hector Practices What He Preaches

THE PRO — Willie Hector, whose Tamalpais Indians open Marin County Athletic League action tomorrow, is one high school football coach who practices what he preaches.

And he has a nasty "strawberry" on his dum-dee-dum-dum to prove it. He has a little trouble sitting down, you see.

"I find it relaxes me," the easy-going Tam coach said yesterday. "Also, it helps my coaching career. When I find things boring to me in practices at San Jose, then I eliminate those things from my practices at Tam."

Hector has a hectic schedule in his dual role of player-coach. After practice at Tam each day, he hops in his flivver and buzzes all the way to San Jose for evening workouts with the pros.

No Interference With Tam Job

"It doesn't interfere with my Tam job in any way," he added. "We play our high school games on Fridays or Saturdays and the San Jose team plays on Sundays. All traveling is done the day of the game, like trips to Seattle and Victoria. This Sunday we're flying to L.A. for a game that should decide the championship." San Jose is undefeated.

Last Sunday the rugged Hector tackled a guy and both went flying out of bounds onto an asphalt track. "I came out of it with a beautiful strawberry, but otherwise I haven't had any injuries," he grinned.

At 27, he is one of San Jose's oldest players. "We've got a lot of good young players," he said. "Several of the guys cut loose by the Raiders and 49ers have joined us. We should win the title."

'You Just Found Good Player'

Asked if he played any offense in addition to his linebacking duties, the amiable Hector laughed: "No. I'm too valuable on defense to play any offense."

And how did he come to play for San Jose? Hector explained: "Well, one of their coaches asked me if I knew of any good players. I asked him if they got paid and when he said 'yes' I told him, 'Man, you just found yourself a good player.' "

By joining the San Jose team Hector has made the complete pro football cycle. A former Tam and University of Pacific star, he has now played in all four pro leagues — NFL (Rams), AFL (Denver), Canadian (Calgary) and Continental (San Jose).

Lonborg's Costly Blister

The 6-foot-5 former medical student describes the troublesome injury as a "blister," though to the untrained eye, it looks more like a minute crack in the ridge of callous that launches Lonborg's awesome arsenal of breaking pitches.

The injury has troubled the big 22-game winner for the past several months.

"It goes away between games but comes back almost every time I pitch," he explained. "It began showing up around the third inning today. By the seventh, I really couldn't get a good grip on the ball for my breaking pitches."

"If I hadn't gotten the blister, I might have been able to get Julian Javier," Lonborg said.

Lonborg, who wound up with a one-hit, 5-0 victory that lifted the Red Sox into a 1-1 World Series tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, said he went to his two alternative breaking pitches in the latter part of the game—"the hard slider and the overhand curve."

He had retired the first 19 St. Louis batters in perfect order, ringing up four strikeouts in the process, when St. Louis centerfielder Curt Flood drew Lonborg's first and only walk of the game with one out in the seventh.

Chris Says 49ers Ready For Rams

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — You'd never know it by looking at the San Francisco 49er sick list, but coach Jack Christiansen expects all his troops to be ready for Sunday's battle at Los Angeles.

Guard John Thomas has a sore knee, defensive end Clark Miller a muscle pull, running back Gary Lewis a toe sprain, and Ken Willard a sore foot. But they'll all go against the Rams.

Meanwhile, in analyzing the Rams, Christiansen said that the defense was helping the offense pile up the points by interceptions. And the defensive line is setting up the interceptions for the defensive backs.

"That great rush is causing interceptions and the defensive backs are getting the ball for the offense in scoring position," was how he put it.

Christiansen also noted that Dick Bass was better than ever in leading the Ram rushers with 183 yards and a 4.9 average.

"With Bass running so well, Les Josephson and Tommy Mason also seem to be running stronger. The whole offense seems more consistent than in the past," Christiansen said.

English Tennis Rebellion

LONDON (AP)—Britain's tennis rulers are gambling the future of the hallowed Wimbledon Tournament on a bold move to rid the game of phony amateurism and let the professionals compete as equals.

Success would usher in the biggest tennis revolution this century.

These were the stakes in yesterday's decision by the Council of the British Lawn Tennis Federation to defy international rules and abolish the distinction between amateurs and professionals.

Member clubs are virtually certain to ratify the change at a meeting in December. It will mean that next year Wimbledon and other British tournaments will be open to everyone in the general category of "players"—whether they compete for money or for fun.

AGAINST

First European reactions were predictably unfavorable.

"I sincerely hope that the British will think twice before taking a decision which could have serious consequences.

"Should Britain withdraw from the international federation it would expose itself to grave sanctions, including the suspension and cancelation of all tennis meetings on its own territory."

Jan Staubo, Norway's representative on the International Olympic Committee, said in Oslo:

"I feel that this question of amateurism should be solved in cooperation with other nations of the world. I do not believe one country will achieve anything by going it alone."

BLOCKED

Britain has been campaigning 10 years for open tournaments, but its proposals were blocked each time by an overwhelming majority of the 92 federations of the ILTF.

A two-thirds majority would be sufficient to expel the British federation from the LTF. That could leave Wimbledon and other national tournaments open only to British players and professionals who want to compete.

At the same time Britain could be banned from overseas competitions and the Davis Cup. It's a risk the British are prepared to take in the cause of ending abuses of international rules by under-the-counter payments to amateur tennis stars.

Mails, Now 71 Recalls World Series Thrills

Walter Mails was in a nostalgic mood. The fact that he had just celebrated his 71st birthday, Oct. 1, had nothing to do with it. All old time ball players, particularly those who ever played in a World Series, get a trifle sentimental at this time of the year.

"There's nothing quite like the World Series," said Mails. "I had just passed my 24th birthday when I pitched the sixth game of the 1920 World Series and won it 1-0.

WALTER MAILS

"It was nine games then. Stanley Covelski won three and Jim Bagby and I won one each. Then something happened I never will forget. Our Cleveland teammates voted me and Joe Sewell just a half share for helping to beat Brooklyn.

"JIM DUNN, owner of the ball club, read the riot act to the team and said he was dividing his share, one half to me, the other half to Sewell. And Dunn later called me to his office and gave me a $3,000 bonus."

Cleveland bought Mails' contract from Sacramento of the Coast League in June of 1920. Sewell joined Cleveland at the same time to take Ray Chapman's place at short. Chapman was killed in the Polo Grounds that June — hit in the head by one of Carl Mays' submarine pitches.

"WITHOUT SEWELL and me, Cleveland never would have won the pennant that year," said Mails. "I was 8-0 and beat the White Sox 2-0 in the game that clinched the pennant. The Sox were half a game out with two to play when I made our lead 1½.

"Sewell was all class. I've forgotten what he hit but I know he was the toughest man in the majors to strike out. He played all 154 games the following year at short and struck out only twice."

Does Mails recall the incident in which Chapman was fatally injured?

"I'LL NEVER forget it," said Mails. "Chapman was one of the finest men I ever met. Carl Mays didn't throw at him. Chapman always crowded the plate, something like Frank Robinson does now. But beside that Chapman used to bend over in a crouch.

"Mays' submarine pitch hit him just above the left ear. The ball bounced back to Mays and we all thought it had hit Chapman's bat. Mays actually threw the ball to first and the umpire called Chapman out.

"BUT CHAPMAN never ran. He crumpled at the plate. When we reached him blood was coming from his nose and mouth.

"What they did would never be permitted today. Chapman was moved and revived and then under his own power he began the long walk to the clubhouse in centerfield. You know how long that walk was in the Polo Grounds — 475 feet from home plate.

"Chapman never reached it. He collapsed at second base. He never regained consciousness. It was tragic. His wife was seven months pregnant at the time."

TAM'S DEBUT

'Do-Or-Die' Grid Test For Novato

Unruffled and untouched Tamalpais Indians and battered and slightly touched Novato Hornets meet in a Marin County Athletic League football clash that is bound to be heavy with importance for both teams at College of Marin Stadium in Kentfield tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The Indians, who have some pretty justified high hopes for the league title, have yet to taste league action, but already they're a half a step behing co-defending champs Terra Linda and Drake.

The Hornets have seen action but they'd just as soon forget it after a 20-0 loss to Drake last week. Another setback would virtually wipe out any Novato hopes for a league title.

FINE OFFENSE

Tam coach Willie Hector expects his offense to work just fine, despite a 1-2 non-league won-lost record and not knowing very much about Novato.

"We don't worry about any one particular thing about the teams we play," Hector said. "We like to have our boys ready for just about anything."

"Monterey couldn't stop our offense," Hector said. "We haven't tried too many intricate things defensively yet. We'll probably work them in this week."

Healthy Indians means the likes of a bigger 195-pound Donnie Mackin, just beginning to hit the form that he showed last year as a hot soph signal caller. There's 195-pound halfback Mike Fowler, blasting fullback Ron Blasingame and speedy halfback Luther Brown who tore loose for 145 yards and a pair of touchdowns against Monterey. Not to mention Leroy Barrow, a top receiver and defensive halfback.

GENERAL COLLAPSE

Those are the people the Hornets will have to stop, and Novato coach Al Scott is not too happy with the prospect. He's still deeply disappointed about the Hornets' general collapse last week.

"We ran like we had glass in our shoes," he said. "They didn't hit or block. It's amazing that Drake didn't score more than they did."

TALENT TO WIN

"We're just working on hitting and blocking again," Scott siad. "I think we have the talent to win, but whether we can get up to do it is another thing."

The Hornets will have to try to put up some kind of pass protection for talented southpaw quarterback Russ Dillon and put some kind of balance in their attack. The addition of veteran halfback Larry Bresnan, off the injury list, may help that problem.

Bears Out To Equal '66 Record

BERKELEY (AP)—California is favored to beat the Air Force football team tomorrow and make the Bears' record three wins against a loss to Notre Dame.

That would equal the Bears' victory total for the entire 1966 season when they lost 7 of their 10 games.

The Air Force, which played to a scoreless tie against Oklahoma State and then was beaten soundly by Wyoming and Washington, is expected to depend heavily on the passing of quarterback Gary Baxter.

California has an air weapon of its own, demonstrated dramatically last week when sophomore quarterback Randy Humphries flung one more than 50 yards in the air and John McGaffie grabbed it off for a 77-yard scoring play that beat Michigan 10-9 in the closing minutes.

SAN RAFAEL-TERRA LINDA

Immovable Objects Collide In Marin League Football

Most people wouldn't, but things could turn out darned close to that when two top defenses play a Marin County Athletic League football game of Uncle Scrooge at San Rafael tonight, 8 o'clock.

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs, the stingiest team in the league so far, and the hard-hitting, undefeated Terra Linda Trojans, with whom defense is second-nature, battle it out in what promises to be a key league battle.

The Bulldog defensive unit has yet to yield a touchdown in three non-league outings. The Trojans have given up a pair — grudgingly. They didn't let Redwood see the endzone with field glasses in a 19-0 win last week.

BETTER OFFENSE

The Trojans have the better offense in piling up 65 points in three games while the Bulldogs have scratched for only four touchdowns, two of offensively.

"Herb had a bad leg for a while and he didn't tell us about it," Muster said. "It slowed him down, but he says it's fine now."

Muster knows that the Trojans, will give the Bulldog defense its toughest test to date.

"They're a good club," he said. "They have big, strong backs and they throw well enough to keep you loose. What we have to do on offense is hit and sustain. We don't pull that much anyway, so they won't have many openings to break through."

"I respect Bob Muster," he said. "He's been around this league a while, and although his teams sometimes don't look so great, they win ball games. You can't take anything away from them.

"They're tough to run against, and their pass defense isn't bad either. But I think we can do better offensively than they can, with Dave Edson passing, and backs like Keith Stirling and Rod Powell running."

Lucas will not have the services of Ken Murray, out for at least a week or more after suffering a mild concussion in a hard tackle on Redwood's Charles Edmondson last week.

DISTRICT TROPHY

The game may just boil down to emotions. There's this thing about a school district bell trophy, which the Trojans are keeping under wraps at the moment, thanks to a 27-0 win last year. There's a nautral rivalry between the two schools. And it's San Rafael's homecoming.

"I don't think our boys will lack incentive," Lucas said. "We might get confident, but we certainly won't be down."

PACIFIC-8 GRID

Upset-Minded Stanford Faces Unenviable Task

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Pacific-8 Conference clashes highlight the week's college football board, including Stanford at Southern California, but the most bitter figures to be at Seattle between Oregon State and the Washington Huskies.

In non-conference competition undefeated UCLA takes a gamble against Penn State back east, California entertains the Air Force, Oregon hosts Ohio State and Washington State journeys to Texas to play Baylor.

Oregon State, Southern Cal and UCLA are the only unbeaten teams in the conference.

The Trojans are solid favorites to turn back Stanford tomorrow night and retain their No. 1 national ranking. The Trojans' Steve Sogge and halfback O. J. Simpson, plus team size and speed, shape up as too powerful for an upset-minded Stanford, which has a 2-1 record.

Washington has a score to settle with OSU. The Huskies a year ago went into Corvallis fresh from upsetting UCLA, 16-3, but what they got at Corvallis was a 24-13 licking in a game even Washington admits was never really close.

Oaks Clobbered By Amigo Quint

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — With 7-foot center Larry Bunce scoring 22 points, the Anaheim Amigos beat the Oakland Oaks 125-104 in an American Basketball Association exhibition game last night.

Brandon Tire Wins Rec League Game

Gary Hughes drove in a pair of runs and Marlin Olsen hurled a five-hitter for the winners.

Golfing Favorite

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Marge Mason of Englewood, N.J., ahead by three strokes, was favored to win the 54-hole U.S. Senior Women's Golf Championship today. She had a total of 157 for 36 holes after yesterday's second round compared to 160 for Mrs. Hulet Smith of Pebble Beach, Calif.

A Divorce Without Marriage?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Race car driver Parnelli Jones testified in Superior Court yesterday that he never married Mrs. Grayce Marie Jones, who is suing him for divorce, and that he never said he would marry her.

Jones, 34, is being asked to pay $1,500 temporary support by Mrs. Jones, 35, pending trial of her divorce suit.

The 1963 Indianapolis 500 winner testified before Superior Court Commissioner John Leslie Goddard that he is worth $300,000, not $500,000 as Mrs. Jones claims.

Mrs. Jones, who became tearful during the hearing, said she and Jones were married in Tijuana March 4, 1959. They separated July 20, 1966. They have no children. Jones denied the marriage.

Jones last July 15 married the former Judy Koopmans, 27.

In addition to the temporary support, Mrs. Jones asks that a property settlement she and Jones signed in September 1966 be rescinded. The settlement gave Mrs. Jones $12,000 but she contended she signed it under duress and when intoxicated.

Redwood, San Rafael Girls Take Victories

Mails, Now 71 Recalls World Series Thrills

Walter Mails was in a nostalgic mood. The fact that he had just celebrated his 71st birthday, Oct. 1, had nothing to do with it. All old time ball players, particularly those who ever played in a World Series, get a trifle sentimental at this time of the year.

"There's nothing quite like the World Series," said Mails. "I had just passed my 24th birthday when I pitched the sixth game of the 1920 World Series and won it 1-0.

WALTER MAILS

"It was nine games then. Stanley Covelski won three and Jim Bagby and I won one each. Then something happened I never will forget. Our Cleveland teammates voted me and Joe Sewell just a half share for helping to beat Brooklyn.

"JIM DUNN, owner of the ball club, read the riot act to the team and said he was dividing his share, one half to me, the other half to Sewell. And Dunn later called me to his office and gave me a $3,000 bonus."

Cleveland bought Mails' contract from Sacramento of the Coast League in June of 1920. Sewell joined Cleveland at the same time to take Ray Chapman's place at short. Chapman was killed in the Polo Grounds that June — hit in the head by one of Carl Mays' submarine pitches.

"WITHOUT SEWELL and me, Cleveland never would have won the pennant that year," said Mails. "I was 8-0 and beat the White Sox 2-0 in the game that clinched the pennant. The Sox were half a game out with two to play when I made our lead 1½.

"Sewell was all class. I've forgotten what he hit but I know he was the toughest man in the majors to strike out. He played all 154 games the following year at short and struck out only twice."

Does Mails recall the incident in which Chapman was fatally injured?

"I'LL NEVER forget it," said Mails. "Chapman was one of the finest men I ever met. Carl Mays didn't throw at him. Chapman always crowded the plate, something like Frank Robinson does now. But beside that Chapman used to bend over in a crouch.

"Herb had a bad leg for a while and he didn't tell us about it," Muster said. "It slowed him down, but he says it's fine now."

Muster knows that the Trojans, will give the Bulldog defense its toughest test to date.

"They're a good club," he said. "They have big, strong backs and they throw well enough to keep you loose. What we have to do on offense is hit and sustain. We don't pull that much anyway, so they won't have many openings to break through."

That may not give stellar Trojan defensive ends Art Stackhouse and Bruce Kilby much to do, unless Rowland starts running and passing.

"I respect Bob Muster," he said. "He's been around this league a while, and although his teams sometimes don't look so great, they win ball games. You can't take anything away from them.

"They're tough to run against, and their pass defense isn't bad either. But I think we can do better offensively than they can, with Dave Edson passing, and backs like Keith Stirling and Rod Powell running."

Lucas will not have the services of Ken Murray, out for at least a week or more after suffering a mild concussion in a hard tackle on Redwood's Charles Edmondson last week.

DISTRICT TROPHY

The game may just boil down to emotions. There's this thing about a school district bell trophy, which the Trojans are keeping under wraps at the moment, thanks to a 27-0 win last year. There's a nautral rivalry between the two schools. And it's San Rafael's homecoming.

"I don't think our boys will lack incentive," Lucas said. "We might get confident, but we certainly won't be down."

PACIFIC-8 GRID

Upset-Minded Stanford Faces Unenviable Task

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Pacific-8 Conference clashes highlight the week's college football board, including Stanford at Southern California, but the most bitter figures to be at Seattle between Oregon State and the Washington Huskies.

In non-conference competition undefeated UCLA takes a gamble against Penn State back east, California entertains the Air Force, Oregon hosts Ohio State and Washington State journeys to Texas to play Baylor.

Oregon State, Southern Cal and UCLA are the only unbeaten teams in the conference.

The Trojans are solid favorites to turn back Stanford tomorrow night and retain their No. 1 national ranking. The Trojans' Steve Sogge and halfback O. J. Simpson, plus team size and speed, shape up as too powerful for an upset-minded Stanford, which has a 2-1 record.

The Huskies, after a loss to a good Nebraska team and wins over Wisconsin and the Air Force, will be playing their first conference game.

Washington has a score to settle with OSU. The Huskies a year ago went into Corvallis fresh from upsetting UCLA, 16-3, but what they got at Corvallis was a 24-13 licking in a game even Washington admits was never really close.

Sophomore Tom Manke ran and passed Washington past the Air Force last week, 30-7, ending a four-year jinx, and the defense wrecked the Cadets' running game.

Oaks Clobbered By Amigo Quint

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — With 7-foot center Larry Bunce scoring 22 points, the Anaheim Amigos beat the Oakland Oaks 125-104 in an American Basketball Association exhibition game last night.

Bunce, former Utah State star, also was top rebounder with 14.

Golfing Favorite

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Marge Mason of Englewood, N.J., ahead by three strokes, was favored to win the 54-hole U.S. Senior Women's Golf Championship today. She had a total of 157 for 36 holes after yesterday's second round compared to 160 for Mrs. Hulet Smith of Pebble Beach, Calif.

A Divorce Without Marriage?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Race car driver Parnelli Jones testified in Superior Court yesterday that he never married Mrs. Grayce Marie Jones, who is suing him for divorce, and that he never said he would marry her.

Jones, 34, is being asked to pay $1,500 temporary support by Mrs. Jones, 35, pending trial of her divorce suit.

The 1963 Indianapolis 500 winner testified before Superior Court Commissioner John Leslie Goddard that he is worth $300,000, not $500,000 as Mrs. Jones claims.

Mrs. Jones, who became tearful during the hearing, said she and Jones were married in Tijuana March 4, 1959. They separated July 20, 1966. They have no children. Jones denied the marriage.

Jones last July 15 married the former Judy Koopmans, 27.

In addition to the temporary support, Mrs. Jones asks that a property settlement she and Jones signed in September 1966 be rescinded. The settlement gave Mrs. Jones $12,000 but she contended she signed it under duress and when intoxicated.

Ollie Matson To Run Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The injury-ridden Philadelphia Eagles have called 37-year-old Ollie Matson, an all-time National Football League great, from retirement for "ready alert" for service.

The hard-charging back retired Aug. 13 to become a west coast scout for the NFL team, but because of numerous injuries in the Eagles backfield, general manager-coach Joe Kuharich asked Matson to come back.

"Ollie will work out with us and be prepared to join the active roster in event we feel it is necessary," said Kuharich.

"The no-hitter is the one goal that has eluded me during this fabulous season," the lanky hurler said. "I pitched in the All-Star game, I won 20 and I pitched in the World Series. I'll get that no-hitter some day.

JUST JOKING

"I was joking about the no-hitter and going for it after we got that 5-0 lead," he said. "Then when Javier hit that hanging slider, it was agony for me—like someone sticking a knife through me. I was sick.

"Then Ellie (catcher Elston Howard) came out and told me to bear down. He said we had two outs and let's get the next batter.

Lonborg had a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings against Cleveland earlier this year. That bid was broken up by Duke Sims.

Asked about his next start, set for next Monday, Lonborg said, "I intend to pitch the same way —except for hanging sliders."

The teams moved to St. Louis late last night and the Series resumes tomorrow in Busch Memorial Stadium when Boston's Gary Bell, 13-13, faces the Cardinals' Nelson Briles, 14-5. Both teams planned workouts today in the new St. Louis stadium.

told newsmen, "I've been fighting for 40 years to make the game clean and honest at all levels. Now I feel I've achieved my last ambition."

SHOCKED

Perry T. Jones, president of the Southern California Tennis Association, said in Los Angeles that he was shocked that the Wimbledon Tournament might include professionals.

The 79-year-old former Davis Cup captain said the United States first brought up the idea of open tennis in 1933. He recalled "the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association proposed it but we needed a two-thirds vote and didn't get it."

Jones said, "This is the first time any country has decided to buck the international body. I guess they're hoping that since the Australians and the French have indicated they would vote for open tennis they will also buck the ILTA. This could drastically change the concept of amateur tennis."

British tennis officials now will wait and see whether the other major tennis powers—the United States, Australia, France and South Africa—will join the rebellion.

Red Hot Run Of Striped Bass In Bay

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

They are here at long last. The hoped for runs of striped bass in San Pablo Bay came as they always have over the years.

One chap with whom I talked on Wednesday remarked that the "red hot" fishing in the San Pablo Bay came earlier than usual. I can't go along with that. As I stated in a recent column, the stripers have historically come in from the deep and set the red blood running rampant in anglers' veins the latter part of September and reached a crest during October, November and at times all through December.

You can bank on the fact that from now until the holidays, any human with strength enough to hang onto one end of a fishing rod will have better than a 50-50 chance of limiting out with fresh run bass.

Carl Bennett of the Rodeo Marina called in jubilation to tell the story in a few well chosen words. "Fishing with bullheads is red hot right now. All seem to be good sized, probably an average of 20 pounds, but lots of them between 20 and 30 pounds and several that hit 30 pounds. Nearly every angler limited or came within a fish of a limit. The party boats averaged two-plus fish per rod."

It seems that the great majority of fish taken fell for fresh or frozen bullheads, although it is rumored that fresh shrimp, as well as sardines and blood worms took fish.

The hottest action, according to Bennett, was during the last of the incoming tide and the first of the outgoing tide. The area that produced most and the largest fish was on the Hercules Flats in about 12 feet of water. Some trolling action was had in the deeper water, but nothing to compare with the yield on bullheads and other baits.

San Pablo Bay is not the only area of fast action. The good ship R.S.P. boated seven limits of striped bass while trolling hardware in Raccoon Strait. Caruso's at Sausalito verified the fast action with artificials at Raccoon Strait on Tuesday and Wednesday, but also reported some fancy fishing at the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Chances of catching sturgeon look very good. Johnny Sivera, skipper of the Dowrelio party boat, has caught sturgeon in the Suisun Bay just about each trip. For example: Johnny brought in a sturgeon for each of his passengers on Tuesday.

Charlie Schmelz of Crockett Harbor lamented the fact that only one boat was out Wednesday and it went to the Suisun Bay grounds. You can bet your last thin dime the Crockett boats will have bigger crowds and will fish the hot spot in the San Pablo Bay as soon as the word gets around of the really hot fishing in the Hercules Flats and adjacent fairly shallow waters. Hope you can arrange a quick trip over the weekend.

Harris To Manage Braves?

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Luman Harris, who once yielded the Baltimore baseball managing job to Billy Hitchcock, was expected to be named Hitchcock's successor as field manager of the Atlanta Braves today.

The Braves called an afternoon news conference at the St. Louis headquarters of the World Series. Braves Vice President Paul Richards previously had said the team would name a manager during the series.

Harris, who for years has been closely associated with Richards, has been the leading candidate for the job for more than a month although Hitchcock was fired only last week.

Richards, with Harris as a coach, began 1961 as manager of the Orioles, and when he quit, Harris finished out the year as manager. Actually, Harris was an interim manager and never was considered seriously for the job as Orioles manager.

In 1962, Harris followed Richards to Houston as a coach and Hitchcock took over as manager at Baltimore.

Harris has played, coached or managed under Richards in Atlanta, Buffalo, Chicago, Baltimore and Houston and this year was named manager of the Braves' Richmond farm club which won the International League pennant this year.

Perry T. Jones, president of the Southern California Tennis Association, said in Los Angeles that he was shocked that the Wimbledon Tournament might include professionals.

The 79-year-old former Davis Cup captain said the United States first brought up the idea of open tennis in 1933. He recalled "the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association proposed it but we needed a two-thirds vote and didn't get it."

Jones said, "This is the first time any country has decided to buck the international body. I guess they're hoping that since the Australians and the French have indicated they would vote for open tennis they will also buck the ILTA. This could drastically change the concept of amateur tennis."

British tennis officials now will wait and see whether the other major tennis powers—the United States, Australia, France and South Africa—will join the rebellion.

Terra Linda High School star Bob Bunnell set a new course record but defending champion Redwood swept team honors, 21½-37½, yesterday in their opening Marin County Athletic League cross country meet at Terra Linda.

Bunnell, the MCAL's two-mile and cross country champion, was clocked at 10 minutes, 52 seconds — 66 seconds under the course record.

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

They are here at long last. The hoped for runs of striped bass in San Pablo Bay came as they always have over the years.

One chap with whom I talked on Wednesday remarked that the "red hot" fishing in the San Pablo Bay came earlier than usual. I can't go along with that. As I stated in a recent column, the stripers have historically come in from the deep and set the red blood running rampant in anglers' veins the latter part of September and reached a crest during October, November and at times all through December.

You can bank on the fact that from now until the holidays, any human with strength enough to hang onto one end of a fishing rod will have better than a 50-50 chance of limiting out with fresh run bass.

Carl Bennett of the Rodeo Marina called in jubilation to tell the story in a few well chosen words. "Fishing with bullheads is red hot right now. All seem to be good sized, probably an average of 20 pounds, but lots of them between 20 and 30 pounds and several that hit 30 pounds. Nearly every angler limited or came within a fish of a limit. The party boats averaged two-plus fish per rod."

It seems that the great majority of fish taken fell for fresh or frozen bullheads, although it is rumored that fresh shrimp, as well as sardines and blood worms took fish.

The hottest action, according to Bennett, was during the last of the incoming tide and the first of the outgoing tide. The area that produced most and the largest fish was on the Hercules Flats in about 12 feet of water. Some trolling action was had in the deeper water, but nothing to compare with the yield on bullheads and other baits.

San Pablo Bay is not the only area of fast action. The good ship R.S.P. boated seven limits of striped bass while trolling hardware in Raccoon Strait. Caruso's at Sausalito verified the fast action with artificials at Raccoon Strait on Tuesday and Wednesday, but also reported some fancy fishing at the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Chances of catching sturgeon look very good. Johnny Sivera, skipper of the Dowrelio party boat, has caught sturgeon in the Suisun Bay just about each trip. For example: Johnny brought in a sturgeon for each of his passengers on Tuesday.

Charlie Schmelz of Crockett Harbor lamented the fact that only one boat was out Wednesday and it went to the Suisun Bay grounds. You can bet your last thin dime the Crockett boats will have bigger crowds and will fish the hot spot in the San Pablo Bay as soon as the word gets around of the really hot fishing in the Hercules Flats and adjacent fairly shallow waters. Hope you can arrange a quick trip over the weekend.

Harris To Manage Braves?

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Luman Harris, who once yielded the Baltimore baseball managing job to Billy Hitchcock, was expected to be named Hitchcock's successor as field manager of the Atlanta Braves today.

The Braves called an afternoon news conference at the St. Louis headquarters of the World Series. Braves Vice President Paul Richards previously had said the team would name a manager during the series.

Harris, who for years has been closely associated with Richards, has been the leading candidate for the job for more than a month although Hitchcock was fired only last week.

Richards, with Harris as a coach, began 1961 as manager of the Orioles, and when he quit, Harris finished out the year as manager. Actually, Harris was an interim manager and never was considered seriously for the job as Orioles manager.

In 1962, Harris followed Richards to Houston as a coach and Hitchcock took over as manager at Baltimore.

Harris has played, coached or managed under Richards in Atlanta, Buffalo, Chicago, Baltimore and Houston and this year was named manager of the Braves' Richmond farm club which won the International League pennant this year.

Novato Executive Building To Debut

A private showing of the recently completed $600,000 Novato Executive Building on Grant Avenue at Fifth Street, Novato, was to be held at 6 p.m. today by builder Eugene D. McGillicuddy.

The 20,000-square-foot two-story building has the same general appearance as the adjacent building constructed by McGillicuddy at Grant Avenue at Fourth Street. The two buildings together make the largest complex of offices in Novato.

The new building is constructed on each side of an arcade which is designed for pedestrian traffic. One section of the building is recessed to break the front line of the two buildings.

Tenants in the new building are Novato Savings and Loan Co., Western California Telephone Co., Ross Tankersley Real Estate, Carrow and Jones, attorneys, and Murray and McCormick, Inc., civil engineers.

Although the two buildings are the same height, the new building stands, three feet higher than the first because of a difference in ground elevation.

The front of the two buildings will present several landscaped area and steps rising from the sidwalk level to the arcade. In the recessed area at the front will be a covered directory of the building and telephone service.

Signs on the new building will be kept at a minimum with signs restricted to the same conservative pattern as the adjacent building.

"We have tried to give adequate signing both for the individual tenants and the directory, yet keep it in good taste," McGillicuddy said.

The upstairs hallway is bright with skylights giving direct daylight. They also have automatic electric lighting for nightime. The hallways in the two sections of the new building are connected with a large rustic bridge over the arcade. The west wing contains an elevator, as well as stairs.

There is still office space available in the second story of the building, said McGillicuddy.

The building has an unattached heating and air conditioning unit. This unit pipes water into each suit. Here individual units can be set for either heating or cooling to taste McGillicuddy explained.

The row of Olive Trees, a landmark along Fifth Street for many years, were largely saved. Three were moved into the large parking area at the rear of the building.

Refinery Plans Purity Project

NEW YORK (AP) — Humble Oil and Refining Co. says it will invest $10 million in antipollution equipment at its new Benicia refinery in Solano County.

The current issue of the company magazine, "Humble News," says the investment is part of a five-year, $50-million program to preserve clean air and water at its facilities throughout the nation.

Humble said it already has spent $100 million in the effort, most of it in the past five years.

Market Specialist Openings Foreseen

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Wanted: marketing specialist; capable of uniting and directing all marketing's varied functions."

This kind of help wanted ad may soon outnumber all other executive job searches, according to Marketing Communications magazine, which says the marketing "multi-specialist" now is the man most wanted by those seeking executive help. In the last two decades, says M-C marketing has grown more in importance than any other single function of American business.

Bank Announces Earnings Gains

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has reported nine-month earnings of $2.46 per share based on 1,898,363 shares outstanding compared with $2.41 on the same number of shares outstanding last Sept. 30, according to bank chairman and president Charles de Bretteville.

Net operating earnings for the nine month period totaled $4,678,697, a gain of $97,348.

American Cement Tells Northern California Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — American Cement Corp. has extended its marketing area into Northern California, James P. Giles, president, has announced.

Orders booked in the northern portion of the state already total more than a million dollars, Giles said, and shipments are now being made through a new facility in Stockton.

To handle marketing in northern California, the Los Angeles-headquartered company has established a new operating unit, the Sierra division, with offices in the Wells Fargo Building here.

America also plans to build a cement manufacturing plant with an annual capacity of three million barrels in Amador County, Giles said, but no specific time table has yet been developed. Since 1958 the company has owned 900 acres of limestone and clay reserves in Amador County.

The distribution terminal is located on 10 acres of land in Stockton, where it has convenient access to deep water, rail and freeway transportation routes.

Novato Executive Building To Debut

A private showing of the recently completed $600,000 Novato Executive Building on Grant Avenue at Fifth Street, Novato, was to be held at 6 p.m. today by builder Eugene D. McGillicuddy.

The 20,000-square-foot two-story building has the same general appearance as the adjacent building constructed by McGillicuddy at Grant Avenue at Fourth Street. The two buildings together make the largest complex of offices in Novato.

Tenants in the new building are Novato Savings and Loan Co., Western California Telephone Co., Ross Tankersley Real Estate, Carrow and Jones, attorneys, and Murray and McCormick, Inc., civil engineers.

Although the two buildings are the same height, the new building stands, three feet higher than the first because of a difference in ground elevation.

The front of the two buildings will present several landscaped area and steps rising from the sidwalk level to the arcade. In the recessed area at the front will be a covered directory of the building and telephone service.

Signs on the new building will be kept at a minimum with signs restricted to the same conservative pattern as the adjacent building.

"We have tried to give adequate signing both for the individual tenants and the directory, yet keep it in good taste," McGillicuddy said.

The upstairs hallway is bright with skylights giving direct daylight. They also have automatic electric lighting for nightime. The hallways in the two sections of the new building are connected with a large rustic bridge over the arcade. The west wing contains an elevator, as well as stairs.

There is still office space available in the second story of the building, said McGillicuddy.

The building has an unattached heating and air conditioning unit. This unit pipes water into each suit. Here individual units can be set for either heating or cooling to taste McGillicuddy explained.

The row of Olive Trees, a landmark along Fifth Street for many years, were largely saved. Three were moved into the large parking area at the rear of the building.

Refinery Plans Purity Project

NEW YORK (AP) — Humble Oil and Refining Co. says it will invest $10 million in antipollution equipment at its new Benicia refinery in Solano County.

The current issue of the company magazine, "Humble News," says the investment is part of a five-year, $50-million program to preserve clean air and water at its facilities throughout the nation.

Humble said it already has spent $100 million in the effort, most of it in the past five years.

Market Specialist Openings Foreseen

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Wanted: marketing specialist; capable of uniting and directing all marketing's varied functions."

This kind of help wanted ad may soon outnumber all other executive job searches, according to Marketing Communications magazine, which says the marketing "multi-specialist" now is the man most wanted by those seeking executive help. In the last two decades, says M-C marketing has grown more in importance than any other single function of American business.

Bank Announces Earnings Gains

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has reported nine-month earnings of $2.46 per share based on 1,898,363 shares outstanding compared with $2.41 on the same number of shares outstanding last Sept. 30, according to bank chairman and president Charles de Bretteville.

Net operating earnings for the nine month period totaled $4,678,697, a gain of $97,348.

American Cement Tells Northern California Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — American Cement Corp. has extended its marketing area into Northern California, James P. Giles, president, has announced.

Orders booked in the northern portion of the state already total more than a million dollars, Giles said, and shipments are now being made through a new facility in Stockton.

To handle marketing in northern California, the Los Angeles-headquartered company has established a new operating unit, the Sierra division, with offices in the Wells Fargo Building here.

America also plans to build a cement manufacturing plant with an annual capacity of three million barrels in Amador County, Giles said, but no specific time table has yet been developed. Since 1958 the company has owned 900 acres of limestone and clay reserves in Amador County.

The distribution terminal is located on 10 acres of land in Stockton, where it has convenient access to deep water, rail and freeway transportation routes.

Stock Market Closes On Mild Rise Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed today with a moderate gain for the second straight session.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional but some ranged up to 2 points and there were some wider moves among the more volatile issues.

Brokers said there was broad speculative interest in computer stocks. Gains by these issues included IBM 12, Control Data about 4, Burroughs about 3 and Scientific Data about 2.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Few Amateurs Qualified For In-And-Out Trading

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "I have four children and hold RCA; General Aniline and Film; Associated Oil and Gas. I've bought and sold stocks over the past five years, trying to help my children's future, but over this period I have realized no gains. Would it be better to continue this practice of buy sound growth stocks to build up my capital?" H.N.

A. It seems to me that your own experience provides the best answer to your question. Without a great deal of luck, a knowledge of trading or a competent adviser, few people are able to trade in and out of stocks and make profits. It is far more rewarding for the average investor to buy issues which have shown steady growth reflected in rising earnings, dividends and price over a period of time. Relatively conservative stocks in this category would have doubled your capital over the past five years and prevented a lot of wear and tear on your nervous system.

I advise you to start all over again with the sole objective of long-term growth. In line with this policy I would hold RCA, which qualifies in every respect. I would sell General Aniline, which is somewhat cyclical, and Associated Oil and Gas, which is speculative. In their place I would purchase Warner-Lambert, which has raised its dividend in every year since 1951.

Q. "What would be the safest way to invest $5,000 intended for a 'rainy day'?" N.A.

A. If you want absolute security and stability, you must rule out stocks, all of which fluctuate to a greater or lesser degree. I know of no better investment than Series E savings bonds. These yield 4.15 per cent if held to maturity and they may be redeemed at time after two months from issue date, without advance notice.
